Farms Struck by North Fork Flood Waters

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OMAHA (Neb.) July 30.—With the flood of Saturday receding, reports tonight presented the picture of devastation to thousands of acres of Nebraska farm land, swept clear of all crops, thousands of head of live stock lying dead and property loss conservatively estimated at $1,000,000.

Small streams, flooded by the cloudburst of Friday night, spread over Pierce, Wayne, Stanton and Cedar counties, inundating towns with from several inches to several feet of water and forced citizens to flee from their homes, reports saying that not a house in the town escaped being flooded. Randolph, Walthill and Pierce, Neb., had similar experiences.

Flood waters of the North Fork River reached Norfolk, Neb., early today, but were held back by sand bag levees piled up by laborers who worked all of Saturday and tonight.

Highway traffic in the vicinity of Norfolk has been suspended. Bridges are gone and roads are hardly more than mires. A number of towns in the inundated counties are without train service, thousands of feet of track having been washed out.

WATCHMAN INJURED AS LUMBER FALLS

Buried under a fallen pile of lumber last night at 1700 North Main street, George McCue, night watchman, 481 East Fifty-sixth street, was unable to extricate himself and only after firing his revolver for more than an hour did he attract assistance. He was brought to the Receiving Hospital and treated for contusions and abrasions.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pickford; Honeymoon at Del Monte

FIVE ARE HURT AS AUTOMOBILE JUMPS HIGHWAY

Miss Edna Kuhn, aged 24, of 5131 Sunset Boulevard, was instantly killed and five persons were injured when an automobile carrying a party of nine toward beach resorts plunged off the highway at Pico Boulevard and Cambridge avenue shortly after midnight this morning.

Miss Georgie Sewell, noted actress, who was to have appeared with her sister, Cissie Sewell, at the Orpheum tonight, suffered a broken collarbone. Rothstein Cornblatt, 621 Soto street, sustained a broken neck. Both are at Martin's Sanitarium.

Others in the party were Miss Jane Croxsen, 5131 Sunset Boulevard; Eddie Kane, Orpheum comedian; Mrs. Eddie Kane; Jay Herman, vaudeville team partner of Mr. Kane and driver of the car. Sam Liebster and William Bleet, of the Alexandria, were cut and bruised.

The car left the highway and turned over twice. Miss Kuhne's neck was broken. Her body was taken to the undertaking parlors of J. W. Todd at Santa Monica.

Santa Monica police are holding Jay Herman and Sam Liebster pending an inquest today.

MARILYNN WEDS JACK; ZIEGFELD IS MADE HAPPY

Jack and Marilynn have gone and done it.

And with the consent and approval of Flo Ziegfeld, too, it is reported, which makes it unanimous.

The darling of "Sally" became the bride of Jack Pickford yesterday afternoon at 2:27, and there was no one present or away who objected, for, according to Lottie Pickford Rupp Forest, sister of Mary Pickford, two days ago Marilynn received a wire from Ziegfeld extending his "every good wish for the very happiest marriage in the world."

A few seconds before 2:20 p.m. Jack Pickford, in company with his best man, Victor Hermann, motion-picture director, and the Rev. Neal Dodd, pastor of Hollywood's Little Church Around the Corner, entered the room where the wedding was to take place and made their way to the altar.

They were followed by the prospective bride, who appeared with Mrs. John Steele Sweeney, followed by Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks and Mrs. Carrie Carter, mother of Miss Miller's former husband. Arrived at the altar, Mrs. Sweeney made way for the matron of honor, Mary Pickford, who took her place to the left of Miss Miller.

"LET NO MAN PUT ASUNDER"

Promptly at 2:20 the Rev. Neal Dodd began to read the ceremony, and seven minutes later Marilynn Miller and Jack Pickford were pronounced man and wife. "Whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder," directed the Rev. Mr. Dodd.

There was little solemnity attendant upon the ceremony, which was performed in the big parlor on the west side of the Fairbanks home. This room was a veritable bower of flowers. Cecil Brunner roses seemed to predominate, though from here and there pepped Amrican Beauty roses, snapdragons, larkspurs, dahlias and lilies of the valley.

ALTAR BENEATH CANOPY

In the center of the room was a huge canopy of ferns, forming a wedding bower, from which streamed roses of various descriptions, ferns and silk ribbons. Directly beneath the bell-shaped canopy was an altar, decorated with an old Austrian scarf, in front of which had been placed a rare Venetian pineapple-silk rug, upon which Jack and Marilynn knelt.

No one member of the entire wedding party was visibly nervous, certainly neither Marilynn nor Jack.

During the ceremony the studio string quartet, composed of E. C. McCarter on the 'cello, C. A. Crandall on the violin, R. S. Martines on the violin and F. D. Pendleton on the base viol, rendered Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." This selection had been preceded by "O Promise Me," sung by John Steele, a Victor artist and vaudeville star.

"VIC" HERMANN AS BEST MAN

Victor Hermann carried the wedding ring, a richly beautiful thing of flexible platinum, fashioned with square-set diamonds, which he delivered to the minister at the proper moment. He, in turn, delivered it to Jack, who placed it on Marilynn's proper finger without undue hesitancy.

Following the fatal words, Jack imprinted a resounded kiss on Marilynn's pomegranate lips. It

In com- with the voters in Missouri States who are about to register their opinions, those in the Buckeye State are manifesting rather more interest in that phase of the impending political contest than in any of the so-called issues of partisan fabrication.

The voters of both parties seem to be interested in only one extraneous question: "Are you for perpetuating or modifying the Volstead act to permit a more satisfactory legal kick?"

ONLY REAL ISSUE

That is really all there is to the primary contests in the glorious State of Ohio. The Anti-Saloon League appreciates the fact quite as much as the unorganized opposition, wetting its chops in anticipation of moister days to come. To be baited in the land of its birth from which it has in theory, spread its tentacle of drought from ocean to ocean and the Canadian and Mexican borders, is most disturbing to Col. Wayne B. CIVIL WAR IN BRAZIL

Rebels Finally Put Down

Rio de Janeiro Shelled for Several Days by Fort Near Capital

BY CHARLES LUCAS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

A formidable rebellion has been put down in Brazil after desperate fighting, during which the capital, Rio de Janeiro, itself was shelled for several days. The rebellion ended by a pitched battle in the streets of the capital in a heroic stand reminiscent of Thermopylae. Yet only whispers of all this have been permitted to reach the outer world. It was only by the use of a courier that this story was sent by the stringent censorship and reached the United States.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 10.—(By Curier.) These stirring days of June and early July in the States of Pernambuco and Rio de Janeiro, Brazel, are rife with excitement and slaughter and heroism. The administration of President Epistacio Pessoa trembled on the brink of political ruin during two days of warfare and siege which ended only after terrific street fighting between government forces and a handful of gallant rebels.

The trouble started in Recife when the President demanded the installation of his candidate, Lima Castor, as Governor of Pernambuco. The people remonstrated that they had elected Enrique and clamored that the President and his nephews were milking the state. The police, a semi military organization, sided with the people.

The government at Rio under the guise, so Enrique's followers say, of maintaining order in Pernambuco, sent 3000 men into the State, two companies of machine-gun troops, and two gunboats to enforce the installation of Castro.

One thousand marines with machine guns were landed from the warships and sent to Cattete to guard the President's palace. A cordon was thrown around the palace with machine guns trained on the boulevards.

The cables were seized by order of the government and not even the official dispatches of ambassadors or other representatives of foreign governments were permitted to pass over the wires.

Meanwhile the heavy guns at Fort Copacabana continued to boom. At 5 p.m. the batteries of the forts in the harbor began to return the fire. The rebels silenced the battery guns with four direct hits. Warships steamed into the fray against the rebels, but their fire failed to dent the rock walls of the fort.

MUST THROTTLE SOVIET FOR GOOD OF EUROPE

General Ludendorff Declares Reds Are Chief Menace; Would Restore Monarchy

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, July 30.—"The salvation of Europe lies in smashing Bolshevism, and with America's help in bringing Russia back into the society of nations," Gen. Ludendorff declared after the failure of The Hague conference. He said modification of the reparations demands is necessary to prevent the financial collapse of Germany. Germany's welfare, in his opinion, lies in restoring the monarchy in conformity with the Bismarckian model.

Although living in a peaceful villa in the foothills of Bavarian Tyrol, Gen. Ludendorff takes an active part in the nationalist movement in Germany and now, as a marshal of economic statistics instead of men, he is convinced that Germany's hope for recovery has ceased to be purely a military problem.

"Should the German people support the republic, or seek to bring about the return of a monarchy?" the correspondent asked Gen. Ludendorff.

"I am convinced," he replied, "that a monarchy is a form of State better adapted to the character of the German people than a republic. Many Germans have not forgotten the bloom of prosperity in the empire which Bismarck created. But in my opinion the question whether Germany will adopt a republican or monarchistic form of government is secondary to the necessity of protecting Europe from economic collapse and Bolshevism."

ALLIES AID REDS

Gen. Ludendorff believes that the reparations demands of the Allies tend to strengthen Bolshevism. "Germany's efforts to fulfill the reparations demands have caused a rapid slump in the mark," he said.

"This depreciation is inevitable, even though the printing of banknotes is stopped. The depreciation is a symptom of overburdened German finances. Should this continue the mark is bound to decline still further. It is in consequence of this depreciation in the mark that Germany, formerly among the largest buyers of wares from countries with high currency, is now falling away in these markets. Also Germany, with cheap marks and low costs of production, can underbid countries with high currency. This undoubtedly has caused unemployment in countries in which the dollar and pound obtain. These results have been accentuated by other countries with

GLAND CURE FOR LENIN CONSIDERED

Communists' Specialists Discuss Methods to Save Reason of Their Premier

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIGA, July 30.—From unquestionable authority in Moscow it is learned that a group of specialists attending Nikolai Lenin are now discussing a possibility of providing the Bolshevik Premier with new glands in an effort to save his reason. Should the projected operation be approved it will not take place for six months, as this period is necessary to complete a cure for the disease from which Lenin is now suffering.

Thus far the gland operation has only been discussed in the highest circles in Moscow, where there is a wide difference in opinion among the Communists as to whether or not the operation should take place.

Some contend that Lenin should not be permitted to recover and regain control of the government because his new economic policies proved a failure. Others argue that since American millionaires are promoting activities in capitalistic countries the Communists should be aided to prolong theirs in Communist states.

Since Lenin's illness first became known he has been reported as suffering from every kind of disease from dementia praecox to gout and stomach trouble resulting from overeating.

STRIKE END IS IN SIGHT

President's Plan Shows Way

Rail Executives Expected to Accept Proposal Under "Protest"

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 30.—President Harding's peace plan for the rail strike will be "accepted under protest" by the 149 railroad executives when they meet Tuesday in New York.

This assurance, obtained here tonight from a spokesman of undisputed authority representing the "die-hard" faction of the rail executives, appears to virtually confirm the belief that the conference of the coming week will mark the end of the shopmen's walkout, especially in view of the reported willingness of the shopmen to agree.

As firm as ever in their conviction that Mr. Harding's basis of settlement, particularly as it concerns the seniority question, is wrong in principle, the railroad heads, nevertheless, will issue a formal statement bowing to what they interpret as nothing less than a command from the President.

Whether they will give expression to their views in the statement of acceptance is a question that will have to be threshed out at the meeting Tuesday in New York. The administration is not likely to concern itself much over this phase of the situation, however. President Harding's aim, as stated by the White House, from the beginning has been to end the strike and keep the railroads running and not undertake to deprive those interested from free expression of their views.

FAVOR ACCEPTANCE

T. De Witt Cuyler, president of the American Association of Railway Executives, will present the President's plan to the rail executives, probably without recommendation and will undertake to furnish the conference with a plain, unbiased statement of Mr. Harding's views. Mr. Cuyler, it became known tonight, contrary to the impression heretofore prevailing in Washington, will not join with President Loree of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, in an aggressive campaign against acceptance of Mr. Harding's plan. Neither will W. W. Atterbury, operating head of the Pennsylvania system, according to information from the most responsible sources, Cuyler and Atterbury were being counted up to help Loree win

PLUNGES TO DEATH

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, July 30.—John Blue, aged 25, cattle driver, was instantly killed and Jesse Shaw, 21, rancher, received injuries from which he will probably die when a car driven by John Derza plunged over an embankment into a ravine twenty feet below, sixteen miles north of Sacramento, late tonight near the Elkhorn ferry. Deroza said he was blinded by the lights from an approaching automobile. According to physicians, Shaw has a fractured skull and will not live until morning.

RESCUE MINERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WINNEMUCCA (Nev.) July 30.—After being imprisoned for four hours in the tunnel of the burning National mine, seventy-five miles north of here, today, Superintendent Joseph Bolam and Peter Madison were released, not much worse for their experience, according to a telephone message tonight.

The message stated that the fire had been put under control and that the damage would not be great.

HIKERS FIND BODY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—In an abandoned shaft near Mussel Rock, on the Ocean Shore Railroad line, near here, today, hikers found the body of a man about 65 years old who apparently had been dead several months. He wore corduroy trousers, tan shoes, a black muffler marked with the initials "H. H." and in his coat appeared the mark of W. P. Hobson, San Jose tailor. The authorities are investigating.

SIX HURT IN FIRE

Overcome by smoke and injured in other ways, one fire captain and five other firemen were brought to the Receiving Hospital after 12 o'clock last night from the scene of the Pioneer Truck Company fire, Jackson and Alameda streets. Capt. John E. Renston had several ribs broken when he fell through a hatchway. Others treated for minor injuries were Firemen John L. Young, William J. Kieth, James J. Cramer, Ernest G. Miller and Clayton F. Blackwell. The fire was under control, though not extinguished, at 8 o'clock last night.

UNION HEADS SENTENCED

Thirty-four Convictions in Two Months

Bombing, Bribery, Perjury, Conspiracy in List

Heavy Fines Often Joined to Prison Terms

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 30.—The path of the union labor leader defendants within the last two months has become much more stony and frequently is beset with convictions, records recently compiled by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe reveal.

Since June 5, a total of thirty-four convictions growing out of the "reign of terror" union labor ring reported to be in existence by the State have been obtained. The convictions range from bombing and conspiracy to jury bribing and perjury. Some of the sentences are coupled with fines.

The list was compiled by the State's Attorney's office to indicate the results of the recent special appropriation of $100,000 by the county commissioners. With the appropriation high class special prosecutors have been hired and a host of cases rushed to trial.

The list of convictions is as follows:

Fred "Frenchy" Mader, president Chicago building trades council conspiracy, one to five years and $1000 fine.

Otto Seefelt, business agent carpenter's union, conspiracy, seven months in County Jail.

William Brims, former president and business agent carpenters' union, conspiracy, seven months in jail.

John P. Norton witness in the Walsh case, perjury, one to fourteen years.

Harry Bartlett, bombing, one to five years.

James Sweeney, bombing, one to five years.

Richard Burke, bombing, one to twenty years.

James Barry, bombing, one to twenty years.

William Smith, bombing—Chester State Hospital for the criminal insane, Menard, Ill.

Francis J. Mahoney, attempt to bribe juror in the Simon O'Donnell case, three months in the house of correction and $1000 fine.

Edwin E. Graves, international president upholsterers' union, conspiracy, one to five years and $2000 fine.

Raymond F. Hull, local president upholsterers' union, conspiracy, one to five years and $2000 fine.

William F. Quesse, president Chicago Flat Janitors' Union, conspiracy, one to five years.

John D. Sullivan, secretary and treasurer Chicago Flat Janitors' Union, conspiracy, one to five years.

Claude F. Peters, business agent, Chicago Flat Janitors' Union, conspiracy, one to five years.

Eugene Fosdick, business agent Chicago Flat Janitors' Union, conspiracy, one to five years.

Robert Osterberg, business agent Chicago Flat Janitors' Union, conspiracy, one to five years.

Peter Lagey, business agent Chicago Flat Janitors' Union, conspiracy, one to five years.

R. Anderson, business agent Chicago Flat Janitors' Union, conspiracy, one to five years.

John Mattis, business agent Chicago Flat Janitors' Union, conspiracy, one to five years.

Carl Helfertson, president bakers' union, conspiracy, $250 fine.

George Kainz, business agent bakers' union, conspiracy, $250 fine.

Theodore Lodin, juror in first bribery case, perjury, one to fourteen years.

Michael J. Doolan, attempt to bribe juror in Simon O'Donnell case, three months in house of correction and $6000 fine.

Stanley Wolczak, business agent meat cutters' union, conspiracy, one to five years and $2000 fine.

Theodore J. Vind, president labor council, conspiracy, one to five years and $14,000 fine.

Emma J. Pipes, business agent cooks' and waitresses' union, conspiracy—one to five years and $2000 fine.

Orville K. Blevins, business agent teamsters' union, conspiracy—one to five years and $2000 fine.

Edward J. Boatman, business agent teamsters' union, conspiracy—one to five years.

Frank Ambirski, business agent meat cutters' union, conspiracy—one to five years and $1000 fine.

Gus Rath, business agent bartenders' union, conspiracy—one to five years and $1000 fine.

Henry J. Smith, juror in the Simon O'Donnell case, bribery—pleaded guilty to bribery and his case continued for sentence.

Michael Clark, conspiracy to bribe juror in O'Donnell case—$1000 fine.

Bert Snyder, conspiracy to bribe juror in O'Donnell case—$250 fine.

Chief among the remaining cases now on trial are those against "Big Tim" Murphy, Fred Mader, "Con" Shea, Daniel McCarthy and John Miller, accused of conspiracy in the murder of Police Lieut. Terrence Lyons.

AMERICAN ORDERS AID BRITISH MINERS

REGION STAGNANT WEEK AGO HUMS WITH ACTIVITY

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, July 30. — The coal mine region on the northeast coast is galvanized to a most intense activity as the result of a flood of American orders for the immediate shipment of fuel owing to the strike. A week ago the region was stagnant, thousands of miners jobless, mines working part time, many collieries practically suspended and harbors cluttered with idle shipping.

Today every man available has been hired and thousands of unemployed in other parts of England are en route to get work. Every mine having the necessary man power is working full time.

Shipping is active and crews are being signed and preparations being made to load coal.

MARILYNN NOW MRS. PICKFORD

Flo Ziegfeld Happy, Too, Declares Report

Star of "Sally" and Film Actor United

Honeymoon in North Said to be on Program

lasted all too briefly, apparently, for the bride was torn from Jack's embrace and received a kiss from Mary Pickford. In point of fact, there was so much promiscuous kissing, handshaking and back-slapping going on immediately after the ceremony that it is difficult to tell exactly in what rotation the bride was kissed. Doug Fairbanks was not far behind his wife, while the minister didn't get his chance until along toward the end. Charlie Chaplin had to struggle with Doug for the privilege, but eventually succeeded.

While the ceremony was in progress, it was discovered later, Lieut C. H. Howe, an aviator on leave from Carlston Field, Fla., flew over the Fairbanks residence and dropped over a hundred flower bombs made up of roses and lilies of the valley.

Immediately following the kissing exercises subsequent to the marriage, the entire wedding party adjourned to the porch outside, where they posed for photographers, a battery of whom were lined up. Some distance away, at the four entrances to the grounds, hundreds of persons battled with four private detectives for admission to the grounds. Noticing the commotion, the party strolled over and made personal appearances, most of the party saying a word or two of greeting. One lady, more impetuous than the rest, screamed out: "Oh Mary, kiss me!"

And Mary did.

If Doug hadn't come to the rescue, she'd probably be there yet, kissing all and sundry, for Mary was happy. That glad, Pollyanna light was in her eyes.

BUFFET LUNCHEON

Following their personal appearance, the party returned to the interior of the house, where they sat down to a buffet luncheon.

Thousands of gifts were received by the newlyweds. Marilynn's presents from the immediate family were a pearl solitaire ring, set in platinum, from her husband; a pearl necklace, from Ma Pickford; a pearl crescent pin from Mary and Doug; and a gold vanity case from Lottie Pickford Rupp Forrest, Mary's sister.

There is some doubt as to where Jack and his wife will spend their honeymoon, but it is understood on good authority that they spent last night at the Mission Inn at Riverside, to return sometime today, then leaving by motor for Del Monte and other resorts to the northward. In any event, they will return here by Thursday at the latest, and during the ensuing ten days Jack will complete the picture he is now working on. Then both of them will leave for Boston, where Marilynn is to reopen in "Sally" on September 4.

Sometime after the ceremony, the Times reporter addressed Marilynn as Mrs. Pickford, extending congratulations.

FUNNY BUT NICE

"Gee! That sounds funny!" And Marilynn laughed her characteristic laugh.

"What's funny?" asked the reporter. "To be called Mrs. Pickford," replied Marilynn. "But still, it sounds mighty nice."

Jack's only response to proffered congratulations and inquiry regarding his feelings were "thanks," and "couldn't feel better." Other than that, he refused to express himself on the subject. But there was a noticeable light of adoration in his eyes when his bride came within his vision.

The bride made a beautiful picture attired in a dream creation of white georgette, trimmed with silver and princess lace. She was a vertitable Circe. A huge bouquet of white orchids, gardenias and lilies of the valley gave added enchancement to the picture she presented.

Mary Pickford, seemingly more petite than ever, wore a Paris gown of deep cream georgette crepe, covered with lace. Worked into the crepe, and distincly visible through the shimmering folds of lace, were wreaths of narrow French-blue and silver ribbons, caught by tiny pink flowers in bow knots. A lacy hat, framed her piquant face.

MRS. CARTER THERE

Mrs. Carrie Carter, mother of Miss Miller's former husband, was dressed in a gown of black Spanish lace over black Canton crepe, trimmed in moire. This gown was purchased in Paris especially for the wedding. A large, black picture hat, trimmed in tulle, added an altogether satisfying finishing touch.

Mrs. John Steele Sweeney, of Chicago, a sister of the bride, who gave her away, wore a biege-colored net gown, trimmed with Carricks-ma-Cross lace.

Lottie Pickford Rupp Forrest Mary's sister, and wife of Alan Forrest, whom she married recently, added color to the gathering. She wore a Parisian gown of light green taffeta, fashioned after the latest mode. A distinctive hat, trimmed in green also, crowned her head, while silver suede shoes clothed her tiny feet.

Clare Miller, another sister of the bride, was gowned in a pink-colored creation of georgette, trimmed with Duchesse lace. A lace hat crowned her lovely head.

Mrs. Wellington Cross wore a dress of white taffeta, trimmed in silver lace. A picture hat trimmed in silver, gave a satisfactory finishing touch.

MOTHER FAILS TO APPEAR

Mrs. Carrol Miller, mother of the bride, was expected to be present at the ceremony, but unavoidable circumstances prevented. A message delivered to Miss Miller shortly before the ceremony, read: "I wish my daughter all the happiness a mother can wish her." Mrs. Miller is at Minneapolis, visiting her son, Edwin Reynolds.

Miss Miller arrived at the Fairbanks home at 1:15 p.m. in company with her step-mother and her two sisters. She immediately went to her room and began to prepare for the wedding ceremony which was scheduled to begin at 2 p.m.

At 1:30 p.m. Doug and Charlie left the house and drove to Mrs. Pickford's home, where they took Jack to their manly bosoms and began proffering advice to him, which went in one ear and out the other, apparently.

"Our Mary" spent the entire morning preceding the wedding", acting as chief assistant to the decorators and general overseer of all the work then being performed on the wedding bower. Attired in a pink apron, with a scarf over her head, she appeared more diminutive then ever.

Doug and Charlie, in cutaway coats and gray trousers, kept getting in everyone's way until finally Mary shooed them out of the room, first having assured herself of their refusal to perform any labor incidental to the wedding. Both Doug and Charlie, the redoubtable Charlie, who so often has pulled a rug from beneath some poor, unsuspecting citizen's feet, refused to straighten a rug for Mary.

MARY AS BOSS

Doug finally prevailed upon Mary to go upstairs to her apartment to begin dressing, but she did so only after first assuring herself that everything was shipshape.

Scores of telegrams, addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pickford, were received during the course of the day. The telephones rang continually all during the morning and until late afternoon.

Those present at the ceremony were: Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. John Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Forest, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, Baby Mary Pickford Rupp, Charles Spencer Chaplin, Mrs. Carrie Carter, Mrs. John Steele Sweeney, Miss Claire Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hermann and Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Cross.

JUDGE WILLING TO CHANCE IT

Five Who Sentenced Murphy In the Past Are Now Dead

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 29.—"Sixteen times you've been arrested for being drunk and disorderly since 1909," said Magistrate McGeehan yesterday to William Murphy, aged 40 years, of 143 Willis avenue, the Bronx, "and five of the judges that sentenced you and at least one probation officer who investigated your conduct, have gone to the great beyond."

The magistrate was holding Murphy's official police record before him. "You appear to be a great Jonah and I hate to risk your curse upon me, but I must do so. Sixty days in the workhouse."

ITALY OPPOSES PLAN

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROME, July 30.—With reference to the statement that the Greeks are marching toward and are about to occupy Constantinople, it is said that Italy will oppose such a move energetically with naval and land forces.

INSTRUCTS COMMISSION

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, July 30.—An autonomous Greek state, comprising Smyrna and Hinterland, was proclaimed there today by the Greek high commission there on instructions from Athens. The importance of this rivals D'Annunzio's coup in Fiume.

This act of King Constantine upsets the fundamental base for a peace settlement between Greece and Turkey, for which the Allies were on the verge of negotiating. The Allies demanded that Greece completely evacuate Asia Minor and "restore Turkish authority over the region." The Greeks absolutely were forbidden to leave any military or political structures behind.

The coup in Smyrna is expected by the Allied governments to end the government threats against Constantinople. King Constantine will consider the coup of sufficient diversion to turn his attention to the Greek people from his military failure in Asia, it is believed.

A formal request was made by King Constantine to the French, British and Italian governments Saturday night for permission to occupy Smyrna. The French refused immediately.

Former Johnson Supporters Now Backing Moore

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 30.—When Hiram Johnson speaks here at noon tomorrow, and essays to tell the voters how well he has rewarded their confidence, as expressed by their ballots of 1916, he will find most of his former supporters in organized form, and the name of their organization the "Moore-for-Senator Club of Huntington Beach."

For Huntington Beach has organized for Moore, and promises to score an overwhelming victory on August 29. Prominent men and women have everywhere expressed their preference for Moore, the business man, against Johnson, the politician.

Prominent among the members of the new Moore club is Charles Patton, well-known realty operator, who was formerly an ardent Johnson supporter, and who is chairman of the new organization. W. I. Clapp, president of the Chamber of Commerce, is on the executive committee, and F. R. Swann is secretary. Members are being rapidly enrolled and it is expected the club will be truly representative of the Republican progressive spirit of this community.

OBREGON IS WORSE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, July 30. — It was reported today that President Obregon's condition is worse. All matters which come before the Cabinet will probably be postponed a week or two, including De La Huerta's agreement with the New York bankers. The local press continues to insist that President Obregon go to the United States for treatment.

FOSTER FLAYS UNION RADICALS

Gompers's Critic Appeals for World Union

Urges "Fighters" to Return to Federation

Loss to Unions of Million Men Admitted

Preaching the abolition of the present industrial and financial systems and bitterly upbraiding the radicals of the country for having weakened the cause of "Industrial Unionism," William Z. Foster, who helped engineer the steel strike in 1919, spoke at the Music Arts Hall last night before nearly 1000 men and women, who paid 30 cents each to hear him.

Denouncing members of the Supreme Court of the United States as a band of usurpers who have stolen the rights of the people and abrogated laws made by the citizens, Foster sneeringly referred to the phrase "making America safe for Democracy" and said that the workers of this country are nothing but slaves, with the minds of slaves, and that they receive less for their work than the laborers of any other country.

The theme of the address was the necessity for the amalgamation of the crafts unions into one solid organization and he declared that there is no chance for a militant or an intelligent organization of all unions as long as the radicals of each craft continue to desert their fellow-workers for the I. W. W. and similar organizations.

FLAYS GOMPERS

Bitterly flaying Samuel Gompers as a conservative reactionary who is working hand-in-glove with the employers of the nation, the speaker declared that Gompers intends to expel from the ranks of the various unions all the real fighters and leave the crafts in a weakened condition and unable to cope with the capitalists and the government.

Mr. Foster reviewed the strikes of the past in America and said that the main reason for the many failures of the unionists lay in the fact that they had fought their battles as separate units instead of combining against "the common enemy."

Admitting that the unions of the country have lost more than 1,000,000 men during the last year and that the back bones of the various unions have been broken, the speaker said that the reason for such a state of affairs is that the workers are not faithful to the general cause of labor.

"Hundreds of our best fighting men have left the unions and joined the I.W.W., because they were unable to accomplish their aims in the unions to which they belonged. This is a mistake, and we will never be able to form a genuine industrial union, which shall include all laborers, until this fine fighting element decides to remain in the unions and bring about a solidarity of effort among the crafts."

HARBOR EFFECT FAILS

Mr. Foster's campaign at Los Angeles Harbor last Saturday night was apparently fruitless, his doctrines being contrary to the views of the harbor longshoremen, who have withdrawn from the American Federation of Labor to join the radical Marine Transport workers.

At the close of the meeting last night one man who volunteered to meet the speaker in open discussion was forcibly conducted from the hall and the speaker announced that "that is what should happen to any man who disagrees with the spirit of the gathering."

depressed currencies which also have ceased to buy goods.

RUSSIA ELIMINATED

"Russia is entirely eliminated from world trade as a consequence of Bolshevist domination. Crippled industry, unemployment and costly food are partly the result of the absence of Russia, which before the war assured the peoples of Europe of a plentiful and cheap food supply. The state of affairs also is partly the result of the peace treaties and will grow worse unless the treaties are decidedly modified and brought within reason. As the German people covertly feel that the peace treaties work hardships on them, they will lose confidence in the government. The framers of the treaties also showed incomprehensible blindness in distorting the outcome of the mighty war, so full of sacrifices, by drawing up treaties which damage the Allied peoples as much as the vanquished.

"The economic disorder and popular disillusionment give the Bolshevists the foothold which they seek for their propaganda. The distorted treaties raise the hopes of the Bolsheviki. Consequently it is my opinion that the reparations policy encourages Bolshevism.

"Do you think Russia's economic plight will modify the military program you outlined last year?" Gen. Ludendorff was asked.

SEES LITTLE HOPE

"I am dubious as to whether an economic collapse in Russia would overthrow Bolshevik domination in Russia," he answered. "The soviet government will find food for themselves and their supporters, the Red army, in the farm regions even though many more Russians fall into hunger and misery. With their growing distress the Russian people have less energy to rebel against Bolshevism.

"I do not understand how the nations which have inscribed the ideal of civilization and humanity on their flags can stand by passively and let the Russian people starve. The statesmen who signed the Versailles Treaty forgot that Russia forms a part of the world's vital organism. Hard experience shows statesmen that is it necessary to include Russia in the scheme of things in oder to return to normal conditions. They sought to attain this end by negotiations with the Bolsheviki, with the resulting failures at Genoa and The Hague. I predicted this check, knowing that the soviet government could not permit a real restoration of Russian trade without endangering its own power.

"If supported the Russian people might find the power to break the yoke which the soviet government presses upon them. I am convinced that further attempts to establish trade relations with the soviet government will continue fruitless.

"I do not see any reason to modify my opinion given last year on the advisability of a military invasion of Russia, because the soviet dictatorship will continue indefinitely and because I am convinced of the necessity of bringing Russia back to take her position in world trade again.

"My opinion for years has been that wholesome conditions can be restored in Europe only when France, Great Britain and Germany, supported by the United States, take steps to free the Russian people from the soviet government and thereafter form a consortium to exploit Russia for the welfare of the Russian people, of Europe and of the entire world.

"As a preliminary to this however, it is essential that the Allies modify their policy toward Germany and that the peoples change their way of looking at things."

DESERT GIRL STEALS LOVER

Stern Father Punctures Romance; Near-Groom is Jailed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MESA (Ariz.) July 30.—Elsie Amos of Lakeside, a hamlet in the mountains of southern Navajo county, is here in the home of a cousin, held as a ward of the Juvenile Court, but waiting till next March that she may marry the man of her choice, denied her now by the mandate of a stern parent.

The man in the case is Earl West, who has just been released from jail in Holbrook, where he had been held on a charge of kidnaping. "It was I who did the kidnaping," declares the girl. "I rode into Lakeside horseback, hunted up Earl where he was fixing his auto, and made him take me away to be married." They got as far as Phoenix, coming from Holbrook by train, and were at the clerk's office seeking a marriage license when West was taken into custody on a charge that had been made by his prospective father-in-law, Abraham Amos.

SEE STRIKE'S END

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 29. — The administration looks confidently to the coming week to mark the passing of the industrial crisis.

Conferences already called or likely to be called in both the rail and coal strikes will have before them plans which it is believed will furnish a basis of settlement.

Peace in the rail strike hinges upon the outcome of the conferences in New York of the railroad executives and in Chicago of the shopmen.

The way to end the coal strike may be found at conferences which President Lewis of the mine workers and a peacefully inclined faction of the bituminous operators are endeavoring now to arrange.

The chief flaw in the outlook is the continued "hard-boiled" attitude of a group of eastern railroad executives, headed by President Loree of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, who are unwilling to yield an inch in their stand against restoring seniority rights to the striking shopmen.

Admission was made in official circles that some anxiety is felt that Loree may be able to swing a sufficient number of executives into line against acceptance of the President's plan to block the way to settlement.

EMPLOYERS PROTEST

Loree's stand against compromise on the seniority issue has won some support among other rail executives and considerable sympathy among large employers all over the country Senators are receiving many telegrams from large employers in their respective states protesting against the President's plan for settlement of the rail strike as reported in the newspapers. They complain that the proposal of the President that strikers be permitted to return to work with recognition of their seniority rights would establish a dangerous precedent. They express fear that it would make strikes even more frequent, because workers, confident that they their old job back, would itate so long about walking

WOOL PROBLEM NEAR SOLUTION

Tariff Schedule Hastens to Finish in Senate

End of Session Foreseen in Two Months

Interests of Senators in the Industry Questioned

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 30.—With consideration of the wool schedule nearly completed, the Senate is expected to make more rapid progress in the tariff debate this week. The Democrats regard the wool schedule as the last one of major importance and from now on say they will offer only a perfunctory opposition to the various duties. They profess willingness to enter into an agreement for a final vote on the bill on or about August 15.

If the Senate passes the tariff bill at that time, conferees of the Senate and House will require until about September 15 before they are able to present their conference report. Another week or two will be required to obtain the approval of the conference report in the two houses. If there is no hitch in this program, which might easily be upset by serious disagreements between Senate and House conferees, Congress may be able to adjourn early in October.

Final adjournment of the session at an early date in October would mean the side-tracking of ship-subsidy legislation until next session, in all probability. It would easily be possible to enact a soldiers' bonus bill into law during the month's period while the tariff is in conference.

As the situation now stands, the tariff bill will be ready to be sent to conference about the time the House returns to work on August 15.

Propriety of the activity of Western Senators with large financial interests in the wool-growing industry in behalf of the high duties on wool contained in the pending tariff bill has become an issue not only in the discussion in the Senate, but also in the election campaign.

An investigation of the financial connections of Senators with the wool-growing industry, as provided by the resolution introduced yesterday by Senator Garaway, Arkansas, has been brought forward in a manner that will cause it to continue to be a question widely discussed.

"Despite the statements made and constantly repeated that there is no sentiment in the country for the passage of a tariff bill at this time," said Senator McLean, Connecticut, "many labor organizations which have petitioned Congress will prove to any one who wishes to be fair and face the facts that the great majority of workers in the United States, men and women producers, want this tariff bill."

Discussion of the past week in the Senate has shown that the wool schedule will figure in the campaign probably more prominently than any other. The attacks will center not primarily upon protection given the manufacturer, but rather upon the duties on raw wool. It is this schedule more than any other which has won the support of agricultural interests for the bill and caused more of the farm-bloc Republican Senators to swallow high duties on manufactured articles.

WILD WEST IN VELVET, PLAN

"Dude Ranch" Like Films, Is Being Built for City Guests

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOMBSTONE, July 29.—A "dude ranch," is being established in south pass of the Dragoon Mountains by Harry Kendall of the Kendall Brothers' Land and Cattle Company. It will be known, however, as the "Bar O Ranch," and its intention is to provide, in comfort, an approximation of the free and untrammeled life of the Wild West, as graciously pictured in the films and current magazines.

The center of the new institution and the first unit constructed is to be a large adobe "casa," containing the assembly hall, with a great fireplace, and the dining hall and kitchen. The bunk houses will be electric lighted. Guests are to be provided individual horses, whereon to roam the ranch expanse of 2000 acres, and real cowboys will demonstrate the work of the range and will act as guides on trips through the mountains or even into Mexico. There is expectation that the scheme will prove a success of largest sort.

HINDU STUDENT DEAD IN GAS-FILLED ROOM

POLISHED YOUNG SCION OF DISTINGUISHED FAMILY LEAVES LETTERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 30.—Salatil S. Gupge, a Hindu student at the University of Illinois, and described as a scion of a distinguished family in India, was found asphyxiated in a furnished room at 15 Commerce street, Greenwich Village. The police determined the death suicide. Several sealed letters apparently having been written but a short time before, were turned over to the police. The contents were not revealed.

Gupge engaged a room in the home of Anthony De Vola four months ago, coming here from Urbana, Ill. Why he did not finish the semester which ended in June could not be learned locally. Gupge, always well dressed and polished of manner, became a part of the home life of the De Volas. Much of the time he spent in his room perusing books of a philosophical and religious nature. He seldom sought the companionship of women, though he was courteous and conversational whenever he came in contact with them. Gupge, it was learned, was intensely interested in the future of India and frequently held long discussions on the subjects with Hindu friends who visited him.

This morning Anthony De Vola went upstairs to call Gupge. He detected the odor of gas while mounting the stairs. De Vola found the young student, fully clothed, lying on the bed, with the windows closed and two gas jets wide open.

One of the native friends of Gupge, who came to the house, was S. Besey. He said Gupge was interested in the development of the soul and recently had been turning his thoughts away from the objective things of life to the spiritual. He described Gupge as a man of fine sensibilities.

CHINESE GENERAL IN SECRET ACTIVITIES

CHANG HAS FORMED THREE LINES OF DEFENSE AND IS BUILDING FORTRESS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SHANHAIKWAN, July 30. — A secret agent of Gen. Wu Pei Fu sent into Manchuria, finds that Gen. Chang Tso Lin is making extensive hostile preparations at his post outside of the great wall, having increased his troops there by a brigade of infantry and artillery. He has established three defense lines. The first is at the wall, one mile from Shanhaikwan, the second at Wanchiatun and the third at Suiching, with fortresses being built at Chiumenkow. Gen. Wu Tao Hai has been placed in command with orders to repel any effort to recover stock or any invasion by Chihli troops.

There is reason to believe that these activities are the result of an alliance with certain Yang-tse Tuchuns with the intention of restoring Tuan Chi Jui, the former Anfu leader, to power and then negotiating with Dr. Sun Yat Sen, whose forces are about to engage in a decisive battle with Gen. Cheng Hiung Ming in Northern Kwan Tung.

As a result Gen. Wu has been compelled to renew military preparations on an active scale. These preparations are visible in Eastern Chihli, within fifty miles of Shanhaikwan, and also at Paotingfu, Loyang and Kifend.

The rolling stock of the Peking-Hankow Railway is being husbanded. Observers believe that Gen. Chang's attempt to return to control in Peking will synchronize with an effort to reassemble Parliament next week.

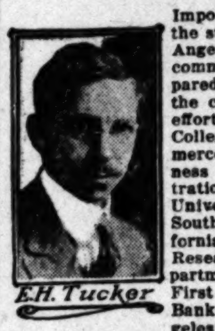
Pacific-Southwest Review

By E. H. TUCKER

Director of Research, The First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank



E.H. Tucker

Important as is the study of Los Angeles Harbor commerce, prepared through the co-operative efforts of the College of Commerce and Business Administration of the University of Southern California and the Research Department of The First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank, it is but the first of a series of studies which will be maintained through the co-operative efforts of the University and the Research Department, all of which it is anticipated will serve an equally important need in the community.

For example, such information as the relation of freight rates to the economic sphere of influence of Los Angeles; the possibilities of industrial expansion of certain types; the public utility problem; trade conditions and possibilities in countries now shipping through Los Angeles Harbor, etc., will all be made the subject of exhaustive analytical and statistical studies, which should provide, for the first time, accurate and reliable information to serve as the basis for the creation of programs for further development of the Pacific-Southwest.

While it can be readily seen that these co-operative efforts will work to the benefit of the community as well as the University, it is also obvious that such work will be particularly valuable to the students through giving them practical business contact while they are still in the University and through teaching them the methods of securing statistical data and applying them to the interpretation of business problems of the community in which they will operate after their graduation.

At the opening of the fall semester studies of some half-dozen problems will be started. Students will be assigned regular class hours at the offices of the Research Department of The First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank, and the fact-gathering facilities of the Research Department will be made available to them. The Junior students will gather material under the supervision of more advanced students who will work in conjunction with officers of the Research Department and their Professors in the gathering and presentation of data, so that each year some half-dozen basic studies will be completed and those studies already made will be brought up to date and kept current.

All studies will be published co-operatively, with joint credit to the College of Commerce and Business Administration of the University of Southern California and the Research Department of The First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank.

One particularly important phase of the inauguration of this co-operation lies in the fact that it is evidence that the day of the business scientist has arrived and that business is finding it desirable as a practical matter, to co-operate with Universities for its own best growth and development. While partially local it is a manifestation of an international tendency in the industrial and commercial world.

Application has been made to the Courts for permission to change the name of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank to the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank. The date on which this change becomes effective is not yet known.

Prince Looked Too Princely to Detectives

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 30.—Prince Louis Henri de Chateroux De Bussigny de Bourbon—as he described himself—was arrested by detectives early today following a raid on a chorus girl's apartment in which the self-styled prince also has an apartment. Later, clad in the full uniform and trappings of a "retired major general of the Russian Imperial army, in mourning for the late Czar," the prince's own description of his garb, he was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct before Magistrate Renaud and held in $500 bail for examination Tuesday.

The raid on an alleged disorderly first floor apartment, in which four women, two of them chorus girls, were arrested, disturbed the princely slumbers of Louis Henri on a floor above. He sallied forth, the police say, in pajamas, brandishing a sword, and berated the raiders. He was disarmed and permitted to don a white Russian tunic with arm band of mourning and shoulder bars and stars, brown corduroy breeches, brown puttees and military cap before he was taken to a police station.

GIRL STOWAWAYS ARE FOUND AT SEA

WIRELESS REPORTS SENT TO PARENTS TELLING THEM CHILDREN ARE SAFE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 30.—Wistful yearnings to run away to sea, stimulated by envy of tourists departing on great ships from piers only a block away from their homes, have been gratified in the hearts of little Katherine Fleming and Anna Mullen, each 13 years old. As stowaways, the venturesome maids are 1000 miles at sea on the Steamship Majestic, bound for England.

Today a radio from the ship was flashed to New York police headquarters telling how the girls hid aboard before the vessel sailed Saturday and were found huddled underneath the canvas covering of a lifeboat when the ship was 500 miles at sea. The policemen notified their parents and learned that Katherine obtained a pass Saturday to "inspect the Majestic" and took her friend aboard. Katherine's father had worked for the White Star Line and she knew the ropes.

The two little stowaways will probably be removed from the boat at Southampton and sent back on the first vessel for America.

BODY OF BABY GIRL FOUND NEAR SOUND

WESTCHESTER OFFICIALS NOW SEARCHING FOR MOTHER OF CHILD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RYE (N. Y.) July 30. — The body of a 4-month-old girl, who had been strangled to death was found on the shore of Long Island Sound, near an automobile road, in an exclusive section of Rye late yesterday. Westchester county authorities today conceded that only by merest chance can they hope for an identification of the victim or a clew to the slaying.

The body had been stuffed into a coarse pillow case, from which the head with its black hair, protruded, and had been thrown into the sound several weeks ago, according to Coroner Fitzgerald. The baby was plump, pretty and to all appearances healthy.

It is believed the body may have been thrown from Manursing Way, a shore road, which leads to the ultra-exclusive Westchester Biltmore Country Club.

The police have begun a county-wide inquiry of physicians and hospitals in an endeavor to check up all births during March and April.

ARIZONA SENDS PLAN FOR COAL EMERGENCY

SHORT RAIL LINE WILL OPEN UP BILLIONS OF TONS OF SEMI-BITUMINOU FUEL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HOLBROOK (Ariz.) July 30.—A solution of the problem of a southwester fuel supply is presented by the Holbrook Chamber of ented by the Holbrook Chamber of Commerce, which has called for and is getting support from similar commercial organizations throughout Arizona. It is proposed that the government at once construct a sixty-mile railroad from this point northward into the Navajo and Hopi Indian reservations to the Black Mesa coal field. This coal is considered an extension of the Durango section of southwestern Colorado. It is of good quality, classed as semibituminous, and several veins have been worked for the fuel necessities of the near by reservation schools and offices.

The Holbrook organization has wired Senator Camaron at Washington to get behind the plan, the message reciting: "Why send ships to Wales for coal when 14,000,000,000 tons of good quality subbituminious coal can be made instantly available by constructing sixty miles of railroad on easy grades to the Black Mesa fields north of Holbrook? There are 11,000 loyal Hopi and Navajo Indians, government wards, to work the mines. Would be powerful lever also to avert future strikes."

RANGE EXPERTS FIND NO BRAND CHANGING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLIFTON (Ariz.) July 30.—A party of seven expert range men has been inspecting horses on the Carlisle range in New Mexico, in connection with a charge that, prior to a shooting affray that ended fatally for John Fulcher and Bate Bradberry, July 11, the Bradberry brothers had been guilty of altering brands in that section. Investigation disclosed no evidence in support of the charge.

The trial of Mark Bradberry will be held in Silver City August 7, awaiting the evidence of Sidney Fulcher, who is in Lordsburg with a wounded arm.

The Joy of Living

By Sidney Gowing

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

Aimee Scroope, lively daughter of the Very Rev. Lord Scroope, ordered to spend a month with her strict Aunt Erythea, whom she has never seen, at Jervaulx Abbey, persuades her dignified cousin, Georgina Berner, to go in her stead. Aimee, now carefree, encounters Billy Spencer, a young American. Chatting on the highroad, she jokingly tells him she has "lost her job," and he proposes she join his plan to promote the sales of his new style motorcycle. She agrees, giving her name as "Aimee Snooks." They cycle into the near-by town of Stanhoe. To their amusement the scandalized landlady refuses them rooms at the inn, but they find separate quarters at a cottage. That night Aimee slips out and surprises Georgina by climbing through her window at the Abbey. She learns that Aunt Erythea has taken Georgina for granted, and that Georgina has become greatly interested in Alexander Lambe, a young curate and nephew of Aunt Erythea. The next day Billy teaches Aimee how to run the motorcycle, and she nearly collides with a carriage in which her aunt, Georgina and the curate are riding. Again visiting Georgina, Aimee learns to her dismay that her father is coming to visit. Just then a burglar alarm sounds. Aimee rushes out, bowling over Alexander, leaving a piece of her skirt in the hands of the butler who tries to stop her. The police suspect "Calamity Kate" and "Jack, the Climber," notorious motorcycle thieves. Billy Spencer, at the cottage, discovers Aimee's absence and sets out on his machine. He encounters a man and woman fleeing by motorcycle from the Abbey and in a mix-up he is knocked out by a stone wielded by the woman. The crooks drop the emeralds, however, and Billy finds them. He meets Aimee on the road and she tells him all. He decides she must hide in a cave not far from the Abbey, while he tries to clear things up. He then goes to the Abbey and returns the jewels to Lady Erythea. In gratitude, she offers him a place as a chauffeur, and he accepts.

Chapter XIV
THE NEW PARLOR-MAID

Aimee, sitting in the morning sunlight near the mouth of her burrow, heard a rustling among the bushes and at once dived back into shelter. Presently there was a soft whistle, which she answered. Mr. William Spencer parted the branches very quietly and entered the cave.

"Billy!"

He clicked his heels together and touched his cap.

"Anything I can do for you, miss?" he said grinning. "Got a new job. Chauffeur to her ladyship. Four a week, and all found."

"What!"

Billy sat down beside her and made his report. Aimee heard it, at first, with the air of Desdemona listening to Othello. Then she rolled on the sand in helpless spasms of laughter.

"How absolutely gorgeous," she panted, sitting up and wiping her eyes. "You've done splendidly. I wish I'd been there to hear you bluff the fat policeman. But—what's the good of the chauffeur's job, Billy? That will hamper you."

"Not a bit! It's great. I just jumped at it. You see, I've got a sure berth now, right close here, where I want to be. I'm your aunt's man. And she's some old girl, too—she isn't taking anything from anyone. You should have heard her handing it to the policeman. I'm solid—so far. And," added Billy, gleefully, "I've two automobiles in my charge. Not bad ones either. We can't use the Sphinx. But if we want to shift you quick an' lively, you've the call on those two cars."

"I never thought of that! You're right, Billy."

"Well, I must get busy. I've got till the evening, when I fetch a hired girl from the station. She's from down your way. Name," he added grinning, "of Snooks. What d'you think of that, partner?"

"What!" cried Aimee. "It must be Amy Snooks—daughter of Dad's second keeper, who was killed in the war. I know her as well as I know—myself. I gave you her name when you asked me mine—it was the first I could think of. You say Aunt has engaged her!"

"Yes. On your father's recommendation."

"How beastly awkward! Directly she sees Georgie, the game's up!"

"That's rotten," said Billy seriously, "we've got enough on our hands as it is. If she wasn't a woman, I'd spill the car an' put her out of action for quite awhile, so she couldn't give you away. As it is, seems to me the only thing is for me to get hold of your cousin Georgina an' show her how to keep the Snooks girl quiet. I think it can be done, if Georgina has any sense."

"Yes, that might do. I don't think we need worry much about Amy Snooks, after all. I wish I could get a word with Amy myself. She'd do any blessed thing I told her—even if it was to throw herself into a furnace. I can manage Amy. You'll just have to do your best though. But look here, Billy," said Aimee earnestly, "you haven't told me yet how you're going to pull me out of it all. It's getting a worse tangle every hour. What's the plan?"

"I'll be back here about seven this evening," said Billy seriously, "and by then I'll bring you good news—you trust me. Gee! why didn't you remind me?" he exclaimed with self-reproach, dragging a paper parcel from his pocket, "you must be starving."

Billy exposed some rashers of bacon between slices of bread, and a lukewarm sausage. "I wish it was something better. They gave me a meal at the Abbey, and I pinched these for you. And here's your blue dust-cloak from Ivy Cottage. Put that on. It'll cover the tear in your dress, in case anyone came across you. I'll try an' raise a new skirt for you. An' now I've got to slide out and get to work."

"Must you go?" she said, almost pathetically. "It's going to be absolutely dismal here alone, Billy."

Billy looked at her. There was a rueful silence.

"I hate to go. But you see how it is, partner. Don't you worry—I'll have you out of this by tonight."

He rose quickly, and was gone before she could say another word. Aimee went to the cave's mouth and watched him out of sight.

Aimee regarded the cold victuals without favor. She was feeling peculiarly lost and lonely; appetite had departed. After an expedition to the top of the crag-pit, however, she returned and consumed the breakfast. She wondered, with a twinge of conscience, whether it was Billy's breakfast, and if he had had any for himself. It would be rather like him not to.

She donned the blue dust-cloak, and felt a little easier when the telltale tear in the skirt was covered. It had been causing her a feeling of embarrassment that was new to Aimee. She sat down and reflected on the situation. The difficulty concerning Amy Snooks, the new parlor-maid, was uppermost in her mind.

Suddenly Aimee started to her feet in sheer panic.

"Oh, great heavens, what an idiot I am! Dad! I quite forgot—!"

The stress of the past ten hours had utterly driven from her mind one vital fact that now came back poignantly. Lord Scroope was coming to Jervaulx at 5 p.m. Georgina had said so. The burglary, intervening, swamped all memory of it. But after all Lord Scroope's arrival would be worse than the burglary.

She paced the floor in the cave. The bottom had dropped out of the entire scheme of things. Then her face lit up with a gleam of hope, and she stopped short, thinking swiftly.

"There might be time. It's frightfully risky. But if I don't try it I'm done for."

She buttoned up the dust-cloak with nimble fingers.

"As well be hung for a sheep as a lamb," said Aimee.

She left the cave, ran up to the crest of the crag-pit, and looked around cautiously. Aimee picked up the skirts of the dust-cloak and scudded across the common like a hare.

The Panhard luggage-car from Jervaulx wound its way through the lanes, with Mr. William Spencer at the steering-wheel, clad in a dark green uniform overcoat with brass buttons.

The Panhard was running badly. In spite of Billy's overhaul two of the cylinders misfired; presently the car stopped with a cough and splutter. Billy, using blood-curdling language anent the profligate Mr. Boxall, late chauffeur of Jervaulx Abbey, got down and opened the bonnet. It took him several minutes to start the Panhard again, and when finally he arrived at Stanhoe railway station, the train from Burnt Ash was alongside the platform.

A young woman in a cheap black tight-fitting coat was standing by the luggage-van. Baggage checks were unknown in England. A tin trunk was hurled out of the van by a blind, invisible force, and Billy, approaching the passenger, raised his peaked cap politely.

"Are you for Jervaulx Abbey?" he asked.

The young woman turned round. "I'm the new parlor-maid," she said primly in broad Eastshire dialect. "You might carry my box for me, if that ain't too heavy."

Billy's head swam. His fingers opened and feebly closed again. His eyes bulged.

It was Aimee. Aimee in a black coat over a print dress, and sensible boots. Her bronze hair was drawn straight back and plaited into a respectable knob, her eyes were preternaturally solemn.

Billy controlled his nerve centers with an effort. Stanhoe station was the last place in which to give oneself away. He knew that chauffeurs are not the sort of people who carry trunks, even for pretty parlor-maids. He beckoned a porter.

"That's a funny thing to me you couldn't carry it yourself," said the parlor-maid, a trifle austerely. "I've no money for the porter."

Billy glanced at her dazedly and let in the clutch. The transit of Stanhoe was made at something over the speed limit. When clear of the town Billy gave the coughing Panhard a full throttle and roared along the Jervaulx road. He did not look at Aimee, who was staring straight in front of her.

Billy switched the car down a narrow lane, covered by over-arching trees, and stopped the engine. He turned to face Aimee.

"Partner," he said, "what in thunder does this mean?"

Aimee looked at him and dissolved into spasms of laughter.

"What do you think of it, Billy?" she said. "Aren't I the complete Amy Snooks?"

"It don't go!" said Billy, almost fiercely. "Let me in on this. What have you been doing?"

"When you left me this morning I remembered something positively awful. Dad was coming here this afternoon—at 5 o'clock. I thought the only thing was to get to Scroope Towers and try to put it right. I know there was a train about 10 at Stanhoe, and I started for the station. But I never got there."

"Thank the powers you didn't!" said Billy fervently. "All the stations are watched. You'd never have passed through alone without getting pulled by the cops."

"Well, the train wasn't necessary. A car overtook me on the road—driven by a young man. He pulled up and offered me a lift."

"Oh!" said Billy.

"He was quite a good sort. Inclined to be a bit sentimental; but it was a fast car, and he was rather new to driving. What's the matter with you?"

There was an expression on Billy's face that she had not seen there before. He was looking sour.

"Get on with the song and dance," he said shortly.

"Well, I was dropped near Scroope, and I got across to the Towers; creeping about like a Red Indian, so nobody saw me. I had a look in through the morning-room window and saw Dad reading his letters. I had a mind to go in and kiss him, but, of course, that wouldn't do. He was looking pleased—I think he was reading Aunt Erythea's letter approving of me. Of course he hadn't heard about the burglary. There's no telephone at Scroope—Dad won't have one.

"Then I stalked the garage, where old Grundle, our shover, had got the head off one of the cylinders, and I heard him grumbling to the gardener about having to drive Dad to Jervaulx and back the same evening. I hid in the laurels till Grundle went to his dinner, and then I attended to the car—especially the magneto. I did it artistically. You can take it from me, the old 'bus will never leave Scroope today. Dad's visit is a washout. He's no time to get here except by car—I know he has to catch the 10 o'clock mail train from Seabridge. He'll have to take the carriage there—and start early, too.

"I made a circuit through the Home Wood to the cottage where Amy Snooks lives with her old grandmother. I found her packing for Jervaulx, and I told her what I wanted her to do.

"Amy Snooks is what you call stolid, and I've broken her in very well—but I'm bound to say she was absolutely paralyzed this time. You could have dropped a cricket-ball into her mouth, she opened it so wide. But she surrendered before I'd done with her. She just came to heel. It may surprise you, Billy, but she simply adores me. Amy never refused me anything in her life.

"Having melted her into a flexible condition, I borrowed one of her print dresses (she hadn't another black one) and her second-best coat, and did my hair like hers. I'm jolly good at doing hair.

"To cut it short, I cleared out and tramped across country to Pilbrook station and took the afternoon train. Amy joined it with her two tin boxes at Burnt Ash, and I got into her carriage at the next stop. I gave her all the money I had, and made her go on to Seabridge with one of her boxes. She'll get herself lodgings there and have a good time till further orders—she can last a week anyhow. I took the other box and came on here. And now, partner—what about it? Wasn't it a brain-wave!"

Billy took off his cap and made disorder in his honey-colored hair.

"Why, you can't do it! You, parlor-maid to Lady Erythea? It's the acid test! Partner, you could never get away with it."

Aimee regarded him pityingly.

"Billy, I may not know anything about men," she said, "but you know less than nothing about women. There isn't the woman living, from 6 years old upwards, that isn't a born actress when she has to be. Most of us are acting all day and every day—whether you guess it or not. I don't do that myself—that's why you and I get on. But I can! I can get away with it, Billy!"

He put on his cap with a bang.

"Then let's get on!" he gasped. "There's nothing else for it now. The boats are burned. Away for Jervaulx!" He leaned over and opened the rear door of the car. "Jump down, partner, and get in behind."

"I shan't! What for?"

"Get down, I tell you," said Billy sternly. "I've been warned about this. If I'm seen talking to parlor-maids I get fired. In with you!"

Aimee obeyed like a lamb.

"This has got my nerve," groaned Billy, as he let in the clutch. "Here's where we get ours."

He drove at a furious pace till, turning into the park, he approached the Abbey and drew up at the side entrance. The door stood open, and Mr. Tarbeaux, seeing the car, came out as Amy descended.

"Miss Snooks?" he asked patronizingly.

"Yes," said Aimee shyly.

Mr. Tarbeaux stared. In spite of the screwed hair and the print skirt, he had never seen such a vision of beauty at Jervaulx.

"Her ladyship wished to see you immediately you arrived. This way."

He strode before her through the corridor into the great hall, past the suit of armour with which he had collided in the gloom of the past dreadful night. Now, however, Mr. Tarbeaux was himself again. There was a gleam of appreciation in his somber eyes.

He opened the door of the wide south room, where Lady Erythea sat erect before the fire knitting. She did not turn her head.

"The young person, my lady," said Mr. Tarbeaux softly.

DEMOCRATIC, HE DRIVES HIS OWN

Candidate for Governorship of Arizona Discharges Chauffeur, Wrecks

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) July 30. Former Gov. G. W. P. Hunt, in his "tin-Lizzie" campaign for nomination as Governor on the Democratic ticket, lately concluded to become still more democratic by releasing his chauffeur and doing his own driving. He got as far as Tucson without trouble, in the course of a trip that had included Douglas, Bisbee and Nogales, and had started for Phoenix when a mishap was met forty miles out on the road. The steering wheel broke and the machine left the highway and smashed itself on a rock. Mr. Hunt found transportation back to Tucson, whence he sent assistance to his companion, C. M. Zander, marooned on the desert.

HIT SNAG IN CHITA PARLEYS

Japan Sees Hand of Moscow in Changed Attitude of Republic

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOKIO, July 30.—Unexpected hitches are appearing in the Chita-Japanese negotiations to renew their conferences with a view to concluding a commercial treaty. Chita, presumably encouraged by Moscow, is showing its teeth and is abruptly refusing to consider some of the Japanese proposals regarding the scope of the conference.

The Osaka Mainichi states that it is known here that Chita is submitting everything to Moscow, whence its instructions come. The withdrawal of the Japanese forces from Siberia is now regarded in soviet circles as evidence of an internal trouble in Japan which is strengthening the Chita attitude.

The Mainichi says: "While Japan is anxious to withdraw peacefully, regardless of Chita's relations with Moscow, and to conclude a treaty of amity with Chita, should the latter adopt a procrastinating attitude, depending upon Moscow for support and thereby failing to sign a basic agreement by the middle of August, Japan will be obliged to resort to a free hand for the protection of Japanese subjects in Siberia and the disposition of seized arms.

"The result of such a free hand will be disadvantageous to Chita. It is understood that the Japanese government will draft policies prepared to meet either contingency while hoping for a sincere reply from Chita."

Mountains of South Cleared of Moonshine

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CORBIN (Ky.) July 30.—Prohibition agents, during the last three days and nights, have conducted the biggest raid in the history of the mountain region, clearing more than 200 miles of mountain country of illicit stills. Women served as spies for the raiders. In "No Man's Land," the Middle River district, stills were thicker than dwellings. One proprietor of a big still, getting wind of the raids, dynamited his property, the explosion shaking the town almost from its foundations. The raiders destroyed an enormous quantity of "corn-likker" and scores of stills of all varieties, from the cheap portable concern to elaborate machinery with a capacity of fifty to 200 gallons daily.

On the Bloody Trail of Bluebeard

At the Grave of a Landru Victim

This is William Le Queux, famous French criminologist and investigator, standing over the spot in the forest of Rambouillet where Dandru buried the mutilated remains of one of his "wives."

LANDRU ESCAPES AGAIN

Cunning Bluebeard Eludes Police by Clever Ruse and Plans Fresh Atrocities

[In yesterday's installment of this remarkable narrative, taken from the police dossiers of Paris, Mr. Le Queux told how Landru sought far and wide for the murderers of Mme. Cuchet and her son, was accosted in a Paris cafe by the officers and told he was under arrest as Raymond Diard, the name he used when he slew the Cuchets.]

Chapter IX

THE ASSASSIN AS "PAPA LULU"

For only a second was Landru taken by surprise.

The instant the detective uttered the name of Diard he sprang to his feet, for his agility equalled his cunning, and on glancing at the door he saw two plainclothes officers of the Surete guarding it. Quick-witted, he knew that there was a door at the further end of the cafe with which he was so familiar, therefore, ere the detective could seize him, he had slipped around the table, and slinging his chair behind him across the officer's path between a row of tables, caused the man to trip up and fall, and ere his colleagues could assist him or stop the wanted man, the latter was out of the other door and dashing across the Place Pigalle.

He heard the loud shouts of the police as he dived into a series of narrow streets behind the Rue Duperre, with all of which he was quite familiar.

Presently, when he found himself clear, he ceased running, but walked at a brisk pace, avoiding a policeman on duty at the corner of the Rue de Clichy. Afterwards he traveled in a circle until he reached the Batignolles quarter, where, in a short, narrow street called the Rue Caroline, he entered a frowsy-looking house and called upon one of his friends, a plausible escroc like himself, whom he knew as Paul Lejeune. The latter, a man whose profession was that of rat d'hotel, or hotel thief, happened to be at home. Therefore, in the narrow, ill-furnished little sitting-room, Landru told him of his narrow escape, and afterwards remained there the night, and in the morning, fearing to be recognized by his dress, he drove in a taxi to where his wife was living.

The wily old furniture dealer, Caillard, when questioned, declared, as the other two men had done, that he was only a cafe acquaintance. They had seen him there at the Soufflet on several occasions, and had chatted with him.

Inspector Gaffiot was compelled to return to the Prefecture of Police and report a complete failure. That he had found the man alleged to be the assassin of Mme. Cuchet and her son was evident from the fact that he had so cleverly evaded arrest, but, to his dismay, the assassin was again lost in the labyrinth of the capital.

Next evening Landru, delighted at having tricked the police whom he held in such contempt, dressed himself in a suit of clothes he had not worn for some months, and in a taxi went across Paris to his flat at 32 Rue de Mauberge, in search of his foundling-love, little Andree Babelay.

The 19-year-old girl was still there, awaiting the return of the bearded man with the seductive voice, who had behaved so kindly and generously toward her. In his absence she had made herself useful and cleaned up and dusted the flat.

To Madame Faucher, the concierge, "Mons. Guillet"—as Landru then called himself—had explained that the young girl was a niece who had just come from the country in search of a situation. The truth was, however, that she was the daughter of a woman who had been born in Rumania, and, Andree's father having died, she had married a man named Collin. Andree was in the service of a certain Madame Vidal, a fortune-teller, who lived in Belleville, and next day Landru persuaded her to return to her place "for a few days"—which she did.

Her name was inscribed in his fatal notebook, but Landru had other business at the moment to occupy him, including several meetings with Madame Buisson. So, after she had left, he went back to his wife and calmly pursued his business out at Neuilly.

A week later, however, according to arrangement, the young girl with the wide-open innocent eyes, met her lover at the Rue de Mauberge, and he lent her a brown leather bag, which she took to Madame Vidal's. Then, after announcing that she had met a very charming monsieur, who was going to marry her, she packed up her belongings and left. On the following day, unknown to Landru, she called upon her mother and begged the loan of a photograph of her father and mother, taken in Bucharest when she was a child.

"I want to show it to a gentleman I know—a gentleman named Guillet, who wants to marry me"—she explained to her mother.

The latter became naturally very inquisitive, but her daughter would tell her nothing, and went away, promising to call two days later. The date was March 11, 1917. But neither her mother nor her late employer ever saw the girl again!

What happened I will now disclose.

MISSING GIRL FOUND AT BROTHER'S HOME

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MIAMI (Ariz.) July 30.—Ora Boggs, a 15-year-old girl missing from her lower Miami home since July 17, has been located in San Diego, Cal., at the home of her brother, Henry Boggs. The girl was last seen on the main street here after visiting a friend. Now it would appear that she and a young associate, Bonnie Drennan, were picked up by a couple of young men who are believed to have given the Boggs girl a lift to Phoenix on her way to California. A few days thereafter a girl who gave her name as Pearl Smith was picked up at Salome by a California-bound automobile party. The brother has wired that she arrived O.K.

TOWNSEND BUSY ON CAMPAIGN

Sentiment Said to Favor Senator in Northern Michigan

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAULT STE. MARIE (Mich.) July 30.—Marked sentiment in favor of the renomination of Senator Townsend is noticeable in this part of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

The prevailing sentiment is for Townsend, despite the efforts of former Governor Osborne of Sault Ste. Marie to deliver this part of the State to Representative Pat Kelley, one of the contenders for nomination for Senator, according to a representative leader.

Senator Townsend presented the case of the St. Lawrence seaway exhaustively at a meeting here yesterday.

The community at the Soo Locks is deeply interested in this project to bring ocean commerce to the head of the Great Lakes and turned out to do special honor to the Senator as the father of the idea.

In the course of his statement of his advocacy of soldier bonus legislation and explanation of the measures adopted for the care of the disabled soldiers, the Senator mentioned the new $1,500,000 government hospital which is to be located at Camp Custer, near Battle Creek, instead of at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station north of Chicago as originally planned.

"I was instrumental in bringing about the change of the plan which is being opposed by Col. Sprague of Chicago," asserted the Senator.

Deputy Sheriff on Strike Duty Accused Killer

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DIXON (Ill.) July 30.—Herbert Long of Harmon, Ill., an ex-service soldier and member of the American Legion was shot and killed by Leonard Woodyatt, a deputy sheriff in the employ of the Illinois Central railroad here on strike duty late last night. The shooting was at the carnival grounds just outside the city limits of Dixon. Long was a star end on the American Legion football team here. This is the second murder at the carnival grounds in a week.

Frank Rinks, an electrician of Chicago, was beaten to death by fellow employees last Wednesday night. In both cases the parties had been drinking moonshine. Woodyatt was held without bail for murder.

PARCELING OF COAL STARTED

Government Acts as Gigantic Middleman

Formation of Fuel Crisis Body Nearly Complete

Washington Concerned Only in Railways, Utilities

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The government, with the co-operation of the States, will assume tomorrow the duties of a gigantic middleman, passing on the coal at the producing mines to the industries and localities which, in the eyes of the government, need it most.

The organization of the government's coal emergency coal distributing committee was pronounced tonight to be nearly complete, and tomorrow Henry B. Spencer, Federal Fuel Distributor, his committee and advisory subcommittees, as designated by order of President Harding, will begin active functioning.

SPECULATION RIFE

Just how much coal the government can count on remains a matter of speculation.

"There is no indication of increased production in response to President Harding's invitation to the mine owners to reopen mines in any of the strongly organized districts," the Geological Survey commented.

The total production for the past week of 3,900,000 tons of bituminous and 27,000 tons of anthracite is compared by the survey with a normal production at this season, including anthracite, of from 9,500,000 to 12,000,000 tons. Normal consumption at this time of year would be 8,000,000 tons of coal a week.

Executive offices for the coal-control organization are to be located in one of the government's temporary war-time buildings and an adequate staff is being mobilized to handle the rush of reports and orders which are expected to flow through Washington.

TO FIX PRICES

Covered by priority orders from the Interstate Commerce Commission, all coal now being produced is to be bought under the fair-price levels to be maintained by the Federal Fuel Distributor, freight cars being withheld from dealers who sell at advanced prices.

Railroads and interstate public utilities are to be the concern of the Federal government as far as direct contact with the consumers goes, while supervision of the distribution between States is designed to put all localities on an equal footing as regards bulk supply, after which control of profiteering and allotments of fuel is to be a State matter.

Bunker coal is to be kept to a minimum and foreign ships required to fill their bunkers abroad for the round trip, while exports will only be permitted in case of shipments destined for consumers who cannot otherwise supply themselves.

PLAN TO CONSOLIDATE IRRIGATED ACREAGE

WOULD CONSTRUCT TWO GREAT POWER DAMS IN SALT RIVER VALLEY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) July 30.—Plans for the consolidation of all the canal irrigated acreage of the Salt River Valley into the main association, for the erection of the two great power dams on Salt River and for the sale of the power to be generated are reported progressing. The association governors have voted to admit the Tempe Canal acreage on the same terms as known by the rest of the valley lands, and the same action is to be taken with respect to a few thousand acres under the old Lehi Canal, established by the Dan P. Jones party in 1876. There has been receipt of information that the Los Angeles engineering firm of Quinton, Code & Hill has made favorable report on the power plans to the Inspiration, Miami and Old Dominion mining companies, which are expected to provide funds for erection of the Horse Mesa Dam, while a large part of the cost of the Lower Mormon Flat Dam is to be paid by the monies advanced by the Eastern Auxiliary Canal Company.

The engineering report finds no special difficulties in connection with erection of the dams. Bed rock has been found at reasonable depths. However, much excavation may be necessary to secure ample spillway capacity, as both structures are to be in steep box canyons. It is believed that the project can be available within two years from the date of beginning construction.

Mr. Hill, who has been in charge of the exploration, is familiar with the ground, having been engineer in charge during the construction period of the Roosevelt Dam. He estimates that the new work will supply about 190,000,000 kilowatt hours of electric energy per annum, at a rate of three-quarters of a cent, producing a gross revenue of $1,425,000 to the association. The gross cost is set at about $8,000,000.

SMELTER FUMES ARE CAUSE OF DAMAGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

JEROME (Ariz.) July 30.—The United Verde Copper Company is spending about $1,000,000 to secure consumption of the smoke and sulphur fumes of its great Clarkdale smelter, but meanwhile is having trouble with ranchers who claim to have been damaged. A few months ago one Verde Valley farmer secured judgment for $1; this was considered a victory for the smelter companies. During the past week these has been settlement out of court of the case against the United Verde of W. E. Woodruff, who claimed to have lost thousands of his bees through sulphur smoke. It is understood that the company sent to Phoenix for a number of hives and experimented with them. It was found that the bees really were killed by the smoke. Much of the farming land around Clarkdale has been bought by the United Verde to avoid litigation.

SEEKS TO DIE AT ALTAR

Religious Fanatic, With Self-Inflicted Wounds Gushing Blood, Breaks Up Gotham Mass

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 30.—Bareheaded, dressed in trousers and a sleeveless undershirt, bleeding from slashes across the chest and carrying a bloody knife, a man rose from the kneeling congregation in St. Patrick's Cathedral this morning, ran past the pulpit and bewildered altar boys to the altar where Father Patrick Daly was celebrating the mass.

Screams and shouts from the congregation gave a warning to the priest, but he continued the service without hurry or change of voice.

Just as the outcry came from the worshipers, Father Daly caught sight of the man, knife in hand, standing at his left. The man gesticulated and pointed to his chest where he had inflicted long intersecting cuts in the form of the cross and then pointed to the chalice.

"Yes, yes," said Father Daly. "Kneel down man, kneel down. Wait a minute."

This was spoken in a calm and sympathetic tone and appeared to soothe the lunatic, who continued to show the knife, pointing to the chalice and speaking excitedly. Father Daly gathered that the man wished to offer himself in some way as a sacrifice or give his blood in atonement, and answered the man in a friendly, conciliatory tone.

"Yes, I understand you, but you must wait. Go back and tell them at the pulpit."

The front pews are nearly 100 feet from the altar. The congregation was taken by surprise so that the scene between the priest and the maniac continued for several seconds. Both had their backs turned to the congregation, when men from among the worshipers seized the crazy man. The first of his captors threw both arms around the fanatic, pinning his arms to his side. Others twisted his wrist till the knife fell to the pavement in front of the altar.

The fanatic later described himself as Frank Johannes Gabrielle, a window cleaner. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital for observation.

"I wanted to give my life's blood for Jesus Christ," was Gabrielle's only explanation for his act.

GIRL DENIES SHE IS BOOTLEGGER'S QUEEN

JAILED MISS SAYS SHE IS HELD AS LURE TO CHIEF OF RUM RUNNERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 30.—Denying she is a "Lady Bootlegger," Miss Edith Stevens, pretty and 19 years old, today declared she is being held by Federal authorities as bait to lure out of hiding the man the Federal authorities really want.

This man, she says, is Antonio Cassese, millionaire, said be prohibition officials to be the director in chief or rum-running operators between Bermuda and New York.

Miss Stevens had previously refused to talk about Cassese, who has been sought since he jumped a $5000 bond to smuggle a vast quantity of whisky into the United States from Bermuda.

"I am waiting now to see what kind of man Cassese really is," said Miss Stevens. "If he allows me to remain in jail, a victim of my friendship for him, if he does not come back and extricate me from this trouble into which I have been drawn through him, then he is not the man I thought him, and I will not shield him.

"But, if, on reading of my arrest, he returns to rescue me from this situation, than it will be different. I have great confidence in him.

"I have been seen with him so often in public," she said, "that the prosecuting officials think the tie in our friendship will draw him back to New York. That's what they want.

AGED MAN LOST

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

KINGMAN (Ariz.) July 30.—E. P. Lambert, aged 70 years, is being searched for between the Cyclopic mine and Chloride. Two weeks ago he left the mine, with a gallon of water and a loaf of bread, headed for Chloride, but failed to arrive.

ASHURST IS AGAIN IN RACE

Arizona Senator Files Petition for Nomination; Hunt Seeks Berth

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) July 30.—Petitions for nomination to State offices are now being received in number by the Secretary of State. Among them are those of Henry F. Ashurst, who seeks re-election as United States Senator, and George W. P. Hunt for the governorship. Congressman Carl Hayden is in the State, looking after details of his renomination, and now is on the Colorado River inspecting dam sites. He and Ashurst have no apparent opposition within their party. The latter has written that he cannot leave Washington at present because of pressure of official work, but he is expected in Arizona before the date of the primary election.

Especially interesting is the strength that has been developed by Hunt, whose petitions are understood to have received 7000 signatures, though only the minimum number necessary came to the Secretary of State. This strength is becoming appreciated among the conservative Democrats and is rousing apprehension among the supporters of Charles B. Ward and others who received nomination at the Tucson convention.

At first there was declaration in the Democratic papers that the convention should be considered only a friendly conference and that no Democrat should be considered deprived by its action of the right to shy his hat into the political ring. Hunt, Jesse Boyce, Charles DeSales Wheeler and a number of others have accepted the invitation and now there is possibility that the arrangements at Tucson will be seriously mussed. So within the past week a number of the Democratic dailies have begun a strong anti-Hunt campaign. Locally there even was a double-column editorial on the subject of "bolters," with presentation of Ward as the "regular" candidate. Hunt, meanwhile, is hammering the Tucson conference as a reversion to the days of machine politics and is demanding of his party support for himself as its exponent of popular rights.

PHOENIX STRIKERS TOLD TO "MOVE ON"

MEN LODGED IN SHOPS AND PETTY ANNOYANCE ONLY IS EXPERIENCED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) July 30.—No disorder is attendant on the local railway shopmen's strike, though 150 men are out. A few days ago someone gained an idea that a silent picketing of the Arizona Eastern shops would have a degree of effectiveness. So about seventy of the strikers spread themselves around the shop area and looked, simply that and nothing more. It is not told that they accosted anyone entering the shops, but the fact that they were there was accounted a menace, notwithstanding. So the chief of police went down to the southeastern edge of the city and told the watchers to "move on." They moved. It is understood that about fifty men now have employment in the Arizona Eastern shops, possibly helping a bit in repairs to main-line Southern Pacific equipment. These workers are fed and lodged at the shops, to save them annoyance within the city. The baker who had been supplying bread to the commissary is said to have been warned that he had better not persist in his antiunion course. He obeyed the suggestion, but another baker promptly was found to take his place.

Vienna Physical Ocular Academy Owner is Held

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VIENNA, July 30.—Art suffered another severe setback today when Prof. Heinrich, self-styled director and founder of a physical culture club, was jailed and the academy opened two weeks ago to develop shapely feminine forms and impart graceful and artistic poses to young girls, preparatory to stage careers, was closed by the police.

While the mothers were sitting in an ante-room waiting for their daughters, the latter, ranging in ages from 13 to 20 years, and wearing nothing except a blush, were kicking vertically and bending in cadence to the musical bark: "One, two, three." The professor explained to the girls that the gentlemen viewing the exercises from a gallery were artists studying art, or American showmen selecting hips, legs and busts calculated to thrill tired American business men.

Yesterday plainclothes men, paying 20,000 kronen—the regular admission for artists or showmen—viewed the lesson, which ended in the professor's arrest and the closing of the academy.

NOTICIAS MUNDIALES DE ULTIMA HORA

En obsequio a nuestros numerosos amigos de habla español, y para beneficio de los lectores americanos del Times que estudien esa lengua, publicamos diariamente esta columna en castellano, con un extracto de las más importantes noticias de última hora.

Un conocimiento práctico del español es de grandísima utilidad en este país, especialmente en el suroeste; como lo demuestra el hecho de que en Los Angeles solamente, hay más de 15,000 personas que estudian ese idioma con profesores oficiales o particulares. Para esos estudiantes será un buen ejercicio leer todos los días esta sección, donde encontrarán las palabras y frases mas usuales del lenguaje español.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

Noticias de Washington

WASHINGTON, Julio 30.—Washington está lleno de esperanzas de ver terminar la crisis industrial la semana entrante, a pesar de las protestas contra el proyecto de paz del Presidente Harding expresadas por ciertos ejecutivos de ferrocarril, que temen se establezca con él un precedente sobre antiguedad de derechos de los empleados.

Estando ya casi terminado el estudio de las cuotas sobre lana, se espera que el proyecto de arancel quede listo para votación final el 15 de Agosto, después de lo cual, si en la Comisión de Conferencia no hubiere obstáculos en el programa, el Congreso entrará en receso al principio de Octubre. En tal caso, no hay esperanza de que pase en este período el proyecto de ley de subsidios a buques; pero el del plus del soldado pudiera pasar, entretanto se halle en la conferencia la ley de arancel.

El Washington oficial está intensamente interesado en las primarias del martes, especialmente en la lucha del Senador Reed para reelegirse in Missouri.

Escollo en las Negociaciones de Chita

TOKIO, Julio 30.—Están apareciendo inesferados obstáculos en las negociaciones Japonesas de Chita para reanundar las conferencias encaminadas a firmar un tratado comercial. Chita, tal vez azuzada por Moscú, está mostrando los dientes y renusando secamente dar cabida a algunas de las proposiciones Japonesas referentes al alcance de la conferencia.

Recomienda la Compra de Propiedades

WELLESLEY HILLS (Mass.) Julio 30.—Roger W. Babson, consejero de mas de 17,000 de los principales ejecutivos del país, aconseja, en declaración publicada hoy, la compra de propiedades suburbanas antes de que sea demasiado tarde. "Los grandes movimientos de propiedad raíz," dijo el Sr. Babson, "cobran ímpetu antes de que nadie se dé cuenta de lo que pasa. Porque la gente ha visto la tierra desocupada durante años, cree que siempre ha de seguir así. Es esto por lo que el terrateniente original rara vez saca utilidad de la propiedad raíz. El valor está tan cerca de sus narices, que no lo ve."

Huelga de Tranvias en Chicago

CHICAGO, Julio 30.—Todo indicaba esta noche que a la media noche del lunes se declarará una huelga general de las líneas de tracción superficiales y elevadas de Chicago. El cómputo de todos los medios de transporte disponibles, incluyendo gran número de "jitneys" y camiones que se traerán de las poblaciones vecinas, revela que 250,000 gentes por lo menos tendrán que irse a pie a su trabajo y a sus casas. Las líneas suburbanas correrán trenes adicionales con servicio de toda la noche, y los barcos chicos del lago transportarán a una gran cantidad de gente, pero millares se verán obligados á caminar a pie.

NOTAS LOCALES

El Statu quo del Jurado no se Altera

El jurado de la Sra. Madalynne Obenchain no ha llegado al acuerdo, y según los informes e oficiales más fidedignos, hay diez votos contra dos en favor de la absolución. Ayer anunció el Juez Shenk que se darían varias horas más de deliberación a los cinco hombres y siete mujeres que van á decidir sobre la culpabilidad o la inocencia de la reo del homicidio de J. Belton Kennedy. Dijo el tribunal que el jurado, aparentemente detenido en punto muerto, y con pocas probabilidades de lograr veredicto, será retenido el mayor tiempo posible, en la esperanza de evitar otra vista de la causa.

Muere un Hombre en Accidente de Auto

Al voltearse ayer completamente un automóvil con ocho pasajeros, en el Boulevard Ventura, cerca y al norte de Universal City, resultó muerta una persona y heridas seis, dos de las cuales son parientes cercanos de J. Warren Kerrigan, actor de cine. Wallace Kerrigan, Jr., y Virginia Kerrigan, jóvenes sobrino y sobrina del actor citado, salieron lastimados en el accidente, habiendo perdido en él la vida su abuelo, el Sr. C. C. Richdale, del 115 de la calle Arrillaga Oeste, en Santa Bárbara.

Enlace de Marilynn Miller y Jack Pickford

Ya Marilynn y Jack hicieron la cosa. Y con la aprobación y el consentimiento de Flo Ziegfeld, según se dice: lo cual les da la unaninimidad.

La consentida de "Sally" se convirtió en la novia de Jack Pickford ayer tarde a las 2:27, y ninguno de los presentes, ni de los ausentes, se opuso, pues, segun Lottie Pickford Rupp Forrest, hermana de Mary Pickford, Marilynn recibió hace dos días un mensaje en que Ziegfeld le enviaba sus mejores deseos, haciendo votos por que hiciera el mejor matrimonio del mundo.

A Punto de Morir en un Avión que se Cae

El aviador Walter Warner, de 30 años, que vive en el 1037½ de la Calle 16 Oeste, y Elliot Barrett, abogado de 30 años, del 4905 de la Primera Avenida, se salvaron ayer en un tris de una muerte que parecía segura, al venirse a tierra desde una altura de 1500 pies el avion en que volaban por encima de Hyde Park, y caer en un lote vacío. La unica explicación en que da Warner de su casi milagrosa salvación es que el avión, al caer, no picó derecho hacia el suelo, sino que zigzagueó en el aire de modo tal, que se moderó la fuerza de la caída.

DEPORTES

Tennis

Casi todos los jugadores de nota de Sudcalifornia competirán, en los campeonatos de tennis de dicha región, que comenzarán hoy en el Club de Tennis de Los Angeles.

Howard y Robert Kinsey ganaron ayer en Nueva York el título de parejas Metropolitano, venciendo a Sam Hardy y S. Howard Voshell.

Wray Brown, de San Luis, gano ayer en Omaha el campeonato de nones del Valle de Missouri. La Srita. Jessie Grieve, de Los Angeles, capturó el título femenino de nones.

Baseball.

San Francisco y Vernon se dividieron ayer los honores en un doble partido jugado en el parque Washington. Las focas se llevaron el primer juego por 4 a 3, ganando los Tigres el de clausura por 5 a 1.

Ayer ganó Los Angeles un doble partido a Oakland, con lo cual tiene ya cinco de la serie de siete.

Tiro de Pichón

J. M. Meek, tirador local, se llevó dos de los números en el programa aumentado de tiro de pichon que se desarrolló ayer en el Club de Escopeta de Vernon.

Carreras de Circuito

Ayer comenzaron a llegar los caballos a Toledo, para la segunda semana de carreras en el gran circuito sobre la pista de Fort Miami.

ASSERTS HUNGARY PERSECUTES MASONS

BUDAPEST PARLIAMENT MEMBER DEMANDS GOVERNMENT RESTORE LODGE RIGHTS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BUDAPEST, July 30.—Victor Drozdy, liberal member of the Hungarian Parliament, today spoke about the persecution of the Free Masons and demanded from the authorities a fair and speedy restitution of all the buildings and movables taken from them. He further demanded that persecution of the members of lodges cease.

He pointed out that Hungarian Free Masons have contributed remarkably to the progress and development of Hungarian culture. He emphasized that all civilized nations esteem the liberty and appreciate the work of Free Masonry, especially in lines of charity, while in Hungary the lodges have been plundered and requisitioned by military and political organizations. The great symbolic lodge of Hungary was attacked two years ago by a mob, he said, and after private documents and furnishings had been ransacked, the building was transformed into headquarters for a reactionary political society.

Free Masons were cowed by threats and their humanitarian work, stopped, he charged. He demanded a strict accounting and called for the punishment of those who are taking advantage of the disturbed mind of the people to hinder the peaceful and beneficent activities of the society.

Drozdy's interpretation of the situation occasioned something of a sensation. It was the first daring and open defiance hurled against the forces operating against the lawful rights of citizens.

HUNGARIAN MONEY DROPS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BUDAPEST, July 30.—The fall in the crown is continuing. The value of the dollar is now nearing 2000 crowns. Bread is 250 crowns a loaf. Hungarian money has lost 60 per cent in value during the last fortnight. This is generally attributed to the collapse of the German mark.

An Announcement of Great Public Importance

—by J. Harvey McCarthy

ACTING for a syndicate of well-known Los Angeles men, I have just purchased a magnificent tract of 136 acres on Wilshire Boulevard at Fairfax Avenue—the finest residential holding that in my entire experience of 25 years in the subdivision field it has been my good fortune to acquire.

Think of it!—a property in a section of Los Angeles famed for its residential advantages, extending 3100 feet along Wilshire Boulevard—this city's "Avenue of Delightful Vistas"—the one which has played the chief part in establishing the permanency of the Wilshire District's millions of improvements and which is inseparably linked with our steady progress toward the sea.

It commands a matchless view across the undulating Wilshire plains to the beautiful Hollywood Hills, is within easy reach of both the city and the beaches, and holds your admiration because as far as the eye can reach is a panorama unexcelled in beauty and a prospect incomparable in residential opportunity. Truly, here is a superb setting for an ideal home subdivision!

On this property will be created a residential development which shall remain for all time a distinctive mark of the finest ideals in community planning—one with which you will be glad to associate your own ideal of home! The scale upon which this beautiful tract will be developed, and the character and recognized ability of the men engaged to handle the engineering, architectural and landscaping features, may be accepted as a guaranty that a splendid conception of home environment will be carried out.

It will not be merely a formless tract intended to sell quickly without definite responsibility to those who buy, but, on the contrary, and as completely as human skill can make it, a civic development worthy of admiration and respect—a noteworthy addition to Los Angeles' admittedly superb residential environs—one combining with a naturally beautiful landscape those physical and cultural aspects which give harmony, value and refinement to home.

The dominating note of this development will be its distinctiveness and its appeal to those who cherish and preserve the finer values in home life. Not only will the home-builder be assured a setting in a scientifically developed area, but his property will be safeguarded by restrictions which guarantee the integrity of the entire tract.

Wide streets and avenues lined with shade trees will traverse it, each with its spacious approach to a central parking, where will be located a Business Patio, an ornamental fountain and picturesque lagoon. Here also will be the Pacific Electric station. Five acres will be dedicated for a Public School. A Hotel, Community Chapel and Picture Theater are proposed. Over all the building construction a competent committee will pass architectural judgment, thus assuring harmony of design and artistic merit. No unsightly poles will be permitted to mar the tract, and all public utilities will be underground. Wilshire Boulevard, along the entire frontage of the property, will be forever restricted for residential improvements, and ample restrictions will apply to other portions of the tract, giving every lot owner a perpetual safeguard.

My own and the experience and integrity of those associated with me are pledged to the task of carrying this residential ideal to a successful completion. No effort or expense will be spared to create a civic model entitled to the community's highest commendation and in which its dwellers will feel the keenest pride.

The fulfillment of our plan has been placed in hands of highest capability. Wilbur D. Cook, jr., and George D. Hall, noted landscape architects, whose careers have been associated with many notable public and private works, have been engaged to prepare the elaborate landscape plans. Aleck E. Curlett and Claud Beelman, associated architects, will plan and supervise the building construction.

Transformation of this wonderful property is already under way—men and machinery are on the ground, fast shaping it into that form which soon will establish its permanence as a development worthy of the public faith and as a notable example of beauty, harmony and architectural skill.

Thirty days yet will be required to put the tract in shape for public inspection. Meantime, no lot reservations will be made.

NTRY GASPS AT INDUSTRIES

Predictions Upset Everywhere

as Usual Despite ikes, is Reported

d Coal Shortages Are Being Felt

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

INGTON, July 30.—Indus America's ability to tear along its work when by all the of inventory and mathematics ld be prostrated by the coal is the marvel of the day in Washington. Government statisticians and others figured a month ago that in would be paralyzed early in are waiting in mute astonish with August only two days for the paralysis to set in. truth is that notwithstand belief of experts that there y a few spoonfuls of coal mills, factories, railroads tilities to run on, America's factories, utilities and rail are still running very much y were during the revival of April and May. It is un ble that there has been a down to some extent, but the down has not approached, in slightest degree, the measure disaster forecast.

TLOOK IS BRIGHTER

ports of activity during the just closing are to the effect the rail situation is improv and that the coal shortage is but that industry has as yet ly the initial effects of the strikes. Iron and steel production continue far above the average of the past six months. Car loadings, according to the latest figures of the American Railway Association, are holding up in surprising shape and exceed, by many thousands, the car loadings of any week during the winter with exception of the period immediately preceding April 1.

Manufacturing and building construction continue at high levels, the latter at the peak of its trend which in itself is a record-breaker. Money continues easy and in such great abundance that prevailing low interest rates show unmistakable signs of going lower. Business is moving along, in general, these reports state, with some little diminution caused solely by the strikes, but with the diminution little and not great.

COAL SHORTAGE FELT

On the other hand two of the chief railroads of the country, the Erie and the Wabash are reported to be extremely short of coal and have curtailed operations on that account. Half a dozen or so blast furnaces in the Middle West have banked their fires for lack of fuel. The section in and around Detroit is on scanty coal rations and the three chief carriers of nonunion coal from West Virginia fields have embargoed virtually all other freight in order to swell the volume of coal pouring from the mines they serve to clamoring industries.

Intense interest attaches to the meeting tomorrow of the Illinois miners and reports are current here that the long-heralded break in the miners' ranks will then become an actual happening. Such reports appear on the surface and seem fathered by hope rather than probability.

REBELS SACK TOWN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, July 30.—Rebels yesterday captured Santa Anna, a short distance from Guadalajara. They sacked the town and carried off Carmen Callardo, who is of a very distinguished old family. The people in the neighborhood are fleeing to Guadalajara for safety.

PEACE WISH OF UNION LEADERS

Express Strong Hopes Strike to End This Week

Rail Workers' Chiefs Meet in Chicago Tomorrow

Harding's Compromise Will be Discussed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, July 30.—With leaders of the striking railway shopmen coming to Chicago from all sections of the country for Tuesday's conference on President Harding's peace plan, union heads tonight expressed strong hopes that the coming week would see the end of the walkout which began on July 1.

B. M. Jewell, head of the six striking shop-craft unions, refused to comment on statements made by various railway executives that the question of restoration of seniority rights to the shopmen might prevent a settlement. Other strike leaders, however, emphatically declared that when the men went back to work they would regain their former status.

UNION DEMANDS

From the first the union leaders have maintained that the seniority question had been dragged into the dispute by the carriers purely as an argumentative issue to delay negotiations on the original grievances—wages, working rules and outside contracting by the carriers.

They have maintained that no settlement is possible which does not recognize and restore to the strikers their former seniority privileges and pension rights.

"Not only justice but the public interest demands that in any settlement of the strike the seniority rights of all men who are now working shall be recognized," a statement issued by the Western Railway Presidents' committee on public relations today declared.

"If those who have struck against the decisions of the United States Railroad Labor Board and tried to interrupt transportation are favored in any settlement that may be made, the incentive of men to stay at work in case of future strikes will be destroyed and the difficulty of maintaining transportation service increased. The new men in many cases left other employment with the understanding that, if competent, they would be retained in their present positions."

RUMOR DENIED

R. S. Parsons, vice-president of the Erie Railroad, sent out a telegram addressed to Chicago officials of the road, denouncing as untrue "reports that the strike on the Erie Railroad will be settled by some governmental authority."

"There is no strike-settling power vested in any branch of the government," the telegram said. "Its function is to keep order, not to settle strikes. The Erie Railroad will settle with its employees whenever they are ready, without any outside interference, and that is the only way."

The Illinois Manufacturers' Association today sent a circular to all its members, urging that they telegraph to President Harding asking him not to insist that the railroad presidents recede from their position regarding seniority.

MRS. HARRIET McKINNEY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WATSONVILLE, July 30.—Mrs. Harriet McKinney, wife of W. F. McKinney, editor of the Watsonville Pajaronanian, and daughter of H. S. Deaner, prominent resident of Woodland, died last night here. She was 40 years old.

ORIGIN OF MAN LEFT IN DOUBT

Police Forcibly Shut Up a Filibustering Pershing Square Lecturer

Free lectures?

Well, not in Pershing Square, anyway.

A. L. Olson, 341 East Sixtieth street, found that out last night in Los Angeles's well-known downtown park.

Police Sergeant F. L. Pratt and a squad of plain-clothes officers were a goodly part of some seventy-five persons that gathered about Olson, when the latter began to discuss the origin of man shortly after 6 o'clock last night in Pershing Square.

Olson certainly began at the beginning, according to Sergt. Pratt. A half an hour after his first words were uttered he hadn't progressed as far as monkeys, and the police saw that he was good to stick it out most of the night, providing his wind held out.

So the police broke up the meeting and arrested Olson, on a charge of violating the park ordinance that prohibits public speaking in Los Angeles parks.

His arrest was only one of a number that closely followed, in a police drive to "clean up" Pershing Square. The drive is said to be the result of numerous complaints from persons who declared that the walks are clogged with men with strong voices, but no other apparent vocation.

George M. Schwatzbard, 3076 Lanfranco street, and Clyde Horton, 765 San Julian street, were also arrested.

TELL MY FRIENDS ALSO TO COME.
YOU HAVE BEEN A CONSOLATION TO ME.
THUS SPEAK MANY WHO SEEK ADVICE
FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST SPIRITUALIST ORDAINED NATIONAL INDEPENDENT SPIRITUALIST ASSOCIATION ADVISER.
REV. CHARLES NEWMAN,
705 WEST 6TH ST.
ISN'T THERE SOMETHING YOU WOULD LIKE TO KNOW?
THERE IS NO DEATH.
THERE ARE NO DEAD.

Those gone before us are trying to reach us. Would you like to receive a message? The news may be good or bad, like a letter from home. But you will get it straight, honest, as received. You may like it or not. The world's greatest men have believed in spiritualism. Moses, Daniel, Elijah, The Talmud, Sefa Tora. The Bible speaks of the living dead. Justice Brewer, Judge Brandeis, Wm. McKinley, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Edison, Wm. T. Stead, Conan Doyle.

The World War was predicted 5 years before it came by a Spiritualist. Rev. Charles Newman's prediction of Judge Hiram Dannal's son's death during the World War, given at Judge Dannal's home, Goldsborough, N. C., 5 years before death on the battle field.

The end of the World War was predicted before the grand jury of Santa Cruz, California. Newman told the grand jury the war would end in the middle part of November, one year before it ended, and it came to pass as he told the grand jury. George Smith, District Attorney, Santa Cruz, called Newman before the grand jury to ascertain when the war would end. Rev. Charles Newman is a true Spiritualist who gives you the plain, honest facts as they come to him.

No, George! The Econo-Mist is NOT "One of them there Gas-Saving Devices."

It is NOT one of the 57 Varieties of Steam DOODUMS, SPARK-PLUG MIRACLES, Electric-Bean Jim-Cracks, or General Jeebiders.

It is a full-grown CARBURETOR. By Heck!

Until February 15 it sold for $27 to $50, according to size. Up to that time 12,000 had been purchased by Car Owners here in Los Angeles county alone.

But—today we, in effect, GIVE AWAY these Carburetors,—practically free of charge.

Because, after years of experience, we found it safe to sell them on such a basis that they must PAY FOR THEMSELVES out of their own Gasoline Savings, before the car owner need pay us for them.

Bring your car around to the Proving Station of the MOTOR ECONOMISTS, INC., 3000 S. MAIN STREET, and See!

INCOME PROPERTY—For Sale.

FOR SALE—Eight frame stores and old bungalow, corner 23rd and Union, 103x70. Present income $5100 per year. About three years leases. Income after January 1, $5760 per year. Then two additional stores can be erected on 23rd street and cottage moved back; this will cost less than $2000 and will increase the income $1200 a year, or a total income of $6960 per year, or 35½ per cent net. Ground value of lot alone at very lowest figure is $350 per foot and will be worth double one year from today. Union Square is waking up. The wise man from the East searching for velvet have got hold of some of the nicest, juciest corners within the past six months and money from downtown is now flowing toward Union Square. Union Square is the largest, brightest and finest area for perpetual business in this entire city and the bargains of six months ago are very, very scarce. I have this one left and its a beauty. These prices, conditions and terms expire on the night of August 14. I have this for absolute exclusive sale and can deliver it until that date for $35,000. Remember the price and don't waste your time or mine. About ½ cash or less will handle. Reasons for this sale are legitimate and no advertised bunk. This is head and shoulders above any other investment buy in this city, and is far beyond your highest ideal of imagination. Remember, this property can be delivered only through me until August 15. Real estate men pay strict attention to this and have the courtesy to refrain from bothering the owners. Courtesy extended and co-operation with any real estate men at the above price. R. H. MALONE, 3201½ W. Washington st. Phone 769357.

SALT RIVER VALLEY MELON CROP FAILURE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MESA (Ariz.) July 30.—The canteloupe shipping season has closed in the Salt River Valley. It is reported that fully one-half the crop never was taken from the vines, due to lack of refrigerator cars at a critical time, delays in transit and unusual conditions that brought the valley into competition both with the Imperial Valley late shipments and with unusually early shipments from Georgia and the South. Packing and picking costs also were maintained at high figures.

BLIND SINGER AN INSPIRATION

Radioland Hears Sightless Singer at KHJ

Soprano Wins New Laurels in Sacred Service

Rev. Bruce Brown Draws Appealing Parallel

BY LISTENER-IN

If listeners-in could have looked into The Times broadcast room on the roof of The Times Building yesterday morning and seen the cheerful personality of a baritone singer, who put his whole spirit and soul into his solos, perhaps they would have learned to believe that this old world isn't such a bad place after all. To most of them the morning was filled with sunshine, but to the singer the day is like the night, for he is blind. The thought back of Kipling's "If" was here personified. The text of Rev. Bruce Brown's fine address, founded on the immortal Bobbie Burns' world famed "A Man's a Man for a' That," found special significance in the character of this blind baritone—Earl C. Houk, who, accompanied by Grace A. Fletcher, organist of the First Lutheran Church, feelingly sang "There Is a Beautiful Land on High," by Taylor, "Fear Ye Not O Israel," by Dudley Buck, and "Open the Gates of the Temple," by Henry Knapp. A man such as Mr. Houk is an inspiration to anyone who is deep in the slough of darkness, mental or physical, and to be able to lift the voice in song so modulated that it hits your heartstrings while under the handicap of blindness, is truly an art.

Hildred Hanson Hostetter, soprano, who has sung several times for KHJ, and who is becoming well known in local music circles since she came to Los Angeles from Chicago recently, sang three solos indicative of the day and the theme of Rev. Brown's sermon. Accompanied by Howard E. Lingley, widely known as an organist and accompanist, formerly of the New England Conservatory of Boston, Mrs. Hostetter sang "Somewhere the Sun is Shining," Bach's "My Heart Ever Faithfully," and "Nearer My God to Thee," by Adams-Mason. The quality of Mrs. Hostetter's voice is unquestioned and, coupled with the extremely fine and delicate touch of Mr. Lingley's accompaniment, an accomplishment so essential to the best work of a singing artist, her vocal numbers yesterday morning were a distinct achievement in her favor.

The next of Rev. Brown's sermon will be found in another column.

The formation of a new organization calling itself the National Radio Club has been announced. This club, which has headquarters at Pittsburg, is national in scope, and is intending to perform welfare work in the way of installing radio receivers in hospitals, that the sick and crippled may listen in.

A system of rado telephony now connects the Turks Islands an the Calcos Islands in the West Indies.

With three steps of radio-frequency amplification before the detector—four tubes in all, and a loop antenna consisting of nine wires on a frame about four feet square, A. T. Altman, 1224 Loew's State Building does some very exceptional receiving. Simplicity and sensitiveness are featured in Mr. Altman's set, which has only two controls after the filaments are lighted—a potentiometer, and a variable condenser. The loop employed can be folded up, making it especially adaptable to take on camping trips.

Government crop, weather, and market reports are broadcast daily from the Arlington and Great Lakes naval radio stations, making possible the receipt of these reports throughout virtually the entire United States. The service, which was inaugurated June 15, is maintained in the International Morse code, but it is possible for operators to copy the reports and afterwards rebroadcast by radiophone so that everybody can pick them up.

"How to make a crystal receiving set," "How to make a supersensitive regenerative receiver," "How to make a loop aerial," "How to make an amplifier," and "How to make a radio-frequency amplifier" are some of the radio plans published by S. Newman & Co., New York City.

Miss Alice Robertson, Congressional representative from Oklahoma, was a strong supporter for the bill extending the use of radio.

Seventy-one additional cards and letters have been received at KHJ from persons protesting against the action of the Southern California Broadcast Association in the reassignment of hours affecting the local broadcast stations for August.

CRISIS UNSOLVED

ROME, July 30.—The ministerial crisis here is still unsolved. Although the Socialists were willing to co-operate with the demand of Sig. Orlando, they would not accept his conditions. They have now changed about, insisting again on no right-wing representation in the Cabinet. It is possible that Sig. Orlando may be forced to decline the task of forming a new Cabinet.

"THE GOOD SAMARITAN"

Parallel Drawn Between Biblical Character and Burns Lyric, "A Man's a Man for a' That

BY REV. BRUCE BROWN
Pastor South Park Christian Church

Two thousand years ago lived the greatest artist this world has ever known. His colors were love and truth, his brushes were human words, his canvas was the hearts of men. The greatest picture he gave to the world we have named "The Good Samaritan."

Eighteen centuries rolled by and there came another great artist among men. His home was in the highlands of Scotland. He was a sinner, I know, but there never was a song in the human heart but he wrote it down. His noblest work was a reproduction. Bobbie Burns, inspired by the fadeless glory of "The Good Samaritan," copied it down and called it "A Man a Man for a' That."

I speak of these great masterpieces for they express the same message. Both artists sought to teach us that there is something good in men, something divine in the worst of men. To criticise the best is a common tendency. To commend good in the worst is a rare virtue. The fault I find in folks is that they find fault with folks. If any of you shall resolve that from this time on you will see the virtues of sinners instead of the vices of saints, this hour will have been worth while.

That there is something innately and inherently good in people who have gone to the end of the downward road finds ample justification in many a wrecked and ruined life. A tramp was found dead in a Kansas City alley. He was no doubt a bum, who had spent his last nickle in a groggery and drunk and helpless was thrown out by the "bouncer." His wasted body, stiffened in the freezing cold. At the morgue they searched for his name without reward but they did find wrapped in a ragged bandana, a soiled and faded photograph, the old fashioned kind, where the man holds a baby in his lap while the woman stands with her hand on his shoulder. Marred and scarred, it could still be seen that the face of the outcast was the face of a man in the picture. At the bottom he had written, "My wife and little girl who loved me to the end of their journey." Call him what you please, beast and booze-fighter, bum and beggar, you will probably not say enough, but when you are through I want to add one word. When anyone carries with him into a starless and hopeless night the picture or memory of a woman's eyes like deep, dark wells reflecting the light of love and the smile of a baby's face laid against his own, he is still "a man for a' that." A light not from sea nor land comes into our lives with the faith that there is something savable in men, bad men, the worst of men.

These two great artists had kind words for the sinner and the only ones they ever condemned were the preachers and the oppressors of the poor. It is a blessed thing to learn to speak well of the living. If evil must be said, let it be of the dead. In a long and weary journey we have taken a few steps upward. Long ago, when the warrior came to the body of his slain enemy, he cut off his head, put it on a pole, and proudly rode into camp. When the savage had killed his foe, he cut off his scalp, hung it to his girdle, put a lariat around the neck, lashed it to his saddle, and dragged the body to his tribe. We have made a little progress. When a man is dead, no difference what he has been, we are willing to let him alone. It is better far to mutilate the dead, than to viscerate the living. If any man wants to berate me, I wish he would wait until I am buried, and then stand over my grave, and curse me as he pleases. Then it will matter not. If he wants to strike me, let him wait until the funeral sermon is ended, and then pull back the coffin glass and smite me on my cold face. It hurts now to be hit, I would not feel it then. I found a poem that tells of the stranger in the cemetery who marveled because he found marble wreaths, crowns, crosses, Bibles, and angels, but no monuments to tell of drunkards, and thieves.

"Tell me gray-haired sexton,"
I said,
"Where in this field are the wicked folks laid?
I have wandered the quiet old church yard through,
Studied the epitaphs old and new,
But on monument, obelisk,
pillar or stone,
I read of no evil that men have done."

The old man stood by a grave newly made,
With his chin on his hand, and his hand on his spade,
And I knew by the gleam of his eloquent eye,
That his heart was instructing
his lips to reply,
"In the journey through life,
the farther the speed,
The better we learn that humanity's need
Is charity's sweet spirit that prompts us to find Rather virtue than vice, in the lives of mankind.
So, commendable deeds we record on these stones,
The evil men do, let it die with their bones.
I have labored as sexton this many a year,
But I never have buried a bad man here."

So man is not quite a devil, he still is a man for a' that, in spite of all his sins and crimson stains.

Another truth pictured by these great artists, is that a good man is not quite an angel. He is only "a man for a' that." The priest, who is greatly concerned with religion, and had ministered faithfully in the temple that day with prayers and incense and sacrifice he had sought to appease his God. Even now he was conning his ritual. Perhaps he was so religious he had no time to be righteous, like many of us. Anyway he passed by on the other side, like many another man. Every church wants a little preacherette, with a little haloette around his little headette. It wants him to preach a little sermonette, and pay him a little salaryette. But when you get him, you may find that he is only a man; there are not many angels, even among the preachers.

The soul of both of these pictures is that the poor man oppressed, distressed, hungry, homeless and jobless, ignored and enslaved, is a man. He has God-given rights that no king can usurp. Slow of speech, dull-eyed, work-wrenched, and storm-drenched born without gladness, buried without pity, wounded, robbed, naked and half dead by the roadside, not of your language or religion, he is still a man. I know full well that many a grimy toiler has no use for me or my preaching. He believes I am waiting for him in the belfry with a brick to beat him in the back. But a tenderness comes into his tone when he speaks of the great Commoner, who told about the Good Samaritan. He seems to feel the touch of a brother's hand easing his heavy load. He shakes his fist at the locked door of the church, but lifts his ragged cap when he hears the Army lass kneeling in the street speak that name in prayer. Perhaps sometime we shall find that name in the long lost work for which many have searched both East and West in the darkness.

How many believe the poor man is a man? Of course, we talk it and preach it, but how many believe it? This is a mighty soft easy world for the man who is going up, but it's a mighty hard, cold, cruel world for the man who is going down. Anyhow, I know this great artist in that far-off age was a friend of the poor, and lived with sinners and loved the lost.

Sooner or later we must act on the square, and meet on the level. The low man is to be lifted up, and the high man brought low, and manhood will be appraised as the most valuable asset in this world.

Daughter of Film Director Dies of Hurts

Eleven-year-old Shirley Christie, daughter and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Al Christie of Hollywood, yesterday died of injuries received when she fell from her horse last Friday. She had been taken to the Children's Hospital in Hollywood.

The little daughter of the film director fell from her horse when she turned to speak to her riding instructor. The horse became excited, it was said, when she accidentally flanked him.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed at a late hour last night. The body is at the Strother Undertaking Company.

TRIES TO END LIFE BY DRINKING ACID

Believed to have become despondent because of domestic troubles, W. H. Bencke, aged 26 years, a soda dispenser, attempted to end his life in his home at 4701½ Moneta avenue early yesterday by drinking acid, according to a Receiving Hospital report.

Bencke was found by R. J. Hogarty of the same address, who at once notified the police. Detective Murray, who investigated, stated that the man was in such a critical condition that he could not speak when taken to the hospital. Later he was removed to the County Hospital. According to the police report Bencke has a child in the care of his wife from whom he is divorced.

TWO HURT IN PLANE ACCIDENT

Angeleno Attorney and Pilot Crash to Ground in 1500-Foot Plunge

Walter Warner, aged 30 years, an aviator, of 1037½ West Sixteenth street, and Elliott Barrett, aged 30 years, an attorney, of 4905 First avenue, narrowly escaped what seemed almost certain death late yesterday when the airplane in which they were cruising above Hyde Park developed motor trouble and plunged 1500 feet to earth, landing in a vacant lot.

Warner's only explanation of the seemingly miraculous escape was that the plane in falling did not take a straight course towards the earth, but zig-zagged through the air in such a way that the force of the fall was broken.

Warner suffered a fracture of the jaw, a fracture of the right ankle and numerous painful abrasions and contusions.

Barrett was not so seriously hurt. Both men were taken to the Receiving Hospital by Police Officers E. D. Brown and S. W. Lindsay.

Ambulance and Coupe Collide; Doctor Injured

In a collision between the Receiving Hospital ambulance and an automobile coupe driven by Dr. Clairbourne Ferguson, aged 59 years, of 232 South Grand avenue, at East Fourth and San Pedro streets late yesterday, Dr. Ferguson, Police Driver Hossick, and Nurse Preister narrowly escaped serious injury.

The ambulance crashed into the coupe while responding to an emergency call from 305 East Fifth street where it was reported a man was dying. It was traveling south on San Pedro street at a fair rate of speed, according to Driver Hossick, when an automobile cut across the intersection going east on Fourth street. Dr. Ferguson in his car followed, according to Hossick, and drove directly in front of the ambulance.

Dr. Ferguson was taken to the Receiving Hospital where a three-inch laceration of the scalp was treated by Dr. Dorn. Driver Hossick was treated for a slight scratch. The ambulance was badly damaged.

OBENCHAIN JURY STILL DEBATING

Voting for Acquittal is Varied, Report

Compromise Verdict Sought, Courtroom Rumor

Accused Appears Cheerful; So Does Burch

After approximately fifty-five hours' deliberation, during the latter part of which the vote varied between nine and ten for acquittal, according to unofficial reports, the jury deciding on the guilt or innocence of Mrs. Madalynne C. Obenchain, charged with complicity in the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, was locked up at 10:30 o'clock last night. At times it was reported that two members were voting blank, willing to cast their ballots either way. This report, however, was given little credence.

SEEK COMPROMISE

The jury did not call for Judge Shenk at any time during the day. Court attaches believed that the jury was attempting to reach a compromise verdict.

The jury probably will not be polled before this evening, it was indicated. According to Bailiff Martin Aguirre, the jury will be locked up until some time tomorrow. They may be held until Wednesday, a record for this county.

The seven women and five men yesterday battled throughout the day in their attempt to arrive at a verdict. The fight began early in the morning and continued until late afternoon.

DETERMINED EFFORT

When the members returned from breakfast in the morning a determined effort was made by those favoring acquittal to win over the minority. All types of arguments were used. James M. Rhodes of Glendale, leader of the acquittal forces, ended the first burst of orators of the day with:

"I think this woman has been kept in jail long enough," it was reported.

A long argument ensued, but no ballots were taken until after lunch. Throughout the day the jurors held their pink ballots in their hands ready to cast them, but as no change in vote seemed probable, they continued their discussion.

APPEARS CONFIDENT

In the jail Madalynne appeared confident that a verdict would be reached. She discussed the matter during the afternoon with her attorney, William B. Beirne, and seemed quite cheerful at the time. Arthur C. Burch, her co-defendant, was also optimistic and discussed freely the possibility of a verdict.

The jury was considerably annoyed at one time by a demonstration in the jail. The prisoners gathered near the north wall of the jail building.

"Three cheers for Woolwine," called one of them. A loud groan met this.

"Three cheers for Paul Roman," came next. Groans and cat calls interspersed with curses followed.

Three Generations Hear Centenarian's Story

Birthday Celebration is Class in History

Intimate Details of Spy Service Related

BY LUTHER A. INGERSOLL

Gathering around him three generations, Egbert Ingersoll, 3001 Kansas avenue, yesterday celebrated the one-hundredth anniversary of his birth.

And at that time he broke the bonds of secrecy with which, for nearly sixty years, he has bound himself, and revealed for the first time intimate details of his harrowing Civil War experiences as a member of the then newly-formed United States secret service.

No novel of adventure and romance can compare with the highlights in the life of a man who has lived 100 years and has seen this great nation grow out of its swaddling clothes and become the most respected of any on the face of the globe.

It has taken me twenty years to learn these secrets, for to Egbert Ingersoll they are secrets, and yesterday he revealed them for the first time to his children, relating the intimate details of the capture and burial of John Wilkes Booth, the assassin of President Lincoln, facts concerning which have been hitherto little known. Not only this, but other incidents were told and are published for the first time exclusively in The Times.

CONFIDANT OF LINCOLN

Egbert Ingersoll was born July 30, 1822, just 100 years ago, in the town of Victor, Ontario county, New York. It is a safe guess that Egbert Ingersoll is the only man living whose life encompasses so much that is of vital historical interest or more intimate associations with the great men who shaped the destinies of our country during the stormy Civil War period of 1861 to 1865. He was at the very fountain head and at the directing center of all activities, one of the most intimate and trusted friends of our beloved war President Lincoln, and of our great War Secretary, Edwin Stanton.

It would seem a surprise to the average American that this very unusual war story has not before been given to the world. This is very readily explained by those who have known Mr. Ingersoll intimately, as has the writer, a nephew. Mr. Ingersoll is, in the first place, an inherently modest, retiring and discreet man, never given to talking about himself. He is favored with that rare combination of personal qualities and temperament that classes him among some of the great and conspicuous heroes of the war period. Then, too, his duties were such as to absolutely forbid making his activities known to any living person.

When Fort Sumter was fired upon and hostilities commenced, Egbert Ingersoll was a harness-maker living in the then beautiful little water-power manufacturing village of Delta, Eaton county,

AUTO SMASH-UP FATAL

One is Killed and Six Injured When Car Turns Turtle Near Universal City

One person was killed and six were injured, two of them near relatives of J. Warren Kerrigan, motion-picture actor, when an automobile carrying eight occupants turned completely over on the Ventura Boulevard, just north of Universal City, yesterday. Wallace Kerrigan, Jr., and Virginia Kerrigan, youthful nephew and niece of the actor, were injured in the accident in which their grandfather, C. C. Richdale, 115 West Arrellaga street, Santa Barbara, was killed.

Those injured in the accident are:

W. C. Graves, 53 years old, 909 West Anapamu street, Santa Barbara, possible fracture of the skull, badly bruised about face and shoulders. Recovery doubtful.

Mrs. W. C. Graves, badly shaken up, but otherwise uninjured.

Miss Audrey Graves, broken right shoulder, broken right ear drum, bruised, cut and shaken up.

Mrs. C. C. Richdale, aged 48 years, face cut, arm wrenched and badly shaken up.

CHILDREN BRUISED

The two Kerrigan children were scratched and bruised but their injuries are of a minor nature. They were taken to their home, 2050 Ivar street, by their uncle. They are the children of Wallace Kerrigan, brother of the actor.

A small baby, said to have been held in the arms of one of the injured women, escaped without injury.

According to eye-witnesses of the accident, Richdale was driving his heavy touring car at a high rate of speed when he tried to take a sharp curve, skidded and ran completely off the road for about 100 feet and then tried to climb back over the small curb. As the machine started to skid sideways, Richdale evidently set his brake hard, according to the story told by other members of the party, and the car slid sideways for about a dozen feet and turned completely over. Richdale was driving from Santa Barbara with his relatives and friends.

INSTANTLY KILLED

Officers Trosper and Hartmeyer of the Hollywood division answered a call to the scene of the accident with the police ambulance. Richdale was found dead, probably instantly killed, while three of the other members of the party were in need of hospital attention.

The injured were rushed to the Hollywood Community Hospital, where Dr. S. R. Broadbent immediately began a fight to save the life of Mr. Graves, the most seriously injured. At a late hour last night it was reported that Graves was still unconscious, but had a fighting chance for life. The others were said by Dr. Broadbent to be in no immediate danger. Graves was later moved to the California Hospital.

LOS ANGELES' OWN HOME

National Guard 160th Infantry Returns from Two Weeks of Training at Camp

California's National Guard, One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry, commanded by Col. Walter P. Story, and composed of 1000 men from Los Angeles and vicinity, arrived here at 7 p.m. yesterday at the Southern Pacific Station from Del Monte, where it has been stationed on a two weeks' encampment.

From the depot the infantry paraded on Fifth street to Broadway and then to Exposition Park, under the command of Col. Story.

The infantry is composed of eleven companies from Los Angeles. The other companies are Santa Ana, Pasadena, Redondo, Alhambra and Glendale.

INTENSIVE TRAINING

"The men were put through some of the most intensive training I have ever superintended, and there was not a single complaint," Col. Story said shortly after the troops arrived yesterday.

The men were given a dinner by Col. Story immediately after the march and then allowed to return to their homes.

"The One Hundred Sixtieth Infantry, composed of one demonstration corps from the Nineteenth Infantry and the One Hundred Fifty-ninth Infantry from San Francisco, is one of the finest bodies of men I have ever seen," Maj. R. C. Cotton, senior instructor of the One Hundred Sixtieth Infantry, said last night. "Relations between all of the men have been wonderfully cordial and the One Hundred Sixtieth Infantry has done itself justice in every way. Two severe inspections by Army officers were given the men while in camp, and they passed without reproach.

"A high spirit prevails among the men. Plans are now being made to increase facilities for amusements and instructions at the armories in Exposition Park immediately.

"All forms of drill and discipline were given the men while in camp. Terrain to physical exercises were given, and with the exercises were mixed all forms of drill and formation, ranging from formal guard mount to advance rear guard."

Col. D. P. Barrows, president of the University of California, was in charge of the One Hundred Fifty-ninth Infantry from San Francisco. Col. D. J. Baker was senior instructor of Col. Barrow's infantry.

SEEIN' THINGS

[Why not share your chuckle with others? When you see something unusual, drop a note about it to the Smile Editor of The Times. Then we can all smile.]

F. S. S. notes that a Melrose-avenue real estate-insurance firm gets them coming and going with two signs, one on each side of the door. The first: "What if Your Home Should Burn Tonight?" and the other: "Four-Room Furnished Flat for Rent." Out of the frying-pan into the fire—or words to that effect.

MRS. R. B. and D. A. W. almost ran a dead heat with this gem, carried to The Times from San Berdoo by the A. P.: "A message to the Sheriff stated one of the railroad guards had been shot and killed and asked for the Coroner." There's presence of mind fer ye! Even after death!

A. H. H. notes a sign on Eighth street, between Broadway and Spring, which declares that "Art Skins Wholesale and Retail." It would appear that Art is more or less of a skinning fool. Yes? No?

D. E. C., in passing on to us this sign found on a farm house: "For Sale, Apples and Early Eggs," asks: "What is an early egg, anyhow?" Oh, so much bettah than late ones, D. E. C., very, very much bettah!

• • •

M. B. N., still faithful, adds mystery to our column today with this from The Times want-ad section: "For Exchange — Jersey Black Giant hatching eggs for Airedale dog." Wow! There's a picture for you! A black giant (seven feet if he's an inch) sitting on a nest hatching eggs while the grateful dog looks on! That's got me! I'm done!

STEAL GOLD BARS

Four bars of gold and silver, valued at $5000, were stolen from the safe of Ray Verder, manufacturing jeweler, in the Bumiller Building, 430 South Broadway, early Saturday morning. Mr. Verder reported to the police that the safe had been jimmied open.

HAY BLAZE THREATENS WAREHOUSE

Horses Are Rushed from Stables as Fire Fighters Battle Stubborn Flames

A stubborn blaze that threatened to destroy the $100,000 structure at Alameda and Jackson streets, owned and utilized by the Pioneer Trucy Company as a stable and warehouse, was fought all last night by five fire companies under the direction of Fire Chief Scott and Assistant Fire Chief Davis.

The fire, discovered by Harry Jackson, negro barn-tender, started on the fourth floor of the building, used for the storage of hay valued at $15,000. Water dripping through to the floor beneath damaged grains to the extent of $5000 additional, it was stated by George Coburn, manager of the concern.

No estimate could be arrived at regarding the damage to the building, but it is covered partially by insurance. The fire started through spontaneous combustion, it is believed, and only the timely arrival of the fire companies prevented the complete gutting of the building.

One hundred and eighty horses were stabled on the first floor of the structure, and more than half of them were removed before it was agreed they were in no danger.

MAN ENDS LIFE OVER SPILT MILK

Jumps Three Flights to Discuss Broken Bottles and is Killed

Milk and bootleg whisky were the combination that late yesterday killed 28-year-old Rudolph Dorn, according to the police.

Dorn drank the whisky first; then he eyed the milk with evident distaste.

"Who's drinking milk, anyway?" he asked the world in general.

He took the two bottles of dairy product and threw them through the window of his room, three flights up, at 802 East Fifth street.

"Who threw that milk down here?" demanded a voice from the alley.

"Just a minute and I'll come down and show you," answered Dorn, sticking his head out of the window.

He jumped. His body flattened on the pavement near the spilt milk. He died. His body went to the George A. Fitch Undertaking Parlors.

A. O. Wallace, who was in the room with Dorn, was locked in the City Jail by Detectives Carr and Hickey, after he had told the story. He, the detectives said, hadn't been drinking milk, either.

CAMPAIGN IS GETTING HOT

Hustlers Working to Win Worth-While Prizes

Bonus on Club Subscriptions Proves Incentive

Still Time to Start and Finish a Winner

Fired with the ambition to win the $16,500 home, the $8000 Spanish bungalow or one of the twenty automobiles, which head the $70,000 prize list in The Times record-breaking prize campaign, candidates are beginning to instill real campaign methods into their vote-getting. August 9 now looms up as the all-important date on the campaign horizon, for the reason that it marks the close of the 70,000 extra vote and the $725 extra gold offer, which will be distributed in ten prizes. The first prize will be $200, the second prize $150, the third $100, and on down the list to the tenth prize, which is for $20. This period—July 31 to August 9—is the vital period of the campaign.

Scores of letters being received daily tell of the $30 clubs of new subscriptions that candidates hope to send in before August 9. Both city and outside candidates declare they are going to do their utmost on the offer. And every candidate, reports show, is doing everything possible to reach the top. Seven hundred and twenty-five dollars in gold will be given as extra prizes to the candidates who turn in the highest amount of subscription payments during the offer which ends one week from tonight. These same new subscriptions also win the extra votes—70,000 votes in addition to the regular votes. There is no limit to the number of clubs a candidate may turn in, as the bonus is given on each one.

OFFER DEMANDS ACTION

This sensational double offer is creating unlimited enthusiasm all over the campaign territory. Ever since the announcement, candidates have been a unit in acclaiming The Times liberality, and with reason, for never before in newspaper history of the entire West has such a magnificent array of prizes been put up for competition. With a $16,500 house, an $8000 bungalow, twenty automobiles, three generous prizes for each of the twenty districts, and 10 per cent cash commissions, not to mention the extra prize of $725 in gold, the thought of not being able to win one of them seems almost absurd. Determination, effort and vim are the qualities that spell victory.

The campaign department wishes to emphasize that the race is just getting well under way, and there is still a wonderful opportunity to win for those who enter now. By starting now, candidates have the opportunity to win an extra gold prize—anywhere from $20 to $200—take advantage of the 70,000 extra-vote offer, and at the same time they will be working for the regular prizes to be distributed September 2.

It is not difficult to get votes.

JOHNSON NOW ON DEFENSIVE

Writer Says Candidate Has Lost Prestige

States Personal Vituperation is His Only Cloak

Blasting of His Presidential Hopes Soured Him

"Senator Hiram W. Johnson, weary in body and showing the effects of worry in every facial expression, is fighting the first defensive battle which he has waged since his entrance into the political arena in California."

This is a declaration of a prominent journalist who has followed Johnson through his every campaign, from the initial fight in 1910 until the present day, and is now touring the State with the Johnson party. He has known Johnson intimately since the beginning of his political career and writes with authority.

"Johnson today, faced with an impending defeat at the hands of Charles C. Moore in the August primaries, is a far different figure than the Johnson that came out of the West in 1916 and went into the United States Senate as the representative of that new spirit which had builded the empire out on the shores of the Pacific Ocean.

"Johnson is best when upon the aggressive. Unless he has a target upon which he may aim his fire, he is an apologetic figure. In past campaigns he has been the leader in the attack. Today he must defend himself and his weapons are useless in defense. He has thrown away principles and platforms to indulge in personalities.

JOHNSON FEARFUL

"Johnson is nervous, irritable, fearful of the result of the people's votes on August 29. Unlike the Johnson of all the campaigns from 1910 down through his presidential nomination fight of 1920, the candidate of the present campaign has denied himself to newspapermen of papers opposing him. In the past he welcomed all, whether they came to praise or damn him. He understood the newspaper men and respected those who differed with him. Today he denies himself to all who think differently than he does.

"Johnson has lost more than thirty pounds in weight. His hair is gray. His demeanor is that of a man who realizes that he has lost hold on the public—that his constituents have scratched the veneer from him."

"Johnson's peak of popularity, both at home and throughout the nation, was reached in 1920 when he was a candidate for the Presidential nomination. His campaign previous to the Presidential primaries showed him at his best. He had become a national figure, surrounded by all the glitter of western gold. His voice had been heard in opposition to the President's, a man whose height of popularity with a fickle nation, has also passed. Surrounding himself with the mantle of Roosevelt and adding all of the romance of the West, together with the West's advanced ideas in government, Johnson went forth as a demagogue whose curbstone opinions were respected everywhere.

IS NOW SOURED

"His defeat at the Republican convention soured him. His type would not do for a nation which demanded a return to a normal state of affairs in the nation.

"Johnson, from a man who fraternized with his fellows, and over a pipe of tobacco, caused every newspaper man to call him "chief" and do it in terms of affection, now snarls and takes personal umbrage at anything written in opposition to his stand in national or international questions.

"Not since 1910 has Johnson faced the voters with so much rancor in his heart. He knows better than anyone else that the people have come to know his misrepresentations and to demand his recall.

"He chatters about fighting the old gang and in the same breath announces that his henchmen are none other than the men whom he excoriated at the beginning of his political career.

"Johnson is a typical demagogue today.

"He mistrusts even his own advisers. He has differed with them in the present campaign. He wished to launch forth into personalities upon his arrival in San Francisco, but his lieutenants, realizing that his stiffest opposition is in the South, counselled with him to refrain. He only partially consented. His thunder was divided and none knew it better than he.

"Ill-tempered, a new trait for Johnson, and trembling with rage, he has refused to answer questions as to his record in the Senate. Herein he has admitted his first weakness and the final crumbling of his hold on the public mind."

PLANS TO ENTERTAIN COMMANDER

American Legion Chief in California Coming to Meet Local Men

Elaborate plans are in course of preparation to celebrate the arrival here of John R. Quinn, Commander, Department of California, of the American Legion.

While complete plans of the Legion chief's visit here will be announced late, the celebration, at which time Commander Quinn desires to meet every Legionnaire, will be held in the Washington Building Thursday evening, August 3, under the auspices of Los Angeles Post No. 8.

This is Commander Quinn's first visit to Los Angeles and local Legionnaires plan to make the most of it, according to the extensive program being arranged.

COMMISSARY MEN ARE TRANSFERRED

H. A. Butler, assistant manager of dining cars, hotels and restaurants for the Southern Pacific Company at Los Angeles, has been transferred to the northern division as assistant manager in charge of the West Oakland commissary with headquarters at West Oakland. C. R. Walsh succeeds Butler in charge of the southern division at Los Angeles.

STIMSON ATTACKS JOHNSON

Words of Senator Are Wholly Insincere, Says Former Johnson Leader

Marshall Stimson, former leader for Johnson in his fight for office when he represented progressive principles, and now enrolled in the rapidly-growing ranks of Charles C. Moore advocates, was present when Hiram appeared in Los Angeles Friday night to "whip in the same old gang."

Mr. Stimson says he noted, as did thousands of others, the "gang" aspect of the Johnson meeting. He noted who was on the stage with Johnson and what interests they represented in the days when the "gang" was firmly entrenched and could be driven out only by terrific fighting which had real principles of government and justice as its inspiration. Here is what Mr. Stimson said last night:

"I heard part of Senator Johnson's speech Friday night. The most remarkable thing about it was its hypocrisy and insincerity.

"How can any man who is sincere stand up and say he is fighting the old, old gang when on his own committee and managing his campaign are many of the men who used to belong to that old, old gang?

"Can anyone understand how a man can be sincere who said of William Randolph Hearst that he and his papers were assassins of character and apostles of the sandbag and the sack, and now follows the Hearst policies and accepts Hearsts financial aid and support?

"How can a man be sincere and denounce corrupt politicians and those who make use of politics for private gain and at the same time allow his campaign to be managed by crafty machine politicians manipulating one of the most strongly-organized bands of officeholders ever united behind a candidate in this State?

"How can a man be sincere when he says that he stands for the interests of the plain citizen and yet, by his record in Congress, show no activities in behalf of progressive legislation and actually dodge issues of vital interest to the common people?

"How can a man be sincere and declare that he stands for moral principles and have his campaign in many places in the hands of men who are actually organizing lawbreaking forces who hope through him to receive aid in some fashion in their purpose to make ineffectual the Eighteenth Amendment?

"No living man can shout loud enough or tear himself to pieces in passion vehemently enough to drown the damning effects of the truthful answers to these questions, which stand like milestones in his record and which every one not blinded by partisanship or attached to him by reason of favors received or expected must see and understand."

MOORE IS INDORSED BY DIVINE

Johnson's Opponent is Better Fitted for Office, Declares Rev. Walker

Because Charles C. Moore personifies those ideals of governmental policies that best conform with his own, Rev. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles, says that he favors his election to the United States Senate rather than that of Hiram Johnson.

Although not wishing to be considered a political factor, Dr. Walker declares that in his opinion, judging from the past record of Mr. Johnson, and the public services of Mr. Moore already rendered, he believes that Mr. Moore will more thoroughly represent and carry out the desires of the people of California, in the capacity of United States Senator than Hiram Johnson has done, or can do.

His endorsement of Moore over Johnson, he says, is based upon his judgment of the two men from his reading of them and their public activities.

Plans Traffic Class for Men Driving Trucks

Plans for a course of study which is to be given free of charge to truck drivers to acquaint them with local traffic rules and regulations will be outlined tonight at a banquent of the Truck Owners' Association of Southern California at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Executives of department stores, creameries, transfer companies and other concerns which operate large truck fleets have been invited to attend the affair in order to get acquainted with the work of the association. Amon the speakers will be U. S. Dist. Judge Bledsoe, Attorney John T. Houser and F. L. Allen.

The need for a course of traffic study was brought home to the truck owners' organization by the number of drivers who have been hailed into court through ignorance of the laws. Inasmuch as 90 per cent of the vegetables consumed in Los Angeles, as well as a large portion of the other merchandise, are carried in motor trucks, the importance of such instruction is growing greater every day.

Hold Services Over Body of Pioneer Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Helen A. Woodward, aged 82 years, widow of John F. Woodward, who was manager of the old U. S. Hotel and of the Hollenbeck Hotel, will be conducted today at 10 a.m. at the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn Cemetery. Mrs. Woodward died in Burbank last Tuesday at the home of her niece, Mrs. C. Phelps.

Before going to Burbank about two years ago, Mrs. Woodward had lived in Los Angeles forty-two years. The funeral arrangements are in charge of L. B. Scobern & Company, Glendale.

VOTE TALK OF JOHNSON IS FAILURE

Voters Not Misled With Floods of Literature Being Sent Out

The campaign that is being conducted for Charles C. Moore for the Republican nomination for United States Senator in California against Hiram Johnson, the present Senator, has developed the fact that there are a great many Republicans, and many of these former supporters of Johnson, who are disgusted with Johnson's attitude toward the present Republican administration.

Upon being told by Johnson adherants in the present campaign and being flooded with Johnson propaganda attempting to show that Senator Johnson, and Johnson alone, has secured them favorable tariff Legislation, the citrus growers and the walnut growes, and other growers, too, call to mind the fact that had they accepted the advice of Mr. Johnson some years ago there would have been no Republican party in California, and therefore no California Senators or representatives in Washington whose voices would have been heard by the Republican party or who would have had the influence to secure tariff legislation favorable to this State.

California agriculturalists are not being misled by this persistent propaganda for Johnson. They have good memories, and they cannot be made to believe that Senator Johnson, leagued with L.Fallette, Reed, Borah and Hearst, and not in sympathy with the Republican leaders in Congress, or with President Harding and his cabinet officers, could alone and singlehanded secure for them favorable legislation.

Like the attempt of Johnson's campaign managers to keep up the delusion with the working people that Johnson has been working tirelessly in their behalf, and with the women that Johnson has been leading the fight against child labor for the past six years, this effort to delude the agriculturists is falling flat.

From all of the Southern California counties comes absolute assurance to the men and women who have launched the campaign for Charles C. Moore that few are being fooled by the Johnson propaganda.

MINISTER SUPPORTS CANDIDATE

Moore Given Commendation by Rev. Grieves, Who Knows the True Man

Strengthening materially the support which Charles C. Moore, Republican candidate for United States Senator, is receiving from all elements who know of his private life and his public activities, is the indorsement of Rev. Thomas O. Grieves, pastor of the Westlake M. E. Church in this city.

Dr. Grieves' statement of the reasons for giving this indorsement serve also to bring out prominently the side of Mr. Moore's character least known to the people of the State—his generous giving of time and financial aid to charitable causes, and his welfare work.

The indorsement of Mr. Moore's candidacy by Dr. Grieves recites: "My indorsement of Mr. Moore is given freely because I know it is well bestowed. Mr. Moore's home life has been ideal; his work in charitable purposes has been great, although not well known because of his modest nature, and his leading part in welfare work has been most effective.

"I am in favor of Mr. Moore because he has shown that he is the type of man that is needed in high place. He is unselfish, and he cannot be swayed from his purpose by any promise of self-aggrandizement or other selfish interest. He will carry out the will of the people of the State he represents without thought of self. He is a great man because he is straightforward, undesigning and unselfish."

Retired Mail Carrier Ends Life With Gas

Using flexible gas extension cords in order to bring illuminating gas to his face, Charles Hall, aged 57, a retired mail carrier, committed suicide at his residence, 2634 Gleason avenue, early yesterday, according to reports made by the Boyle Heights police, who investigated.

Mrs. Hall and her daughter had been visiting friends Saturday evening, and upon returning home found Mr. Hall's door locked. The gas fumes attracted their attention and the two women suspected something was wrong and screamed for help. By the time Officer J. W. Patten arrived on the scene two men were trying to break the door down.

Bursting into the room, the investigators discovered the corpse resting on the bed, the right hand holding a tube from which a stream of gas was flowing..

Mr. Hall, for whose self-destruction no motive has been found, was the son of the late David S. Hall, who planted the world-famous old grapevine at San Gabriel. Funeral services have not yet been arranged at the Vesper undertaking establishment, where the body was taken.

Montebello to Continue Being Incorporation

The application of the State to disincorporate the City of Montebello was denied by Judge Murray of Madero county Saturday, sitting for Judge Hewitt. It was contended that the notice of the hearing before the Supervisors was not sufficient. Judge Murray held the notice was sufficient, and Montebello will continue as a city as it is.

EVEALS CIVIL WAR SECRETS

narian After Sixty Years of Silence Discloses Details of New Secret Service

which his father, Deacon Ingersoll, had founded in wilderness on Grand Riv- 1836. Deacon Ingersoll was western pioneer who by stages, coming west his early Massachusetts early manhood. He in the Genesee River Western New York. Here, 8 years, Egbert Ingersoll candle while his father an invention which made him wealthy. the first practical mow- machine with a shuttle cut- device, and with it Deacon successfully cut hay, run- it in front of a span of He built this mower pain- by hand, working into night, and, although a mere Egbert helped in the work.

Ingersoll emigrated New York to Michigan in days, arriving at Farm- Oakland county, and halt- there. Being a Congregation- he became one of the found- Oberlin College in Ohio, and he later founded a seminary at Delta, Mich., the first in the wilderness country.

FAMILY FOUNDS CITY

Deacon Ingersoll brought with him into Michigan fourteen healthy children, and they all grew to maturity, married and formed the foundation of a prosperous pioneer community with its church, red schoolhouse, seminary, two sawmills, grist mill, general store, village blacksmith, harness maker, cider mill—lots of work and lots of play in season, fishing, swimming, skating, coasting, dancing, foot racing, wrestling matches, apple paring bees, corn husking bees, maple sugar parties, Sunday-school picnics, dinner socials, loving, courting and marrying.

Egbert Ingersoll was one of them and stood for it all. He courted and married the belle of the ball, Mattie Holmes, a thrifty, cornfed girl, who lived not far down the river at Grand Ledge. They settled down on a forty-acre farm near the village.

Then the Civil War broke out, and Egbert Ingersoll got busy as a recruiting officer and in raising war money, at which he was a success. There also had located at Delta one Capt. Remember Baker, a Green Mountain (Vt.) Yankee, grandson of that Capt. Remember Baker who was a brother-in-law of Col. Ethan Allen, who commanded a company of Green Mountain boys, and was at Allen's elbow when he captured Fort Ticonderoga.

KNEW ANGELENO'S FATHER

Capt. Baker, the first mentioned, was the father of Col. (later Gen.) Lafayette C. Baker of Civil War fame at Washington, and also the father of the late Milo S. Baker, founder of the Baker Iron Works of Los Angeles. Milo S. Baker was the father of Fred L. Baker and Milo A. Baker, prominent in the commercial development of Los Angeles.

Lafayette C. Baker was a boyhood playfellow of Egbert Ingersoll at Delta, and later drifted East and became a surveyor and civil engineer at Philadelphia. He was there as an engineer for the government when the war broke out. President Lincoln, on the recommendation of Gen. Winfield Scott, then commander-in-chief of the U. S. Army, selected young Baker to go to Richmond (Va.) to secure and bring to him a detailed statement of war activities in Richmond and thereabout. He was thus the first Union spy to invade the new Confederacy, and he fully accomplished the object of his difficult mission. For this the President commissioned him a colonel to organize for the Army what was mustered into the service as the First District of Columbia cavalry and became well known as "Baker's Black Horse Cavalry," wholly made up of six-foot men with black horses.

HEADED CAPITAL GUARD

When Lincoln reviewed these 750 cavalrymen he assigned them as the Washington home guards since the national capital was then but feebly guarded against the Southern enemy.

Baker was advanced to the rank of brigadier-general and was commission by Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War, to organize a secret-service bureau, this bureau being an adjunct of the War Department. He accomplished this and was at the head of the secret service until the close of the rebellion.

It happened that his duties took him on an important mission to Michigan. While there he visited a sister, Emeline Baker Ingersoll, who had married Alexander Ingersoll, a brother of Egbert Ingersoll, and there he met again his boyhood chums. He took Egbert with him on his return to Washington and secured for him a position in the government saddle and harness shops.

Secretary Stanton had some especially secret work that some one must be entrusted with, and he ordered Gen. Baker to secure a man to do it. Egbert Ingersoll was introduced to the War Secretary, and he performed the duties so satisfactorily that he was retained in the secret service as a special agent of the War Department, and he remained in that work until hostilities ceased.

CARRIED WAR MESSAGES

It not infrequently occurred that Stanton wished to have communication with the President that he could not safely put in writing and was unable to convey personally, and Mr. Ingersoll was given these verbal messages to tell to President Lincoln, often returning the reply thereto to Secretary Stanton. I have at times during the past twenty years tried to get from my uncle something of the nature of those messages, but always to no avail. I think him about the most secretive man, and at the same time as socially entertaining, as I have ever known.

During the later stage of the war high bounties were paid for recruits to the Army and an organized gang of bounty jumpers was operating in New York City. They enlisted in New York, drew their bounty money, then crossed the river to Hoboken, N. J., and under assumed names, enlisted again and drew another bounty. Gen. Baker sent detectives from Washington to New York to break up the gangs, but these detectives loafed around hotels, did little but draw their pay and took hush money from the traitors and thieves. Egbert Ingersoll was finally detailed to detect these detectives. He joined them, learned their game, jumped the bounty, according to their instructions, then called on Gen. Baker for help and captured 400 of them and lodged them in Old Capitol prison on Potomac Flats near Washington.

PLANNED BOOTH CAPTURE

Mr. Ingersoll did other work in the capture, trial and conviction of dealers in contraband of war and unlawful speculators in Army supplies and accoutrements. He was with Gen. Baker at the Astor House in New York City, when, on the morning of April 15, 1865, the general received a telegraphic dispatch from Secretary Stanton stating that the President had been assassinated and was dead, and ordering him to report immediately at the War Department. He did so, taking with him Lieut. L. B. Baker and Egbert Ingersoll.

From Stanton's office they went to Gen. Baker's office, and there plans were matured for the capture of John Wilkes Booth, Lieut. L. B. Baker, Col. E. J. Conger and Egbert Ingersoll being present. Mr. Ingersoll's participation in this conference was that of an aide to Gen. Baker. He was not an enlisted soldier, but a civilian secret agent of the War Department. He assisted in mustering and equipping the expedition that captured Booth, remained at Gen. Baker's office during the raid into the interior, and with Gen. Baker carried the first news of Booth's capture to Secretary Stanton. He later accompanied Gen. Baker to the city docks to meet the transport John S. Ide that bore Booth's body up the Potomac River.

When it landed Booth's body was transferred from the Ide to the monitor Montauk, where the postmortem examination was held, which Gen. Baker and Mr. Ingersoll attended.

BOOTH'S FACE HAGGARD

Booth's body, Mr. Ingersoll states, was laid on a carpenter's bench, wrapped in a gray army blanket, and a guard was placed over it. The lips were tightly compressed, and blood had settled on the lower part of the face and the neck. Booth's face was pale and wore a wild and haggard look, indicating extreme exposure and intense suffering. His hair was disheveled and dirty, and apparently had not been combed since he fled from Ford's Theater. The head and breast only were exposed to view, the remainder of the body being covered with a piece of canvas sail cloth.

The shot which closed his career entered on the left side at the back of the neck at a point not far different from that which took the life of our beloved President. The dead body was turned over to the War Department and thus to Gen. Baker for final disposal secretly. Gen. Baker, with Lieut. L. B. Baker, a cousin of the general, and the real captor of Booth, and with Egbert Ingersoll, received the remains on the night of April 27, 1865, lowered it into a small rowboat and in inky darkness floated down the Potomac River to Old Capitol prison. By a dim lantern light they interred it in a shallow grave under a stone slab of the floor of a convict's cell, a location known for a long period of time to no other persons.

BODY GIVEN TO FAMILY

Secretary Stanton had stated that he did not want to know what became of the body, and he instructed his subordinates never to reveal the last resting place of the assassin's body, and for several years they were the sole possessors of the secret. Finally, when the public mind had become subdued and conditions more normal, Booth's remains were delivered to family friends and given a final resting place in a cemetery in Baltimore, Md. Both Gen. Baker and Lieut. Baker have long since passed on to the great unknown, and while the secret of Booth's temporary resting place has become known, Egbert Ingersoll kept

DOUBLE-HEADERS

Practically all of Hiram's battling has been with his jaw. When he speaks of starting a two-fisted fight he probably means a two-faced one. Ask the Southern Pacific crowd.

SPIRIT IS WILLING

Senator Johnson is going to move the Pacific Fleet from Los Angeles Harbor to San Francisco. What is he going to do with it? It can't be done with a stump speech and he can't move a battle fleet by waving his arms. Beyond that, his capacities for damage are limited.

MUSIC IN THE AIR

Now they have begun to kick on the broadcasters. The radio fans complain that there is too much jazz and superfluity of fox-trot records. This seems to be something that there is no getting away from, even when one tunes up for another wave. The only way to get rid of jazz is to take an ax and break up the whole blooming business.

ON TO WASHINGTON

Efforts are being made to remove the headquarters of the United States Railway Labor Board to Washington. Whenever there is anything serious on it seems important that the board should be at the seat of government. All the forces of adjustment appear to settle around the capital. Under the law the board was located at Chicago, but this is a technicality that may be surmounted. Chicago is a poor place to settle labor troubles, anyway.

THE OUTLOOK

Democrats are professing encouragement over the outlook in the Congressional elections this fall. They think there will be quarrels over the tariff and anger over the bonus measure. If there is any discontent the Democrats will capitalize it. The object of the Democratic party is to find fault and to mourn. It is a party made up of pallbearers and misanthropists. So far as the Republicans are concerned the Democracy is a brake rather than a spur. When the Democrats profess encouragement it really doesn't mean anything.

WRIGGLING TO MUSIC

There seems to be nothing but boiling denunciation of the wiggle-waggle. It is a dance in which the performers seem to be writhing in each other's arms and to the casual eye it looks more indelicate than a South Sea hugging match. When evoluted to the ebullient tempo of a jazz band it looks more like a disease than a dance. It is well that these feverish Terpsichorean forms are waning. Advices from headquarters convey the impression that our dancing is to rapidly become more dignified and discreet.

SCHOOLING OUR YOUNG

It is hoped that there will be a harvest of bullseyes. According to reports of the Board of Education it cost $111.22 a head to teach the young idea how to shoot in Los Angeles during the last fiscal year. Time was when $30 was considered a heavy annual per capita charge for a common-school education, but that does not go far in these days. The expenditures of the board for the fiscal year were $18,711,000 and the citizens have voted bonds for a further building program which calls for $17,000,000 in addition to the normal levies. All things considered, the community is doing fairly well by its young and it is hoped that the results will indicate a reasonable appreciation.

RUBBERING

They are experimenting with rubber pavements in South America and the Department of Commerce at Washington is considering the possibilities in this country. Usually the waste rubber is used in conjunction with ground bark and the result is a firm, tough surface that is capable of resisting much wear and will bear up under surprisingly heavy loads. Where the experiments have been made the rubber pavement is cheaper than any other permanent one. It may be worth considering in this country. The day may come when we will have a rubber Wilshire Boulevard extending from Pershing Square to the Palisades. It would be a fine thing if the surplus rubber in the necks of tourists could be made available for commercial purposes.

ROUGH ON RATS

The government claims that it is quite possible to rid the country of rats. A general raid on the rodents would wipe out most of them. Twenty experts have been assigned to the task of relieving the city of Chicago of its ratty incubus. They are going to get rid of the rats in the manner in which the Roman emperors disposed of their rivals. They will invite them to a banquet and then put lethal concoctions in their food. The government is using barium carbonate as the piece de resistance at the spread. This is a mineral poison known otherwise as witherite. In Chicago it will be mixed with liver, cheese and tomatoes and temptingly placed where the rats do most congregate. If the animals partake of this refreshment their end is speedy and certain. If the twenty administration experts can free Chicago from its burden of rodents it will be a fine thing for the town. The local administration is one calculated to encourage the critters.

THE MAN FOR THE JOB

California voters will have opportunity at the primary election August 29 to lift a very important, but a very-much-abused public office into the realm of real effectiveness and active utility.

Despite the important powers and prerogatives of the Lieutenant-Governor of this State, it has ordinarily been the practice in former years to select some willing individual, tie his candidacy to that of the candidate for Governor and then, if the Governor should be elected, use him as a rubber stamp for the State administration.

Out of this practice the worst of evils have come. The Lieutenant-Governor has been without an independent voice, without the desire for an independent voice, in the affairs of State government.

The most vicious abuse encouraged by this system of electing figureheads for the next highest administrative office of State government is that the Lieutenant-Governor is not only an administrative officer, but that he holds the deciding vote in case of an equal division in the State Senate.

Thus, his functions being both administrative and legislative, upon him at any time may depend decisions of vital and far-reaching importance to the citizenry of the State.

As an automaton for the State administration, bound by administration machine interests, his will, subject to the dictation of the Governor or of those who may control the will of the Governor himself, the Lieutenant-Governor not only loses his power for service to the people, but becomes an actual menace to free government.

The present contest for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor strikingly exemplifies this situation. The incumbent candidate seems to find satisfaction in advertising himself not only as the creature of the present State machine, but of the machine that preceded the existing one. His official activities have been marked by no originality of his own, but by servile obedience and by unthinking truckling to the political group in power.

State Senator Joseph A. Rominger, independent candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor, is a man of another stamp.

In Sacramento as a legislator, facing the sure and unceasing bitterness and vengeful reprisals of a State machine bent upon an orgy of wastefulness and political management of government functions, he has for more than eight years, as State Assemblyman and State Senator from Los Angeles county, steadfastly and faithfully led the fight for reform.

His qualities of leadership and his thorough grasp of the affairs of State government, his complete freedom from domination by any group either inside or outside of the State machine, his platform pledging him to do all that he can to bring about a wise and economical administration of State affairs recommend him for the Lieutenant-Governorship.

His past record for faithful, intelligent and vigorous service to his constituency guarantees his future performance. He will be a rubber stamp for no man and for no group of men.

A tribute to Senator Rominger and his public service in California, prepared by his neighbors and friends and associates for more than sixteen years in Long Beach and signed by several hundred business men, workers, ministers, club women, lawyers, doctors, merchants and civic leaders of the beach community, says of him:

Senator Rominger has, as a legislator and a citizen, both in Sacramento and upon the public rostrum, advocated and voted for all constructive legislation and has devoted particular attention to measures looking to the greater protection and salvage of the dependents, defectives and delinquents among our citizenship, and has likewise been a most earnest advocate and supporter of all other measures tending to upbuild and enlarge our educational institutions and facilities and give the youth of this State opportunities equal to those offered by any other State, or better.

He was a pioneer in opposing the great and useless expenditure of the people's money, in building up a State machine and supporting the useless commissions and commissioners, foreseeing clearly the added burden it would be to the people of the State of California. Both in the Legislature and upon the public rostrum he has opposed and warned against unreasonable and unjustifiable increase of State expenditures from $35,000,000 in 1915 to $47,000,000 in 1917 to $52,000,000 in 1919 and to $91,000,000 in 1921, and his championship of the private citizens' rights against the State machine and its orgy of expenditures has been persistent, forceful and aggressive, and excelled by none.

Senator Rominger, as a patriotic citizen and loyal public official, has consistently decried useless State costs, but he has always made it plain that he indorses all proper and necessary government expenditures. His hearty support of the proposed $10,000,000 bond issue for aid of ex-service men is a specific instance of his attitude in such matters, for which we commend him.

At a time when there is a regrettable tendency to disregard law and order, when there are insidious influences that menace the secred institutions of the government founded by our forefathers, it is a matter of public congratulation that we have in Senator Rominger a man who has stood and who stands fearlessly for the impartial enforcement of all national and State laws.

For these reasons we heartily indorse Senator Joseph A. Rominger for Lieutenant-Governor of the State of California, and we take pleasure and pride in presenting his name to the people of this State as a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor.

The State machine is out to defeat Senator Rominger and the machine will be successful if the issues are not clearly understood. If the incumbent is re-elected the same old abuses will continue; the Lieutenant-Governorship will simply be a sinecure with an honorarium attached.

With Senator Rominger as Lieutenant-Governor the people will be assured of an independent mind and a fearless personality willing to restore the office to the dignity and usefulness intended for it by those who made it a fundamental part of the constitution of California.

REWRITING AMERICAN HISTORY

Is the American history we have been and are still teaching in our public schools ethically wrong and reportorially inaccurate? If so, a number of zealots are apparently willing to throw themselves into the breach and edit its pages to harmonize more with their own personal views and private idiosyncrasies.

Of course, these rewriters are entirely disinterested in their offers to help the history classes in our American public schools to a better understanding of their own country.

One group declares that a true history of the American Revolution should clearly demonstrate that this was but a small family misunderstanding, the fighting of little consequence and the result perfectly satisfactory to both contestants. It is not difficult to surmise from what sources these would-be editors have drawn their inspiration.

Another group attacks our school histories for an exactly opposite reason. It seems that these histories minimize the hatred engendered by the revolution, do not sufficiently enlarge on the atrocities committed by the British and evidence far too conciliatory a spirit. A close investigation of this second group of near-editors discloses that their patronymics generally start with a "Mac" or on "O."

Another group wishes to stress the great benefits America has received from the infusion of Teutonic blood, to devote more space to the doings of Baron Steuben and less to the feats of Lafayette. These suggestions, it will be found, come from certain societies that, during the late unpleasantness in Europe, found it convenient to conceal their identity.

Against this group is pitted another, claiming that the American schoolboy before everything else should be taught never to forget the great debt he owes to France, that certain incidents in Washington's administration might very well be passed over and the slogan, "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute," be excised altogether.

So it goes on—and to all these hyphenated sticklers for historical accuracy we have but one answer. The American nation can attend to the writing of its own history and, if any changes are necessary, they will be made by American pens and written in American ink.

But there is another set of objections deserving of closer consideration. They come from good and worthy persons who would make history minister to the sentiment for universal peace. So they would eradicate war from the relation of events in the national growth of America.

It would be very nice if our farmers could grow hogs that were all ham and bacon and no guts. Wars are the guts of history and no history could be compiled without them. Because history is not supposed to deal with things as they should be—but as they are. Just as a pork butcher has to deal with a real, not with an ideal, animal.

Unfortunately in America, as in every other country, in the past all great issues—from which the national life has evolved—have been decided by the arbiter of war. It was thus that we gained our independence, thus that we maintained the Union, thus that we freed Cuba and changed the course of events in Europe.

Not to relate what war has done in history would be to leave many of the most important changes and advances incomplete and unaccounted for. Peace and war have been too closely knitted into the life of every nation for any historian to separate them.

Moreover, the pains and agonies, no less than the heroisms and victories, that our fathers and forefathers went through for the life of the republic, are as much our historical heritage as the record of each peaceful advance made in art and science and commerce. For the gains and losses of war we are still today paying the price. Are we to keep our children in ignorance of how the great issues were brought about or refuse to tell them of the heroic deeds that were part and parcel of their settlement?

THE VISION OF DISARMAMENT

Giant strides were made toward the ideal of disarmament on Monday when Lord Esher, chairman of the disarmament commission of the League of Nations, offered specific proposals for the reduction of European armies. Lord Esher's proposal apportions the standing armies according to a unit plan, 30,000 men to comprise a unit, and under which France's allotment would be 180,000, Poland and Italy 120,000, England, Greece, Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, Spain and Czecho-Slavia 90,000 and Switzerland and Belgium 60,000.

Although Russia is not included in this proposal, one of the few promising signs of grace from Russia at Genoa was her offer to disarm if other countries did likewise.

The one country with whom this scheme will find the greatest disfavor is France, who stands with the greatest trained standing army in the world today. But, as any disarmament scheme must and will inevitably include Germany, with whom the powers are now in a position to deal effectually, France would find a serious moral difficulty in thwarting this tangible scheme for general disarmament should a majority of the rest of the powers concur in it.

It must be remembered that this proposal emanates from the disarmament commission of the League of Nations, of which all the countries named are members. It may also be observed that, although the United States is not a member, this country has already led the way in limitation of its army and drastic demobilization.

Moreover, naval disarmament has already begun, naval limitation an accomplished fact, as affecting those nations participating in the Washington Conference. This is now to be extended to nations not represented at the conference, the negotiations in the hands of Admiral Segrave of Great Britain being now under way.

Thus the vision of disarmament grows tangibly nearer for all the war and talk of war that is still rife in the world. That the League of Nations, about which so much disparagement has been lavished, should come to life with so tangible and practical a scheme for limiting and circumscribing military activity is distinctly gratifying. And that it should have done so in the midst of the latest European negotiations, when the nations are gathered together in conclave, is most opportune.

In fact, there is evidence and to spare that the will to peace is growing and that countries are now honestly contemplating substituting sacrifices for peace for sacrifices for war. Only France stands reluctantly aside, nursing her grievous hurt. But she, too, may be won to the newer honor, the newer, greater and finer sacrifices of peace, as the grim memory of the war recedes and the raw hurts tend to heal.

RIPPLING RHYMES

OSTENTATION

I load my aunts with precious stones, I hang rich furs upon their bones and send them through the town. "The fact that I am heeled," I say, "with coin enough to load a dray must have a wide renown. I represent the newly rich and, having clambered from the ditch up to a high estate, I want the whole blamed world to know that I have every kind of dough put down in keg and crate." My house is like a large hotel and in it stately footmen dwell, a butler from abroad; with jeweled tools I swat the flies—and all is done to advertise the fact that I've a wad. My socks are brought from far-off France, and London tailors make my pants, my neckties come from Rome; and yet, with splendor all around, I heave a sort of doleful sound, as I sit in my home. For all my efforts don't impress my mossback neighbors, I confess, and hence my weary sigh; those neighbors watch my trail of smoke and seem to size me as a joke and smile when I go by. Old guns who sit in shabby nooks and paw the leaves of ancient books look on me with disdain, and residents whose only pride is that their dads for freedom died observe me with a pain. With such a bank account as mine, with all around me sleek and fine, my life should be a song; I am the man who cuts the ice, I am the one who has the price and yet I don't belong.

WALT MASON.

HARDING'S ADMINISTRATION

When the Republican administration took charge of the government there was a national bonded indebtedness of $23,000,000,000 with an annual interest charge of over $1,000,000,000. This was an increase of 2300 per cent in the public indebtedness compared with 1913, when the Democratic administration took charge of the government. In 1913 the total public indebtedness was less than the interest charges at the close of the Democratic administration. Within the last sixteen months the public indebtedness has been reduced by $700,000,000, and a very appreciable per cent of the indebtedness has been refunded at a lower rate of interest.

When the Republican administration came into power government bonds were selling at 85 cents on the dollar. Today every issue of Liberty and Victory bonds is selling at par or better. This represents an increase of $3,000,000,000 in the value of government securities in the sixteen months since the Republicans took charge.

When the Republican party took charge sixteen months ago the nation had $11,000,000,000 outstanding in foreign loans, for which it had no written evidence of indebtedness, much less any business or legal agreement as to how and when the loans and interest were to be paid. A refunding commission has been created for the purpose of getting these loans on a commercial basis and arranging a method whereby the principal is to be taken care of and interest paid.

When the Republican administration came into power the discount rate of Federal reserve banks was 7.5 per cent for gilt-edge commercial loans. This has been steadily reduced until it is now 4.5 per cent.

The last year of the Democratic administration the actual cost of running the government was $5,538,040,689. The actual cost of running the government for the current fiscal year ending June 30 will not exceed $3,922,372,030. This is an annual saving of $1,600,000,000 which this Republican administration has made in the routine expenditures of the government.

This saving has been due largely to the establishment of a budget system, created by an act of Congress early in its special session and rigidly applied by the executive officers of the administration. The Republican Congress elected in 1918 passed a budget law, but it was vetoed by President Wilson.

The Republican Congress under this administration enacted a revenue law repealing all transportation taxes upon freight, express and parcel-post matter, all nuisance taxes, all excess-profits taxes, reduced the surtaxes and reduced the income taxes (by increasing exemptions) on all who have an income of $5000 or less, which affects 90 per cent of the people of the United States. All told, the new revenue bill decreases the burden of taxes $818,000,000 the current calendar year and provides for a reduction equally as great for the calendar year of 1923.

The Republican administration found agriculture on the brink of bankruptcy due to unexpected, unwarranted and uneconomic deflation of agricultural credits during the last year of the Democratic administration. Agriculture is the basic industry of the nation. It represents 40 per cent of the buying power of the country. It is the largest consumer of steel and iron products with the exception of the railroads. It consumes 60 per cent of the lumber products. It is the largest buyer of motor vehicles. It is the largest buyer of leather and textile goods. The revival of all industry depended first upon the revival of agriculture. An act of Congress amending and extending the powers of the War Finance Corporation gave to agriculture a billion-dollar fund to draw upon for credits. Other legislation was enacted to relieve and revive agriculture. Various administrative policies were put into effect to accelerate its revival. Today that industry is on its feet. It is getting profitable prices for its products, is coming into the market as a buyer and, after the harvesting and sale of this year's crops, will again resume its proper place in America's commercial and industrial life.

When this administration came into power there were approximately 5,000,000 wage-earners in idleness. Today there is a job for every man who wishes to work. There is a scarcity of farm labor. There is a scarcity of skilled and unskilled labor in many of the leading industries which are advertising for help. Unemployment has ceased to be a factor outside of the industries in which there are strikes. This has been brought about by the cumulative policies of the administration, which resulted in a revival of industry and commerce.

When this administration came into power government interference in private business was the rule. Paternalism was encouraged. Individual initiative was throttled. This administration has put a stop to government interference with business in a destructive way. It has encouraged individual initiative and enterprise. It has outlawed paternalistic and Socialistic practices. It has established the practice of friendly counsel and advice with leaders in commercial and industrial affairs to take the place of the intimidation and hostile ultimatums which were the vogue under the previous administration.

It has given encouragement and optimism to honest capital and thrift by refusing to recognize or deal with the present powers of Russia, thereby placing its stamp of repudiation upon those policies which operate for the destruction and confiscation of private property, the nationalization of industries, the creation of fiat money and all other Socialistic and Communistic practices which prevail in soviet Russia.

The administration has refused to become entangled with the petty, selfish, war-breeding jealousies and politics of Europe. At the same time it has shown its earnest and sincere desire to promote the cause of peace and amity among all nations by the calling of the Washington conference, which resulted in the agreement to limit naval armaments and to substitute international arbitration for war. This guarantees to the people of this country not only an immediate relief from taxes needed to construct immense naval armament, but it guarantees to business and commerce a long period of security from war, thereby enabling them to plan long years ahead for peaceful expansion that will add to their own prosperity, the prosperity of the nation and insure steady employment to tens of millions of people.

OUR SUNNY FRIEND

A Dilemma

Oh, he was a "bo" and a "bindle-bum,"
And covered with grime was he,
And he was smoking a half-cigar
When he came to the libraree,
And he laid it up on the concrete work
Ere he passed through the swinging door.
Now I was smoking a butt myself,
As I've often done before.

And I laid mine up on the concrete work
Quite near to the place he chose,
And I strolled into the libraree
To browse and loiter and doze.
Now when I left that place that day
I grabbed my snipe and ran,
For I had overslept my time
And I am a married man.

And when I had smoked it quite away
There suddenly came to mind
This thought, had I finished the one I bought
Or the one he left behind?
For he was a "bo" and a "bindle-bum"
And covered with grime, was he,
And he was smoking a cigar butt
When he came to the libraree.

Two-Fingered Ab

Billie Lale says he could never see why, with the good book and the history books full of names for the taking, parents will duplicate so persistently and so confusingly when it comes to handing out handles for their offspring.

Old Man John Doe will condemn his helpless son, yet in the cradle, to a half-lifetime of existence as Junior Doe, or Babe Doe, or Little John Doe, maybe, or Jonnie Doe, when he could just as well call him Sam or Bill.

The worst he ever saw was the Long family back in Stone county, Missouri. Their hobby was "Abner." Every oldest son, and there were a lot of branches of the family, was called Ab, whether or no, and so there was Little Ab Long and Big Ab Long, and Little Ab's Ab and Big Ab's Ab and Cross-eyed Ab and Redheaded Ab and so on till you couldn't rest.

He remembers the first words Little Ab's Ab said when he came to himself after having two fingers ripped off by a buzz saw: "Well, anyway, I'll have a name all to myself now."

Of course, you say, goodness, you'd never think that,
For her brow's as demure as the brow of a saint
And she doesn't use slang, doesn't even say "ain't,"
And she's free from lipsticks, powder and paint,
And modest of gown, shoes and hat.
And yet, as I say, she's as fast as can be,
We're just from the preacher's she's fastened to me.

Professor Dink Beeson says the confusing of cause and effect goes merrily on and he supposes it will do so till time is no more and a friend of his is in the phonograph business and the other day a customer called him up and insisted that he come out and see what was the matter with his machine and when he got there he found that they had got a record from a mail-order house and the record was labeled, "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," but the tune the machine got out of the record was "Turkey in the Straw."

It was maddening to have to part with her thus in public, to part with her at the Pacific Electric depot with thousands of the idle, the thoughtless and the unconcerned to witness.

How my innermost being cried for some secluded spot to say farewell to her, some place, say, with the moon hidden behind some vagrant cloud or veiled by the leaves of some dense forest or, better still, no moon anywhere rather than this for the buckle that held or should have held my Palm Beach trousers in place was slipping again.

It's Neuritis!
NOT RHEUMATISM

That sharp, stabbing pain in the upper arm, about the shoulder blade, in the nape of the neck, along the forearm or down the thigh and leg is often Neuritis—not rheumatism.

If you have severe frontal headaches with a feeling that something is twitching or pulling at the eyeballs—a dull, aching pain in the back, accompanied by an occasional shooting pain in the side—numbness or tingling in the fingers or "stitches" of pain here and there, the chances are that your trouble is Neuritis.

No matter where your pain is located, you can get prompt relief without taking bromides, narcotics or other dope. Take a few Tysmol Tablets in hot water, and in a few minutes you will be rid of the torture. Tysmol is guaranteed harmless. It helps to soothe and heal the weak, inflamed nerves.

Don't suffer any longer. Get a $1 package of Tysmol Tablets from any first-class druggist. Tysmol Company, Mfg. Chemists, 400 Sutter St., San Francisco.—[Advertisement.

People and Their Troubles

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

Stand on Your Own Feet

BY DOROTHY DIX

Among my acquaintances is a poor woman who has rich relatives and her constant querulous complaint is that these wealthy kinspeople do not do enough for her and her children.

"John has four automobiles. He might at least give me one." "Jane is going to Europe, it is a shame she doesn't take Sally with her." "Tom is named after his uncle. I don't see why he doesn't send him to college." "Lucy and James have no children. They should make my children their heirs."

So she grumbles, and no matter what her really generous family does for her, it is never enough to satisfy her. She is never grateful. She never gets enough, and, worst of all, she is teaching her children to be parasites and grafters, and to follow the most demoralizing occupation on earth, which is waiting for dead men's shoes.

I often wonder that this mother does not see what an irreparable injury she is doing her children in bringing them up to be toadies and lickspittles, instead of self-respecting human beings, for the man and woman who work other people for what they desire instead of earning it by their own efforts, are as contemptible in their own eyes as they are in everyone else's.

The girl who gets her pretty frocks by wheedling and cajoling and flattering some easy-mark of an old aunt, and the boy who holds his situation by virtue of his relationship to the president of the company, know themselves for what they are, poor, pitiful hangers-on of the rich. Lying, fawning sycophants, who must dance when their patrons pipe, who must smirk and smile and kiss the foot that kicks them; who must take meekly any kind of treatment that is accorded them, and thank Heaven it is no worse.

What a crime to thrust such a fate upon children and to teach them to bend the suppliant knee to people who can accord them favors, instead of rearing them to stand on their own feet, and ask nothing of any man except a fair field and a chance to win their own way!

A witty and profane individual once said that the only happy people are those who can look the world in the eye and tell it to go to hell, and that is the truth. The only happy people are those who have the ineffable joy of knowing that they are strong enough to stand alone, and that they have the skill to play the game with their own bats.

The crust that we earn with our own hands is sweeter than any cake that is given to us. The humblest cottage that represents the result of our toil and thrift has a charm for us that no palace has, where we dwell in sufferance under another's roof. Better the homespun that we make ourselves than the cast-off finery of millionaires, because one covers the heart of a freeman and a freewoman and the other clothes the body of a flunky.

No dependent person can ever know the pure joy in living of the independent. And so if you want your children to be happy, you must bring them up to reply upon themselves. You must teach them that they are the architects of their own fortune, and that they will have just whatever they have the ability to get for themselves. You must breed in them a shame of being a loaner instead of a lifter.

And if you want your children to be successes in the world, you must teach them to stand on their own feet. Nothing else paralyzes energy and effort so completely as for young people to expect someone else to push them up the ladder of success, and to depend upon some pull to get them the reward that they are too lazy to win by their own sweat and labor.

Everyone who has achieved any success is tormented by these parasites who think that they climb into fame and fortune on somebody else's shoulders. Every rich man is besieged by poor men who beseech him to use his influence to put them into highly paid positions. Every mail brings a writer letters from amateur authors asking him or her to get their effusions into the magazines. Actors and singers, who are stars, literally have to barricade their doors against the stage-struck boys and girls who think that all they need to become great actors or singers is to have someone with a pull bring them to Belasco's notice.

It never seems to occur to these poor weaklings that they have got to win their way up by hard work, and patience, and years and years of drudgery, just as did those on whom they are calling for help. For, alas, there is no royal road to achieving. Everyone who arrives has toiled footsore and weary up the same rocky path.

And we may well teach children to stand on their own feet because, in the end, it is what they have to do if they amount to a row of pins. After all there is very little that any of us can do for another. Sometimes we can indicate to a boy and a girl what we think are the doors of opportunity, but they must open them for themselves, and push forward on their own power if they get anywhere.

If you have influence you can put a boy and a girl in a good position, but it avails little unless they have the energy and the industry to hold it down, and the initiative to go forward. Nobody can supply that to them, and it is significant that the young people who do succeed are nearly always the ones who have not asked anybody to get their jobs for them. It is those who are go-getters themselves who reach the heights.

Teach children to be independent, to rely on themselves, to stand on their own feet. That is the real secret of happiness and of success.

Question: Why was Christy Mathewson called Big Six? E. M. S.

Answer: He was so named for a New York chapter of the Typographical Union. This No. 6 was so prominent in labor affairs that popular Christy Mathewson was also called Big Six.

Q.: What people eat the heartiest breakfast, the French, the English, or the Americans? R. T.

A.: The French as a rule eat nothing until midday except a roll with a cup of chocolate upon arising. The English have a heartier breakfast, but even this the average American and Canadian would consider meager. On this continent, fruit, cereal, eggs or meat, some kind of bread and coffee is a usual breakfast.

Q.: How long was Theodore Roosevelt gone on his trip to South America? C. D. D.

A.: Roosevelt sailed for South America in October 1913 and returned to his home in May, 1914.

Q.: Why will cement set under water? W. D.

A.: The hardening of cement is due chiefly to the decomposition of compounds of lime upon the addition of water, resulting in the formation of calcium hydrate, which on chystallization binds together the other solid ingredients. The initial setting is due principally to the decomposition of the aluminates, while the final hardening depends more upon the action of the silicates.

Q.: How are petroleum stocks classified? L. H.

A.: They are classified as producer's stocks; pipe-line and tank-farm stocks; and refinery stocks and stocks held by other consumers.

Q.: What is the technical name for a lease on a vessel? W. J. R.

A.: The written agreement under which a vessel is leased is called a charter party.

Q.: What is the value of poultry raised in the United States in a year? I. M. C.

A.: The total value of poultry raised in 1921 is as follows: chickens, $373,500,000; turkeys, $12,900,000; geese, $7,000,000; ducks, $4,900,000; guinea fowls, $1,900,000; pigeons, $1,400,000.

Q.: What is the largest lake in Europe? M. S. E.

A.: Lake Lagoda, situated in Russia, near St. Petersburg, has this distinction. It is 129 miles long, sixty-eight wide, and has an area of 6998 square miles. The greatest depth is 730 feet.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Hearst and Johnson

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Hearst will undoubtedly receive the Democratic nomination for Governer of New York in the coming election.

He is entitled to it and should receive the support of Tammany and every political grafter in that State.

In politics Hearst is an "easy mark" and this would be the third time he has had his "leg pulled," as the boys would say, and he appears to like it.

I chanced to pass through St. Louis during the time of the Democratic National Convention that nominated Parker, and was at that time quite prominent in Colorado politics. I was acquainted with many of the Colorado delegates to that convention and, although I was and still continue to be what is now called an old-line reactionary Republican, who can see no good in the so-called "reforms," I had many Democratic friends.

When I asked the clerk of the Jefferson Hotel to be shown to the rooms of the Colorado delegates a young man stepped up to me and asked where I was from, and I told him. He courteously asked me to stop at the Jefferson Hotel as a guest of Mr. Hearst, but I told him I was only passing through St. Louis and not a member of the delegation.

While I am not a Sherlock Holmes the incident satisfied me that the Colorado delegates were guests of Mr. Hearst and I inquired and found out that Hearst had practically taken over the greater part of the hotel for his so-called guests.

I watched the vote of that delegation, and if ever a man was double-crossed, Hearst had the mark, because but two of the delegates voted as Hearst evidently desired, and to my surprise even Bryan's great effort to seat the contesting delegation from Illinois was not supported.

One of the comical incidents to me was to have Adams of the delegation tell me of the grand and convincing speech made by Bryan over that question, and then to learn the records of the convention show that Adams himself voted against Bryan's proposition.

However, I let it go, as only another instance of Democratic inconsistency.

Candidates at that time did not have to file statements of expense; but for a man to entertain as guests a hotel full of Democrats before Volstead raised hades with personal enjoyment, it meant something, and certainly Hearst "blowed himself" in many other ways at that convention.

When I saw his certificate to the Secretary of State of New York in 1906, which, in a sworn statement, said that he had expended $256,276 in his effort to be elected Governor of New York I figured that he must have paid much more in his former effort for the Presidency.

With true Democratic inconsistency he could now make the Newberry incident, where friends paid entirely too much money to secure an election, a prominent issue, and have Brisbane explain that it is all right for a Democrat like himself or Ford to blow in a million of his own money to get office, but it is a sin for anybody to put up money to help elect a Republican.

It takes money to get out the votes and the New York City election shows that this reform clatter frightens the better class of citizens from active assistance in furnishing funds absolutely necessary, but it leaves an open field for organized political grafters and vicious political agencies to work unchecked.

Hearst, if nominated, will undoubtedly carry the City of New York, where a thorough organization will have plenty of money to be used by ruthless political drivers, who will see that the votes favorable to Hearst are brought to the polls.

Unless the "up-State" vote is marshalled in a similar way by the Republicans, New York will pass under the control of Tammany and Hearst. Our great financial center will be controlled by men who are prominent bceause of their Socialistic theories, and through fanning the flames of class hatred and discontent.

It would take $500,000 to bring out the vote without a cent being corruptly used.

In the campaign in this State I have already been complimented with a request to join a Roosevelt and Johnson organization to re-elect Mr. Johnson to the Senate. I see that there is 3-cent postage and enough printed matter to make the communication cost at least 5 cents and, if 1,000,000 were sent out, this item alone would amount to $50,000, and the bands, halls, automobiles and newspapers during a double campaign would make $250,000 look sick.

The reform election laws in California have fixed it so that only rich men or stool pigeons set up by designing schemers who furnish the money can get a hearing.

The direct primary puts us right back to the times of Caesar, the greatest Democrat of his day, and the most ruthless tyrant in history.

Hearst has the money and now controls political tools who know how to use it. He is a dangerous man and the reformers, by destroying party organization, make it possible for him to win.

Johnson's connection with Hearst should beat him in this Republican State, but he will have plenty of funds to make a fight, and money surely helps in a political campaign with primaries, etc., etc., to handle.

EDWARD F. BROWNE.

No Omission Intended

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Will you not accord to those members of the Woman's City Club who are in favor of the Water and Power Act the same courtesy and the same accuracy and justice in reporting its meetings that you do to those opposing the measure?

Mrs. W. P. Cunningham, president of the Woman's City Club, made a statement from the platform Monday in which she said most emphatically that the Woman's Bond and Tax Study League is not connected in any way with, or sponsored by, the Woman's City Club. She said, further, that the Woman's City Club has not taken action against the Water and Power Act, neither has it indorsed it. She declared that members should study the measure and decide for or against it individually, reiterat- the club's fixed policy of nonpartisanship and nonendorsement.

Although The Times of July 25 spoke at length of Mrs. Cunningham's announcement of the board against any campaigning in the lobby, no report whatever was made of her statement disclaiming sponsorship or relations with the Woman's Bond and Tax Study League, which is frankly against the Water and Power Act. Those of us of the club who endorse this act and who read your paper protest against such unfair elimination of news and ask for a correction.

July 31, 192

Good Morning, Mr. Dodd:—

"Top of the morning to you," as the Earl of Rochester would say.

You know the Earl was a witty sort of cuss.

They credit him with this:

"Here lies our sovereign lord, the king,
Whose word no man relies on;
He never says a foolish thing,
Nor ever does a wise one."

Lots of people might fit such a description, but we think that about the most foolish thing a man could do would be to pass up the opportunity to get more business by the Times-Mirror Printing and Binding House route.

To do the wise thing, allow us to prove our printing and advertising service. If we have served you satisfactorily before, keep us at work for you.

Persistency, you know, is the first law of business-getting.

Why not a series of talks? Our Sky-Blue-Monday man is at your service any day in the week.

KINSEY BROTHERS VICTORS

Famous Pacific Coast Tennis Champs Win Metropolitan Doubles Title On Turf

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 30.—The tables were turned on the national doubles champions, Tilden and Richards, today in the second trial for the defending Davis cup doubles team, when Williams and Washburn, last year's team, won a fast match at 6-3, 6-3, 7-5, completely reversing the score of the previous day in the tournament for the metropolitan titles at the Crescent Athletic Club.

The team of Howard and Robert Kinsey, Pacific Coast champions, defeated Sam Hardy and S. Howard Voshall for the metropolitan doubles title on turf, which the Kinseys held since last year, in a long five-set match, by the scores of 4-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-0.

UPHILL FIGHT

The great uphill fight of the champions was the crowning feature of an exceedingly busy week for these tennis brothers from the West, as Howard Kinsey was runner-up to Vincent Richards for the singles title, which prevented him from starting doubles play until Friday.

The showing of William T. Tilden, national champion in the doubles match was somewhat disappointing in view of his remarkable performance on the previous day. He made the greatest number of errors of the four players and had the lowest total of earned points, all of which contributed to a complete reversal of his great victory with Richards in the first match. Williams has made the best record of the four in the two matches, which proves his real value as an emergency player in both singles and doubles to the team which will be selected by the Davis Cup committee to defend the trophy for the United States.

GOOD TEAMWORK

The strong teamwork of the winners was evident throughout the match and is a deciding factor in doubles play, even against such brilliant stroking as Tilden and Richards displayed. In winning the metropolitan doubles for the second time, the Kinseys show that they are a combination of national importance by reason of their victories in the West and their impressive showing during their first week in the East.

Although their more experienced opponents had a lead of two sets, the Kinseys ran into a lead of 3 to 1 in the third set and were never headed again until Voshell and Hardy won four of the first six games, in the next set, only to lose four straight for the tying set.

TOWNSEND GOES EAST

Myron Townsend, widely known sporting writer, has gone to Kansas City, where he will engage in newspaper work. For some time he has been visiting his mother in Long Beach. Mr. Townsend at various times served as sporting editor in Boston, St. Louis, Cincinnati and El Paso.

J. W. MEEK IS VICTOR WITH GUN

Local Trapshooter Walks Away With Two Events at the Vernon Club

J. W. Meek, local trapshooter walked away with two events in the augmented trapshooting program put on at the Vernon Gun Club yesterday.

His first victory cropped up in the first event to be held, a registered club tournament at 100 targets. Meek scored ninety-eight kils and copped an American Trapshooting Association trophy and a Vernon Gun Club take home prize.

M. N. Page was right on Meeks' heels and scored second place with 97x100. Lou Reed was third with 96x100 and E. M. Nutting fourth with 95x100.

The shoot that followed was a special affair at twenty-five targets for Fred Kimble Oil Paintings. Two of the pieces of art were up and the shooters had to be class A men and had to shoot Kimble's "Cook Stove powder loaded shells."

Nutting stepped out and broke the twenty-five birds straight and had first choice on the paintings. A. J. Stauber and Page got all tied up for second score, each breaking twenty-four; then a merry shoot-off took place, Stauber finally winning seventy-three to seventy-two.

Bangtails Are Gathering for Toledo Meet

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TOLEDO, July 30.—Horses began arriving here tonight for the second week of racing in the Grand Circuit over the Fort Miami track. Five days of competition is scheduled, with Saturday reserved for postponements.

What is considered the biggest day of the week is Tuesday, when the second renewal of the matron stake for 3-year-old trotters with an estimated value of $8500 is on the program.

Members of the Toledo Driving Club said today the entries for the entire program are greater in number and of more uniform quality than have been received at any previous race meeting since Toledo was admitted to the Grand Circuit.

CHAMPS ENGAGE IN VERBAL WAR

Walter Miller Put on Pan by Johnny Meyers

Local Wrestler Comes Back With Hot Retort

Grapplers to Settle Score on Thursday Night

BY GERALD PIDGE

Walter Miller and Johnny Meyers' have reached that stage in their training for next Thursday night's two-hour decision wrestling match in the Los Angeles Athletic Club gymnasium in an attempt to decide the world's 158- pound aitle, claimed by both, where they are hurling heavily scented verbal bouquets at each other.

Charley Keppen, whose only fault is that he hates to see his name in the papers, was called to the telephone at a late hour last night. The voice at the other end of the wire, Keppen declared later, in a special interview, was that of Johnny Meyers, who requested a list of Walter Miller's relatives.

At first Meyers declined to give a reason for his odd request, but when pressed for a statement said that Miller had "been saying things" about him and that he was going to get revenge.

NICE SOUVENIR

"I'm going to tear this cheap imitation of a champion into little pieces and I thought it would be nice to send a piece to each member of his family. For souvenirs, you know."

It was only after great difficulty that Miller was reached via telephone and asked to comment on this statement. He did.

"The subject is entirely distasteful to me," he said. "I'd much rather converse with you on some of the vital problems of the day, metaphysics, the tariff, or the higher arts. But to get it over with as quickly as possible. This Meyers had a lot of nerve in the first place to come out here and tell people that he's a champion.

SLIGHTLY ODORIFEROUS

"Some of my high-class friends have told me of reports circulated about town that this match has a slight odor, that it might not be on the square. The only odor about the match is that furnished by this rank imposter, this stockyards champion. He says he'll tear me into little pieces and send them to my relatives. Fine. I've asked Mr. Keppen to arrange for a squad of men, armed with dustpans and whiskbrooms, to be at the ringside so they can sweep up what's left of Meyers. It will be the charge of the ash can brigade.

"That's all I have to say. I refuse to indulge in personalities. That is degrading. I am the world's middleweight wrestling champion and I will prove it to everybody who comes to the club gymnasium next Thursday night. No wrestler, king, prince, potentate or any other person can take my championship from me."

EDDIE MAY GET JOB

That's all that happened last night except that the grapplers continued their disagreement on the question of selecting a referee. It is possible that Eddie O'Connell will draw the assignment. He has been the third man in the ring in a majority of recent matches at the club and in no instance has there been the faintest hint of dissatisfaction.

Ancient Ring Rivals Hook up Tomorrow

Bert Colima and "Dynamite" George wil renew their ancient feud in the main event at Vernon several of the northern teams and Berry and Dickenson of local fame will probably give them a run for their entry fee.

Titles in women's doubles, junior singles and doubles, boys' singles and doubles, mixed doubles and girls' doubles will also be up for competition, and altogether it looks like a merry week for the tennis colony.

tomorrow night. These 158 pounders can always be counted on to wage a bitter battle and tomorrow night's affair is not expected to be an exception to the rule.

Four new faces will grace the bill arranged by Matchmaker Wad Wadhams. Jack Russo, a lightweight of New Orleans, and Bill Kennedy, a banty from the same town, will appear. The former faces Young Ketchell in the semi-wind-up, while the latter is matched with Young Farrell in the feature preliminary.

Sailor Danny Burns, another newcomer, is slated for Ernest Owens, the 145-pound "knock 'em dead" kid. Johnny Jordan, a Seattle lightweight, will make his start here against Eddie Sylvester. Willie Hunt and Jack McAuliffee, 145-pounders, and Eddie Francis and Dummy Welch, 128-pound battlers, will complete the card.

ROWLIN HIGH GUN AT TRAPSHOOTING MATCH

E. F. Rowlin won the weekly shoot at the Los Angeles Gun Club yesterday afternoon, spattering 96x100 with his pet gun, after tying with L. A. Gillespee. He won an A.T.A. trophy by this performance, as well as a leg on Dorothy Phillips's cup.

JESSIE GRIEVE TAKES TITLE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OMAHA, July 30.—Miss Jessie Grieve of Los Angeles won the woman's singles title of the Missouri Valley here today by defeating Miss Louis Hammon of Kansas City, 6-2, 6-1.

Phil Bagby and Walter Newell of Kansas City won the men's doubles championship, defeating Carl Meyer and Fred Gross of Kansas City, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

Wray Brown of St. Louis won the men's singles tennis championship defeating Phil Bagby of Kansas City, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Miss Ruth Hager and Phil Bagby of Kansas City won the mixed double championship by defeating Miss Jessie Grieve of Los Angeles and G. R. McCormick of Omaha, 6-3, 6-4.

THREE VETERANS TO CLASH IN BIG RACE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—An unusual feature of the annual rowing championships of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen at Philadelphia, August 5, will be a mile-and-a-quarter contest between three veterans of the rowing game, Jim Ten Eyck, Sr. of Syracuse, James H. Reilly, and Fred Plaisted. It will be a telling example of the good of rowing. Plaisted is 71 years of age, Ten Eyck, 69, and Reilly, about 55.

SIR TOM AFTER BLOOMIN' MUG

Lipton to Make Another Try for Yacht Trophy

Tea Merchant Plans Invasion of America Soon

Baronet May Change from Sloop to Schooner

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 30. — Sir Thomas Lipton who has failed in four attempts to win America's cup, the blue ribbon trophy of international yacht racing, is coming here in September to make what he terms "a final effort to get the bloomin' mug."

Sir Thomas, who has monopolized the challenging for the historic cup over a period of twenty-three years, and whose sportmanship has won the friendship of thousands of Americans, wants to win the cup before he dies. It is his hobby in life. After his Shamrock IV was defeated by the Resolute, the American defender in 1920, the tea mechrant said:

COVETS TROPHY

"I probably have more cups than any other yachtsman in the world. I have sailed in Germany, France, Spain, England, Scotland and Ireland, have won prizes in all parts of the Universe and I am mighty proud of them, but I'd swap the lot for that cup I've tried four times to get."

Before he sailed for home Sir Thomas said he would challenge again in 1922, for a race to be held the following year. He wanted to give someone else a chance for it, so he has waited until now before doing anything.

The time is here and Sir Thomas will head for these shores for the purpose of issuing a challenge to the New York Yacht club.

WOULD CHANGE CRAFT

Just what kind of a craft the Irish sportsman will challenge to race with is not known, but the World has learned from a close friend of Sir Thomas that he wants to change from a sloop to a schooner, providing the New York Yact club is willing.

The rules under which the cup was won and has been raced for more than fifty years provide that the holder must accept the challenge or forfeit the trophy. It is hardly probable that the New York Yacht club will do the latter.

It is possible that Sir Thomas might encounter discouragement when he arrives here and be asked to postpone a challenge until another year. Because of the great expense attached to building a defender, and present unsettled business conditions, those who Featured by Glendale Merchants' spectacular victory over the Los Angeles Post, No. 8, American Legion, the opening games of the Greater Southern California Baseball Association were played yesterday on diamonds throughout the Southland. Practically every game was closely contested and extra-inning tussles were not unknown.

The Glendale squad won from the Legionnaires at Glendale in the last half of the eleventh, when, with two out and Flanders on base, King rapped out a two-bagger, Flanders easing across the rubber with the winning tally. Harris heaved for the winners, fanning an even dozen batters, while Del Porta and McLain did some flashy stickwork for the losers. The score:

TRAUTWIN IN FORM

The Cleary Athletic Club baseball nine defeated the West Coast Oil nine yesterday afternoon, 8 to 2. Trautwin, who heaved for Cleary, allowed the Oilers only two hits and struck out fourteen men. Errors by Roletta in the first inning robbed Trautwin of a shutout game. Danings and Anthony starred at the bat, the former getting two hits and three walks and the latter two hits and three times hit by a pitched ball. Bender and McIver starred in the field. The score:

RIVERA WINS

George ("Rube") Ellis's Rivera team won from the Downey Red Sox by a 3-to-1 count in a hot pitching battle played yesterday on Downey Ball Orchard. The former Angel's squad cinched the going in the first inning by driving in two runs off the offerings of Pitcher Edwards.

The Red Sox scored their only tally in the fifth. Rivera counted the last run in the eighth, when Denny scored on Pete Thompson's sacrifice fly. Downey only got four hits, while the Rivera sluggers managed to get two more. The score:

SALT LAKE STUFF

Morton's Lynwood Merchants, one of the fastest teams in the Greater Southern California Baseball Association, indulged in a little batting spree at the expense of the Bradford Baking team at Lynwood yesterday afternoon, the final score being: Lynwood, 23; Bradford, 3. Cordia pitched a superb game for the victors, as usual, and he was ably supported by his team-mates. P. Rozella starred with the willow, getting five bingles out of six times up, one going for a double. Scorekeeper Doan will have a mighty sore wing today as a result of chalking up the numerous hits and runs. The score:

CHINESE LOSE

Palomar defeated the L. A. Chinese on Jefferson High playgrounds yesterday afternoon to the tune of 18 to 4. The Palomar boys had everything their own way after the first inning. They batted three pitchers out of the lot. This is Palomar's first game in the association. Myers and R. Lange did the heavy hitting for Palomar, Myers having four doubles and two singles. Lange had one double and three singles. V. Clund did the best for the Chinese with a double and a triple. Palomar goes to Glendora next Sunday and hopes to add another victory. The score:

GIANTS ACQUIRE HUGH McQUILLAN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, July 30.—Hugh McQuillan, pitching ace of the Boston Braves, has been sold to the New York Giants, George Washington Grant, owner of the Braves, announced today. The price paid for McQuillan was not stated, but President Grant said it was in six figures.

In addition to the money consideration, President Grant said the deal will bring to the Boston club three pitchers, Fred Toney, Benton of the Memphis club of the Southern Association and Ike Houlihan, who pitched last spring for Middlebury College.

HYNES ON LONG END

The Hynes classy little ball team swung one over on the Long Beach Knights of Columbus nine yesterday afternoon at Hynes, 9 to 3. Hynes made fourteen hits and K. of C. six and the Hynes had two errors to their opponents' four. Carl Steiner heaved for the victors, with P. Stoneman on the receiving end. Heally was on the mound for K. of C., with Tollick behind the bat.

One of the big features of the game was the excellent mound work of Steiner of Hynes. He fanned thirteen of the Long Beachers and was pretty steady throughout the nine innings. Ballis, the first-sacker of Hynes, had three hits out of four times up, and his biffing helped in a great measure to win for Hynes. The umpires were Peterson and Smith.

Latin Station plays Hynes at the latter's grounds next Sunday.

RIVERSIDE WINS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CORONA, July 30. — After having won the game from the Riverside Elks in a good ball game here this afternoon, the Elks team from Long Beach threw the game away and permitted Riverside to walk away with the honors with a score of 6 to 5 in the ninth inning. Long Beach tied the score, but heavy hitting by Riverside in the last half of the ninth inning won the game for them. The batteries for Riverside were Hayden and Hudson and for Long Beach Wellmin and Akin. Following the game the Long Beach team and members of their families were guests of the Riverside team at a banquet given at Beck's cafe.

SANTA FE THERE

Santa Fe Athletic Club defeated Joe Pirrone's All-Stars in a rapid ten-inning tilt, 9 to 8, at San Bernardino. Red Arnold made a name for himself that will undoubtedly stand for some time, nine separate and distinct errors being chalked up against him, which largely accounted for the defeat of Pirrone's usually effective outfit. Roy Watson, catcher of the local nine was pegging to second like a machine gun, while Bennett of the visitors was the big noise for the shop men. Pirrone heaved, permitting only nine bingles.

SIX ERRORS COST HANFORD BALL GAME

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, July 30. — Six errors by his team-mates cost Ralph Stroud a defeat at the hands of Dutch Leonard and the Fresno Tigers in the game between Hanford and Fresno here today. The score was 5 to 1.

A three-base hit by Coleman in the eighth inning saved Hanford a shutout. The score:

Fresno, 5; hits, 6; errors, 1.
Hanford, 1; hits, 4; errors, 3.

SOCCER PLAYERS IN CLOVER IN ENGLAND

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 30.—By reason of the great popularity of soccer football in Great Britain, a place in a first-class team means a salary of at least $2250 a year, with bonuses of $10 for a victory and $5 for a drawn game. Over and above this a player of five years' standing with the same club becomes eligible for a "benefit" which may yield him from $3000 to $7500 in cash.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, July 30.—The Browns regained first place by defeating Boston, 4 to 1, this afternoon, moving one-half game ahead of the Yankees, due to the latter's defeat today by Chicago.

Wayne Wright pitched excellent ball, holding the visitors to five hits, one a home run by Menosky, who batted for Russell in the eighth inning. Two home runs, one by Jacobson and one by Williams, accounted for three of the Browns' tallies, Tobin being on first when Williams made his circuit drive.

Jimmy Hackley, whose tactics made him a favorite with Hollywood fistic followers, meets Sam Langford tonight in the main event of the Central Avenue Amusement arena. Jimmy is after a return match with Jimmy Butler and will try to upset the colored chap.

The program follows:

Jimmy Hackley vs. Sam Langford, 125 pounds.
"Sailor" Smith vs. Joe Wilcox, 145 pounds.
"Battling" Togo vs. "Young" Blackburn, 125 pounds.
Champ Tampico vs. Wop Flynn, 130 pounds.
Baby Gans vs. Frangie Burns, 120 pounds.
Zulu Kid vs. "Sailor" Brown, 125 pounds.

Arthur Collins, old-time colored star middleweight, will referee all bouts.

HONORS EVEN IN HOT SERIES

Bengals and Seals Split Two Games Yesterday

In Week's Play Each Team Won Four Times

Jim Scott and Bill James Heave Fine Ball

BY ED O'MALLEY

A series that will probably play a big part in deciding the Coast League pennant this year was finished yesterday afternoon at Washington Park, between Vernon and San Francisco, each team winning four games of the eight played. Of the double-header yesterday, the Seals grabbed the first contest, 4 to 3, and the Bengals the second, 5 to 1.

While the two leaders were locked in a deadly embrace all week, Los Angeles found the picking rather easy in San Francisco where the Cherubs trimmed the Oaks five games out of seven. By compassing this excellent feat the Seraphs crept up a game and a half on San Francisco and Vernon.

Killefer's hustling lads are now eight and a half games behind San Francisco and three and a half to the bad of Vernon. The Tigers go to Seattle this week for a try at the Indians while Salt Lake comes here to take on the Angels.

WITH A RATTLE

In the second game yesterday afternoon Bill Essick shot his big catapult, Bill James, at the pompous Seals and Bill came through with a rattle. The stalwart chucker had his smoker working to a nicety, ably assisted by a rather cloudy sky. McWheeny hurled for the Seals. The visitors' sluggers failed to connect with James's offerings and the result was an easy Bengal victory. Bill grew a little careless in the last half of the ninth and spoiled a nest of doughnuts by allowing the league leaders to put one over the plate. It occurred something like this:

See, batting for McWeeny, hit a hard one at French who, in making a hurry-up throw to Hyatt, tossed the pill low. It percolated through Ham's underpinning and went to the fence, Seeing flitting to second. Valla lighted onto one of James's smokers for a terrific drive against the left-field fence, which netted him two bags, See hitting the rubber. Bill then pulled himself together and the best Pete Compton could do was a Roman candle to Sawyer. Miller looked like a big sucker at the plate. He squibbed to James, who tossed him out to Hyatt. Bert Ellison was called on for a supreme effort but it was not to be, as the best he could do was a tall foul to Hyatt and the noble work was accomplished.

IN LAVENDER

Vernon really put the game in lavender in the last of the third inning when Murphy initiated with a sizzling single to right. James made a miserable mess of a bunt to McWeeny, but the rattled heaver threw cock-eyed to Kilduff to grab Murphy, the ball rolling into left-field. Before it was slanted back to the infield Murphy had tramped to third. Chadbourne tried to pry one past Pete Kilduff, but his runtlets snared Chad by the Ellison route, Murphy being held at third. Hughie High was purposely walked for Red Smith.

Of all the rotten moves that were ever perpetrated under the glorious azure of a clear sky this was the rottenest. It was undoubtedly the handiwork of Sam Agnew and met with a sudden and subverting rebuff, for Red shunted the apple to the left center fence scoring Murphy and James and putting High on third. Bodie singled to left scoring High and Smith. Hyatt flied to Kelly and Sawyer forced Bodie at second, Rhyne unassisted.

Vernon scored its fifth and final tally in the last of the fifth frame on High's triple to left center. Then High and Smith pulled off the squeeze play, Smith going out Kilduff to Ellison.

The first game found Scott of the Seals stacked up against Jackie May pitching ace of the Tigers. Both heavers were in pretty fair form, but hardly up to their usual high standard. It looked very much in the first few innings as if the visitors were going to make a runaway contest of it as they began tallying in the opening canto as follows: After Kelly went out, Smith to Hyatt, Walsh dragged one down toward first base which May grabbed and tossed to Hyatt. Ham, however, muffed the ball and Walsh was safe. Kamm rifled one past Smith, sending Walsh to third. Kamm immediately stole second. Ellison broke his bat in sending a consumptive over the second base-bag, shooting Walsh and Kamm over the rubber. O'Connell struck out and Ellison was out stealing second, Hannah to French.

CHALK UP ANOTHER

In the third inning the league leaders came through with another run. Scott led off by singling to center. Kelly bolted a hot one at Sawyer, who snared it, but threw wild to French and both runners were safe. Walsh struck out and was sent to the clubhouse for crabbing at Umpire Byron. Kamm hit a torrid bounder to French who jumped up in the air, but lost the ball. Scott was safe at third and the bags were full. May threw to Sawyer to catch Kelly at second, but Carl muffed the throw, Scott scoring and Kelly going to third. Ellison was purposely walked. O'Connell struck out, Rhyne forced Ellison at second, French unassisted.

With the score 3 even in the first of the eighth the visitors went in and scored the winning run as follows: Kamm singled to far left, Ellison was out, Smith to Hyatt. Kamm stole third and scored on O'Connell's out, Sawyer to Hyatt.

The Tigers broke into the run-getting in the last of the fourth when Chadbourne doubled to right-center. High flied to Kelly. Smith singled to left, sending Chadbourne to third. Bodie sent a long fly to Compton in right who made a sensational catch, Chadbourne scoring after the catch. The Vernonites tied the score in the sixth on singles by Chadbourne and High and Smith's corking triple to right. Bodie then popped to Kilduff and Hyatt did the same. Smith died at third when Sawyer flied to O'Connell. Scores:

STILL PLUGGING ALONG

St. Louis Clubs Maintain Steady Pace in Race for Titles of Their Respective Leagues

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 30.—The St. Louis clubs in both major league circuits, despite setbacks by their New York rivals, are maintaining a steady pace in the pennant races. The American League team, shunted from the lead on Friday by the Yankees, nosed to the front again today by defeating the Red Sox, while the Yankees were being turned back by Chicago.

Below the leaders in the American, the White Sox, Tigers and the Indians all are playing good ball and continue to be menacing. Cleveland, after a long string of victories, had an off week, while the Tigers, led by their hard-hitting manager, Ty Cobb, stayed on the right side of the percentage ledger.

BASEBALL PARADOX

Washington presented a baseball paradox, getting 103 hits for 63 runs in its games, including today, more than any other club in the league, yet lost five out of nine contests. The Athletics, too, had a good hitting week, but fared as did the Senators as far as games are concerned.

The Red Sox, hitting and fielding poorly, lost every game of the week but one. Starting last Sunday with a loss to the Yankees, they dropped three out of four to the heavy-hitting White Sox and have dropped two straight to the Browns, and the Red Sox are in the cellar again.

In the National, the week's play was featured by the slump of the Cardinals, who dropped four of five games to the Giants and then went to Brooklyn and lost in a Saturday contest. They came back into the winning fold again today, however, while the Giants were losing their second straight game to the Pirates.

GREAT HITTING WEEK

McGraw's men had a great hitting week, connecting for 103 hits in nine games, including that of yesterday. On the other hand, the Cardinals were the poorest-hitting club in the circuit excepting Brooklyn. The St. Louisans had a bad week afield, with sixteen bobbles.

The Cubs kept ahead of all the trailers by taking three of five games from the Braves, one from the Dodgers and one of a pair from the hard-hitting but lowly Phillies.

The Dodgers and the Reds broke even in their games and the Braves as usual, fair hitters but poor scorers, dropped a majority of their contests.

ST. LOUIS, July 30.—Back in first place, due to their victory and New York's defeat by Chicago, the local Americans are forced to defend their leadership with a patched-up team. Five men are on the injured list and one on the suspended list.

Saturday's game against Boston put George Sisler, star first-baseman, and Hank Severeid, the Brown's main backstop, on the injured list for at least a week.

Frank Ellerbe, third baseman; Herbert Pruett, the young left-hand pitcher, whose favorite pastime is striking out Babe Ruth, last year's home-run king, and Frank Davis, another pitcher, are the other three Browns suffering from injuries.

CHICAGO, July 30.—The home-run record in the American and National leagues follow:

American: Williams, St. Louis, 25; C. Walker, Philadelphia, 24; Ruth, New York, 18; Heilmann, Detroit, 16; Falk, Chicago, 9; Meusel, New York, 9.

National: Hornsby, St. Louis, 27; Williams, Philadelphia, 16; Lee, Philadelphia, 12; Wheat, Brooklyn, 11; Meusel, New York, 10; Ainsmith, St. Louis, 10; Kelly, New York, 9.

CARRY U. S. COLORS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 30.—Fifteen girls will carry the colors of Uncle Sam in the French championship meet August 20.

have carried the burden in previous international races and will probably do so again, might want the contest put off. And, too, if they agree to race they probably would want to use the same style boat. Several well-known yachtsmen think the Resolute could not be improve upon.

LUCK MIGHT CHANGE

Sir Thomas fully realizes the Herreshoff sloops have successfully defended the cup against the Fife and Nicholson designed boats, but thinks his luck might change with a schooner. In event of a schooner race, held on the ocean late in the year, probably in October, the baronet believes he might achieve his ambition and win.

He knows quite well that American two built stackers have heretofore defeated Britain's best in races of this class, but the sporting blood of Sir Thomas is a bit superstitious. Regardless of what rig he challenges with, its name will be Shamrock V.

Sir Thomas says he hasn't lost faith in the Shamrock. Nor has he become down-hearted over his defeats. Twice he has almost accomplished what he said would have been "the happiest event" in his life, when the Shamrock II almost beat the Columbia and in 1920 when Shamrock IV had two straight races, only to lose the next three when Charles Adams at the wheel brought the Resolute over the finish mark first.

According to the New York Times' information, Sir Thomas is coming over to talk over a prospective challenge and close it later. Instead of sending it over he wants to feel out conditions.

Sir Thomas Lipton's will provides that money shall be put aside for some one to keep on challenging until the cup is won. The sportsman has spent more than $3,000,000 in his unsuccessful attempts.

Art Griggs Has Great Day With the Willow

Killefer's Lads Crawl Up Close to Vernon

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—The Oaks showed but little fight against Los Angeles today and rounded out a disastrous week by dropping two games, losing in the morning, 7 to 1, and in the afternoon, 5 to 2. Los Angeles took five of the seven games and the Angels are now within easy reaching distance of Vernon. The Angels showed nothing spectacular against the Oaks, but they played steady ball and in several cases they let the Oaks beat themselves.

Art Griggs furnished the batting feature by getting seven successive hits in the two games. He started in the morning by batting in five runs and scoring two himself, thus having a big part in all seven runs scored by the Angels.

OH, YOU GRIGGS!

He was up five times in the morning and got three singles, a double and a home run. He kept up the good work in the afternoon, hitting safely his first two times up. Marriott might have thrown him out on the second one, a slow roller, but he did not make the attempt and Griggs lumbered down to first in safety.

Mariott threw Griggs out his next time up and in the eighth Griggs was walked on purpose, filling the bases. Twombly bounced one to Marriott and Ozark Bill could have pickled Killefer at the plate had he tried, but played it safe and threw Twombly out, letting Killefer score. It made no difference, for the Angels would have won without that run.

PITCHES FINE

Tom Hughes pitched one of his good games in the morning, allowing but four hits and keeping them widely scattered. He was not scored on until the ninth, and by that time he had a commanding lead. Griggs batted in runs enough to win the game and there was nothing to it.

In the afternoon Brenton got off to a bad start, the Angels nicking him for three hits, which, coupled with some bad support, netted four runs. That was the ball game, for Dumovich pitched high-class ball and was steady all the way.

DROPS BALL

Lafayette dropped a thrown ball to give Killefer a life in the first inning in the afternoon. Brenton threw out McAuley and then Deal hit to Marriott. The latter was anxious to hold Killefer on second base and, after bluffing Red back to that bag, he finally threw the ball there. Cather was late in covering and then, instead of tagging Killefer, he threw the ball to first too late to get Deal.

Griggs then hammered a single to left and Twombly also hit safely to that field, the ball taking a high hop over Brown's head and counting for three bases. Brubaker threw out McCabe and Twombly scored on the play. After that Brenton pitched high-class ball and, had not Brown dropped an easy fly ball in the eighth, the Angels would not have scored again. MELLERS FLOURISH

“IN NAME OF THE LAW” IS NEARLY GREAT

By Grace Kingsley

We are just all torn asunder with melodrama, these days. We are deluged in hurricanes, wracked with wrongful trials of our heroes, cast into soggiest despondency by the unrequited love of our heroines.

In short, our noble heroes and beautiful heroines are this week more sinned against than usual!

But there's one beautiful bit of light in the general melodramatic murkiness through which we stumbled yesterday. That is the freshness, the poignant naturalness, the tenderness and appeal of the first three reels of Emory Johnson's production, “In the Name of the Law,” which is showing at the Mission.

It came very near being a great picture, this, but its melodramatic hokum in the bank murder mystery scenes pulls it down several notches.

However, this isn't saying it isn't a picture that you must not miss. The gracious reality of its opening scenes are worth going a long way to see.

“In the Name of the Law” isn't about anything much. It just tells of the struggles of a poor policeman's family to keep their heads above water; pay for their little home and give their gifted boy an education. The policeman, catching the little boy stealing bread and milk, and taking him home with him, and putting him to bed; the adoption of the little girl; the little innocent devices of the mother to keep her son in college—these are all splendid human touches.

The fall-down comes when everybody gets into a mix-up to try to get the money to pay back the man from whom the hero is supposed to have stolen, turning the story into a murder mystery. This is intriguing in its way, but not at all, as I said before, up to the standard of the opening reels.

Ralph Lewis is tremendously appealing as the policeman, father of the boy, whose feelings are outraged at the idea that his own son should do the things he has spent his life putting other men's sons behind the bars for doing.

Claire McDowell shares honors with Lewis, as the mother of the college boy who is working to get an education. Nothing finer or tenderer has been seen on the screen.

Johnny Walker and Emory Johnson are pleasing as the sons and Ella Hall is satisfactory as the daughter.

“HURRICANE'S GAL” TEMPESTUOUS LADY

She is a tempestuous lady, is “Hurricane's Gal,” at the Kinema.

That brilliant young director, Allen Holubar, is giving a rest to his penchant for high-brow themes, and this picture revels in lurid melodrama. I must say he is a kingpin at the game.

However, he cunningly gives us an intriguing and spectacular character in Dorothy Phillips as the girl born of a smuggler father, who inherits his two smuggling ships and owns a gambling resort as well.

Caught on the high seas through the sleuthing of a man she has learned to love, but who turns out to be a government officer, and her ship being burned, she escapes in a launch to San Francisco.

Here occurs a clever little touch. Suspected by a policeman, she picks up a foundling which has been left in the station—quite providentially for Mr. Holubar's plot purpose, and when the policeman is about to question her she embarrasses him by pretending to be about to change the babe's nether garments!

Also an exhibition and demonstration of the naval resources of Uncle Sam, “Hurricane's Gal” is a great success, because Holubar uses government boats and government airships to his heart's content. Here then is some spectacular stuff.

Another plot touch full of piquancy is when the whirlwind heroine, growing jealous of another dame, shanghais her rival to take her to the South Seas!

Miss Phillips's acting is full of strong and sincere emotional moments. She is a real artist. Tempestuous, a whirlwind of wilfullness and passion, she gives a very convincing performance, and this against the handicap of her natural fineness and beauty. The combination is piquant.

Wallace Beery as the high-power villain, and Robert Ellis as the hero, are satisfactory. Jack Donovan, a newcomer to the screen, is a fine, upstanding youth, and gives promise of bringing a genuine and vivid personality.

The Sherwoods continue to please with their music.

IRENE CASTLE STAR AT CLUNE THEATER

Irene Castle may have a wriggly body, but so far as acting is concerned, she has a tin soul. As an actress, Miss Castle has all the appearance of a good dancer and business woman. She is appearing at Clune's Broadway this week in “No Trespassing.”

But if I have to see many more of these stories where the inexperienced girl and bucolic young man keep Wall Street at bay while they save father's fortune when father is laid up with a fit or something, I'm going to grab my opera chair out by the roots and hurl it through the screen. Anyhow, who cares about these stock market plays?

The story would have been considered a very good yarn eight years ago. But it hasn't anything new to offer to the present-day fan.

There is, however, a fine bit of idealism about the country youth who refuses to sell a certain lane he owns, to a very rich man because his old fisherman—friends need it as an outlet to the sea.

Afterward the story becomes commonplace, with the usual intrigues on the part of the said rich man to make him sell, the usual villain who tries to ruin the rich old man in the stock market; the wicked valet who springs a leak in the hero's motorboat, and all the rest of the scenario regulation piffle.

Miss Castle will probably never become an actress, and she isn't pretty enough to hold you with her looks. Al Roscoe is an acceptable villain, and the other parts are well played.

There is a lot of good scenery, and fine direction wasted on an ordinary story.

Harold Lloyd furnishes a bright spot on the progam.

“BLOOD AND SAND” VIVID AND REMORSELESS DRAMA

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Were it not that experience has taught me a certain reserve toward all things, I should at the present moment delight in flinging aside all restraint and shouting from the peak of the tallest building in the city—

At last, the great masterpiece!

Being neither a steam siren, nor a radio apparatus, however, I will content myself with remarking, via cold print, that if you don't go to see “Blood and Sand,” well—

Oh, well, there is no alternative. You'll simply have to go and see it, that's all.

“Blood and Sand” burst upon the view of a throng of expectant picture-seers yesterday at Grauman's Rialto Theater. It is the first opus contributed by Famous Players-Lasky to the cause of a greater screen art. It was slipped into the projection machine without any grand flare of electrics, or loud trumpetings. However, the name of its star, Rodolf Valentino, was sufficient to bring the waiting lines to the theater doors from the opening hours to the closing.

I hardly know how to express my admiration for “Blood and Sand,” as a piece of artistry in the few words that are allotted to me here. With the exception of “The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse,” and possibly “Broken Blossoms,” which now seems much inferior, it is the first really great tragedy that we have had in the cinema. And it is one of the first pictures to preserve that epic spirit of the classics, which is needed as a standard for the higher aims and ambitions of the cinema artist.

That this picture will be generally popular in a way, I do not doubt. The personality of the man who is its star is sufficient to warrant this. His acting in the role of the Toreador will justify the anticipations of his admirers. It will carry the picture to success in spite of the bleak bitterness of the theme.

That “Blood and Sand” will be liked, I question. One does not “like” this type of story. There is too much realism, too much passion and blood-letting. Even the mildness of the bull fight shots—and these are mild, though vivid enough for the purpose—doesn't eliminate the facts.

One cannot “like” the melancholy of the whole thing any more than one can enjoy that pitiful contest between the bull fighter and his quarry—the national sport of Spain, which is glorified in this picture and then cast down.

I have said go and see this picture. Yes, by all means. See it, because it is the great art that we have been calling for from the silver sheet. See it because it is directed with a masterly intelligence from a scenario that is replete with human feeling and sincerity. See it because it is splendidly acted. But—

Do not go to see it because you expect to have a soothing potion handed you in the guise of a photoplay. This is acrid and bitter—hopelessly, relentlessly bitter.

To give you the mood of the drama I will quote a few of its leading motifs:

“The plaudits of the world are as fickle as a woman's whim.”

“Fortune plays tennis with men.”

“Passion is a game invented by the devil at which only two can play.”

Most of all, though, this film casts its javelin into the mob—the mob with its whims and its prejudices, its wild animal impulses, its bravos and its hisses.

Valentino is to be seen in this picture—not talked about. The man is nothing; the role is everything. If anybody doubts his ability as an actor he can be referred to this picture.

Lila Lee disappoints us with her sentiment. She lacks the languor of the south in the love scenes. But when Carmen discovers the tragedy of Juan's infidelity Miss Lee rises step by step to the heights of expressive emotion.

The vigorous days of vamping are revived by Nita Naldi as Dona Sol. She brings a personality for which we have been waiting—the Latin woman type. Her acting lacks in brilliance and color, I feel, but she lives as a study in subtlety and feeling.

Walter Long as the ill-fated bandit, George Field as El Nacional, Fred Becker as Don Jose, Rose Rosanova as Senora Augustias are a few who deserve very special praise for their significant portrayals.

To Fred Niblo belong the laurels for the direction and to June Mathis the tributes for the scenario. To them is chief praise due.

RAY COMEDY HAS BRISK APPEAL

I think that anyone who visited the California Theater yesterday would be willing to predict a great popular success for Charles Ray in “The Tailor-made Man.” This looks much like a strong Ray comeback. Perhaps not just the sort of return for which we have been waiting, but a very eloquent one none the less. Charlie is himself again, not the old Charlie, but the old and a new combined.

Maybe, we would have liked to see Ray be a little more serious about his first big opus for United Artists, we who have pet prejudices regarding this star. Maybe we would have liked to view him renew some of those fine memories which we cherish of “The Coward” and other half-pathetic creations. But, nevertheless, we are quite delighted to receive his exaggerated comedy on a more ample and more human scale in his fresh and entertaining new version of the Cinderella theme as it applies to the masculine sex.

There was one fundamental objection to “The Tailor-made Man” on the stage, and that was the way it was bound up with the difference between capital and labor. This objection is not altogether overcome on the screen. We are, however, spared any long harangues in the subtitles. The argufying is all gotten over in pantomime, and though this makes a lot of head-shaking and arm-swinging, the effect is a good deal better than if we had to suffer from the Cohanesque platitudes about square-shooting and fair-dealing.

Most of all in this picture are you intrigued with Ray's little game to break into society. This episode is played with a consummate cleverness. The way John Paul Bart, the uninvited guest, makes himself known takes all the banality out of the Cinderella situation. Most ingratiating is that bit where the woman immediately recognizes him as some one whom she has “heard about often.”

The gag laughs in the picture come thick and fast. They are obviously borrowed from the comedy stockroom, but are used with a very fair dexterity. There is the inevitable chase at the finish, but it is a hot one. So, I suppose, every one should be satisfied.

The cast that Ray has assembled is in general a triumphing one. Most of the portraits are generously painted up for the sake of the laughs, but they are put over with full farce vigor. Douglas Gerrard does a swashbuckling villain in hefty, but brisk style. Frank Butler plays some ingenuous comedy in an oversized dress suit. Victor Potel, comedies in a clever vein. Ethel Grandin is heroine and Jacqueline Logan subdeb vamp. I think we prefer the vamp, though Miss Grandin has appealingness of a somewhat distinct type. Thomas Ricketts does a good bit of character. The man who plays the capitalist is not mentioned on the program, but may be credited with a reserved portrait of the type.

Discovery Concert at Grauman's is Among Most Popular

“The Discovery Concert” proved one of the most-enjoyable concerts of this series yesterday morning at Grauman's Theater. Constance Balfour and Emory Foster in vocal duets, “In a Garden of Roses,” by Sanderson, and “Love Like the Dawn Came Stealing,” Cadman's exquisite composition, and F. Pierno in a trumpet solo, “Caro Nome,” from Rigoletto, in which he displayed remarkable fluency, attracted particular applause.

Hazel Linrogel made a most favorable impression with her violin playing of Kreisler's “Old Refrain,” and De Beriot's Concerto, and Ben McLaughlin, tenor, sang, “The Trumpeter” by Dix and “Sunrise and You,” by Penn, in a voice of power and sweetness.

An added attraction was Constance Reese, a gifted soprano, who gave Musetta Waltz from “La Boheme,” which won an ovation. P. Lowick furnished a pleasing number on the marimbophone, playing Kreisler's “Leibesfreud,” and responding to an encore.

Two pretty dances, “The Irish Washerwoman,” given by little 9-year-old Mary Stewart, and a coquettish French toe dance by Helen Charleston, pleased. A selection that was popular was the playing in unison by six violinists, Jaime Overton, Rene Hemery, Victor Young, George Stolbeeg, A. Campiglia and A. Venetski. They rendered Sarasate's “Gypsy Fantasie.”

Henry Mortagh's organ solos were also enthusiastically received, especially beautiful being his opening. Nocturne from the “Midsummer Night's Dream,” and Kreisler's “Caprice Viennois.”

CELLIST NOTABLY GIFTED

To be declared, at an early age the most proficient pupil of a huge musical conservatory, namely the Imperial Music School of Odessa Russia, where he was awarded the musical circles. His connection with Ilya Bronson who appears as cellist with the Los Angeles Trio at the Pacific Chautauqua this evening. Since the beginning of his professional career Mr. Bronson has been an outstanding figure in musical circles his connection with leading orchestras and chamber music organizations, among which are the New York Symphony and New York Philharmonic, have won him a merited place. His high position as artist of exceptional ability and his activity in the realm of chamber music have received recognition from music lovers and critics throughout the land. The appearance of the Los Angeles Trio is a decided opportunity for the music lovers of Southern California.

Candy Kisses Lead to More Solemn Sort

“Kisses,” this week's feature at Loew's State, is not wholly a story of osculatory adventure—though, to be sure, it ends up that way, but the kisses in question are of the candy variety and promote at last both matrimony and financial success. This is more than the other kind often lead to, and there are other respects in which the film gives more than its rather misleading title promises.

It is a good program picture; type, comedy-drama; cast, fair; story, plausible—on the screen. The action, as the press agents say, “centers around” the successful efforts of Alice Lake, in the leading role, to build up the “B Kissed” candy business and to sell this at a profit to the gentleman who, in the past, did her father dirt.

There is a goat involved, too—but whose goat it is remains somewhat in doubt. However, it is safe to presume that the gentleman who pays $50,000 for it may be considered the legal owner. On the whole, “Kisses” is mildly diverting, and not too strenuous for August weather.

Touching upon the personal appearance of Texas Guinan, the present deponent can only make use of a well-known vaudeville line and ask in a dazed fashion: “What's all the shooting for?”

In both the picture and the playlet presented by Miss Guinan there is much, oh, very much shooting. There are also horses and the traditional half-breed, who is always about to stab some one, but changes his mind and curses instead, with ejaculation low but deep. There is also a Texas ranger.

But why multiply instances? This sort of thing used to be an immense hit about a decade ago—and on Main street. One of the most encouraging things about the present-day stage is that it is no longer so much so—even on Main street. An optimist can look forward to a hypothetical but none the less halcyon period when it will not be a hit at all. Meanwhile things are what they are, and Miss Guinan's “Spitfire” is exactly what it is.

The remainder of the vaudeville is fair—particularly engaging being the first act, which features two strong-necked ladies and a well-balanced gentleman. And that is that.

LLOYD LOSES BET ON OWN PICTURE

Five weeks ago, Harold Lloyd placed a bet at the studio that “Grandma's Boy” would not run twelve weeks at the Symphony, which only goes to prove that a man knows less about himself than others do, and accordingly the comedian dug down and coughed up.

Lloyd thought he had made a good picture, anyhow he had expended every possible effort to make it his best production, but not being cursed with an exaggerated ego he would be the last one to predict that any one of his productions could establish a new record for comedy, especially after the remarkable showing of “The Sailor-Made Man,” which played in the best season. But “Grandma's Boy” has made the naval picture look like an also ran.

Up to last night, it is stated, 279,823 persons have seen the production and that is about one-third of the normal population of the city. “Grandma's Boy” is due to open in New York about the middle of September and right now it is receiving more attention than any other production in years.

RESIGNS TO PLAYWRITE

Desiring to devote all his time to playwriting, Don Ryan, publicity director for Loew's State Theater, has resigned his position. E. C. Bostick, manager of the theater, announced yesterday. Mr. Ryan will be succeeded by Linton Wells, it was stated.

A Blue and White Bathroom

The immaculate cleanliness suggested by a bathroom calls for woodwork of pure white, washable enamel, with possibly a thin stripe of deep blue along the mouldings. The walls should be finished in pale blue flat wall paint. Window curtains may be of white Marquisette, with side drapes of Persian Blue Sunfast material.

Have It Done With Mathews Products

To withstand the effects of splashing water and constant wear, the finishes used in a bathroom must be waterproof and durable. Mathews Products may be depended upon to stand the test. For the bathroom use:

(For the woodwork)
Mathews Permolite

(For the walls)

RESERVISTS BEGIN CRUISE

Inaugurating the first naval reserve cruise of the year, Eagle Boats Nos. 13 and 34 sailed from Los Angeles Harbor at daybreak yesterday morning with every billet filled.

Commander A. H. Woodbine, Los Angeles, is in command of the division and has announced an intensive schedule of drills and instructions to be carried out during the fifteen-day cruise, under Commander Loomis, commanding U. S. S. Eagle No. 34, and Lieut. Johnson, commanding U. S. S. Eagle No. 13.

The reserve men will visit Santa Barbara, Port San Luis, Monterey and Santa Cruz, following which they will put in at San Francisco for five days of liberty. Leaving the Bay City, they will return to Balboa and participate in the annual yachting regatta.

Other cruises of the same duration will begin on August 20, and September 10, and cover the same itinerary. Naval authorities advise all reserve men who contemplate joining the cruises to make application at once to reserve headquarters, 220 Byrne Building.

SORDID MURDER HEARING BEGUN

Son-in-Law is Accused as Stansbury's Slayer

Young Defendant Promises Sensational Testimony

Girl Forced to Live With Oriental, He Say

The Stansbury murder case, with its sordid background, in which tragedy is rivaled by scandal, will come up today in the court of Justice of the Peace Follette for a continuation of the preliminary examination. The defense is expected to produce further evidence regarding the charge that the slain man had forced his two daughters to live with a Chinaman, Dr. Wong Him of Oakland. This charge was partly evidenced in the testimony last week of Kermet Stansbury, the 13-year-old son of the dead man.

DR. WONG HIM.

In the murder case, Albert Mackwitz, this side of thirty in age, is accused of slaying Thomas F. Stansbury, his father-in-law, in a fight July 18 in the kitchen of the Stansbury home at 1020 West One Hundred and First street. Mackwitz had married Stansbury's daughter, Velma. They had one child, still an infant, and the mother was in the hospital a second time.

YOUNG WIFE DIES

As far as has been brought out, young Mackwitz appears to have gone to the Stansbury home for some baby clothes and the baby carriage, and the altercation with his wife's father arose over whether he should take them. The testimony of County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner was to the effect that Stansbury came to his death from injuries to the brain caused by blows on the head, or a fall.

Young Mackwitz was arrested for assault, and when Stansbury died a day or two later he was charged with murder. Soon after his wife died. Her death is being investigated by the State Medical Board. The Coroner's findings showed an illegal operation had been performed.

S. S. Hahn, attorney for the defense, has introduced as evidence a photograph of the Chinese physician in question.

WITNESS MISSING

One of the witnesses for the defense was to have been Fern Stansbury, whom Mr. Hahn reported as mysteriously missing. Her little brother said she had expressed herself as glad her father had been killed.

The boy denied he had heard her say her father had forced her to go with the Chinese, but the little witness said he had heard Mackwitz blaming his father-in-law for having forced Velma to accept the advances of the oriental, and the photograph introduced in evidence has written on it, "To Miss Velma Stansbury from Dr. Wong Him, Sept. 7, 1920." That date is prior to Mackwitz' marriage with Velma. The defense will try to find Fern, who is said to have gone to Oakland, and cause her to return to testify on behalf of her brother-in-law.

The prosecution, conducted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. McDaniels, is expected to have some important witnesses not yet appearing in the case.

REDUCTIONS START GAS PRICE WAR

Company Asserts Rates Unaffected by Crude Oil Cut; Long Beach Differs

While a reduction in natural gas for industrial purposes, as ordered by the State Railroad Commission, is virtually an assured fact, the chances for a general drop in gas rates is more remote, according to recent developments. In consequence of which a battle seems imminent.

A reduction in industrial gas rates, applying to Orange county, Long Beach, San Pedro and vicinity, was agreed upon recently as a result of informal negotiations between the Railroad Commission and the Southern Counties Gas Company.

E. S. Wade, local superintendent for the Southern Counties Gas Company, declares that the possibility for a reduction in the domestic gas rate is something not to be considered.

"The reduction in the price of gas, ordered by the State Railroad Commission," he said, "refers to industrial rates alone, and since it reduces the company's income, it makes the chances for a general reduction in gas rates more remote."

C. E. Hewes, City Manager of Long Beach, however, comes forth with the statement that 60-cent gas for Long Beach must inevitably result.

"With the drop in price of crude oil and a consequent cheapening of natural gas at the well," said Mr. Hewes, "the rate to domestic consumers must drop to 60 cents at least. I firmly believe that it will. There is no reason why the gas companies should get a higher figure when they pay so little for it at its source on Signal Hill."

Meanwhile, both forces are preparing to battle it out.

WIFE LOVES DANCING, HE WANTS DIVORCE

Mrs. Margaret L. Cohrt evidently was not a dutiful wife, according to the plaints of her husband, Theodore J. Cohrt. He complains in a divorce suit filed Saturday that she attended dances with other men, stayed out till late at night and has come home with her hair hanging down her back. In addition she refused to tell her husband where she had passed the time.

SPOONERS FACE POLICE JAIL

Santa Monica Chief Declares War on "Coupe" Lovers

Palisades Road is Particular Object of Capt. Webb

Would Stop "Sparking" in Automobiles

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA MONICA, July 30.—Young men and young ladies whose fancy "lightly turns to thoughts of love" and who seek to enfold each other in each other's arms, either in curtained coupes on the Palisades road or the sands thereabouts, had better beware. The policeman 'll get 'em if they don't watch out.

To be terse and exact, Capt. Clarence Webb of the Santa Monica police, has declared war on spooners.

No longer is Tom to be permitted to spoon with Betty in Tom's little Ford coupe parked beneath the overhanging shadows of the Palisades. No longer will Harry and Bess and Arthur and Peggy be permitted to bask unmolested in the silvery rays on the moon on "Spooners' Point."

Whispers have reached Capt. Webb's ears that the practice of young couples driving up the Palisades road and stopping their machine in the shadows for hours and hours should be stopped. The complaints have not been very numerous or very serious in their character, but the little bird that tells things has been flying into the police station window rather regularly of late.

On warm, moonlit nights the beach front, from a point below the last house at the entrance of Santa Monica Canyon to the entrance of Topanga Canyon, presents one long line of machines. "Spooners' Point" a small promontory, projecting out into the surf is literally black with machines almost every evening. Just what goes on at these "spooning parties" is a matter of conjecture, but Capt. Webb intends to find out.

Those who don't wish to heed the warning herein, can take their chance, but it is rumored that some moonlight night when love is in the air, Capt. Webb and a few of Santa Monica's finest are going to swoop down upon the spooners and then there are going to be a lot of indignant Toms and Harries and Betties and Peggyies viewing the inside of Santa Monica's new police station.

his sacred promise to Secretary Stanton, never to reveal it.

Egbert Ingersoll has for years been impertuned by historians, writers and magazine and newspaper interviewers to talk about his experiences, but he has sidestepped all inquiries. He has told me all but that one occurrence, but assents to the accuracy of his story.

After the Civil War he returned to his farm at Delta for a few years and later lived quietly at Lansing, six miles from Delta on Grand River, and this was his home until he moved to Los Angeles in 1902. His life has never been strenuous, even under unusual conditions he is ever the same—cool, deliberate, thoughtful and serene. In fine, he is temperate in all things at all times. He has no fads in religion, politics or social conduct, but concedes to all the right of freedom of thought, speech and conduct within the law that he enjoys.

He has two sons, Joseph Ingersoll, retired, living at Eagle Rock, and Thurlow Ingersoll, retired, of Los Angeles, and two daughters, L. Louise, who lives with her venerable father, and Jennie, wife of G. Levant Freeman of Eagle Rock, and an instructor in the Los Angeles Polytechnic High School. Mr. Ingersoll has four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

GIRL'S OIL INCOME TO BACK TOUR

Second of Long Beach's Fortunate Employees to Keep Secretary's Job

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, July 30.—The resignation from the city's service, Saturday, of Mrs. Hazel Jorgensen, a stenographer in the Public Service Department brought to light the fact that two young women stenographers in the employ of the city are rapidly becoming wealthy through the discovery of the Signal Hill oil field. Mrs. Jorgensen, who has had an income of $400 a day, it is said, from her half-interest in the land on which the Shell-Stratton well is producing, has resigned her position to make a tour of the country. With the recent cut in the price of crude oil at the well Mrs. Jorgensen's daily income shrank to a mere $280, it is said.

Miss Margaret Tincher, secretary of City Manager Hewes, is the other young woman who enjoys an income from Signal Hill oil. She has an interest in the Cherry Hill Community lease and her income is said to be several hundred dollars a month. Miss Tincher is not ready to resign her position yet, she declares.

"You can never tell how long this oil business will last," she remarked sagely yesterday.

WIFE CHARGES SPOUSE LIKED OTHER WOMEN

In the case of Charles H. Stevens, his wife, Florence M. Stevens, asserts in a suit for divorce filed Saturday that he was partial to other women. She says he kissed and hugged them publicly and kept late hours. In short, it is declared, he passed a great deal of time with the fair sex. The complaint was prepared by Attorneys Loewenthal, Collins and Loewenthal.

SEWER PLAN COMMITTEE GIVEN CALL

To Meet Tonight to Settle Campaign Which Will Insure Passage at Election

The Committee of Forty-nine, which is in charge of plans for the new sewer campaign, will meet tonight in the Council chamber at the City Hall for the purpose of outlining plans for the campaign.

Chairman O. A. Vickery, who issued a call for the meeting, called the attention of all committee members to the fact that the time between now and the election date is short, and that every voter must be fully advised of the urgency of the matter.

According to Mr. Vickery the city is facing a crisis so far as health and sanitation are concerned, and the health of the community during the next few years will depend in a large measure upon the action taken on the sewer question. He declares that the sewer system recently approved by the Community Development Association must be put in without delay.

CADMAN'S MUSIC TO BE PLAYED AT BOWL

SYMPHONY PROGRAM FOR TOMORROW FEATURES COMPOSER

Tomorrow night will be devoted to the well-known American composer, Charles Wakefield Cadman, at the Hollywood Bowl concert. Mr. Cadman's works, both orchestral and those written for voice, will be presented. The songs "At Dawning," "The Land of the Sky-Blue Water" and "The Robin Woman's Song" from "Shanawis" are all taken from Indian themes. Mararet Masar. Morris will sing them to the composer's accompaniments.

Alfred Hertz, conductor of the Summer Symphony, will play the Oriental Rhapsody from the incidental music to the "Rubiayat" which Cadman has recently completed, and add the "Young Prince and the Young Princess" from the "Scheherazade" Suite" of Rimsky-Krosakow.

Jules Lepske, first violinist of the orchestra, is to play the Rondo Sappricioso of Saint-Saens. Gluck's Overture to "Iphegenia in Aulis" will be on the program. Liszt's second Hungarian Rhapsody is the last number on the list.

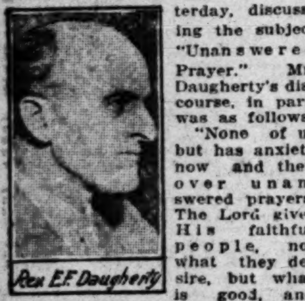
POWERFUL MESSAGES PREACHED BY PASTORS

Necessity for Resignation to Will of God is Emphasized; Sermon Extracts

"Man cannot measure the mind of infinity by his own, but must accept the mysteries of life as purposes divine with perfect ends; for in our darkest clouds God's angels stands to guard man's present and eternal happiness." This, in effect, has been one of the principle messages delivered to humanity by great sages of the past. As man cannot fully comprehend the power, love and glory of the Creator, so it is impossible, say the spiritual leaders, for him to always know what is best for him. "So find we profit by losing of our prayers," runs a line in Shakespeare, and Jesus recognized and resigned himself to the Supreme Director of the Universe in the prayer, "Thy will, not mine, be done." The necessity for resignation to the will of God, if one would find the path of peace, was emphasized by many ministers in Los Angeles pulpits yesterday. Following are extracts from some of yesterday's sermons:

SAYS GOD SUPPLIES ALL MAN'S NEEDS

Rev. Edgar Fay Daugherty preached to a large congregation at the First Christian Church yesterday, discussing the subject "Unanswered Prayer." Mr. Daugherty's discourse, in part, was as follows:



Rev E.F. Daugherty

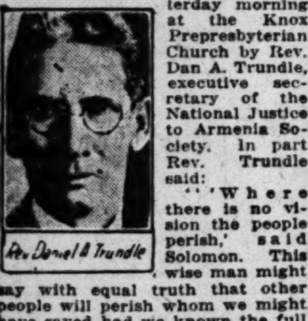
"None of us but has anxiety now and then over unanswered prayers. The Lord gives His faithful people, not what they desire, but what is good, and what they would desire if they were wiser. There is wisdom and love in God's withholdings, as marked as in His bestowals.

"Concerning the atrocities of Turk and Hun, the most of right-thinking people would extirpate them, if possessed of the power, but the attitude of faith is, that nothing comes to pass in the world without God, and when injustices mount and malignities heap, it is up to those in the grace of God to go on in duty's path with quiet and unvengeful heart, after the manner of Him, who 'when He was reviled, reviled not again, when He suffered, threatened not; but committed Himself to Him that judgeth righteously.'

"The orgies of the world in recent past and present deviltry simply reveal the need of a new appreciation by mankind for Christian ideals. The worse ideals of government and pillage evoke the better of sacrifice, devotion and defense. The time of peril produces its type of heroism. The breakings and maimings and disappointments of the soul, enrich its proportions. If it were not so, the chronicles of heroism would be meaningless. When men have the self-abnegation that will enthrone the will of God, they will walk in paths of peace; as long as their prayers and efforts are self-centered they will be baffled in either reconstruction or realization toward a better world."

FLAYS AMERICAN COMMERCIALISM

"America's Vision of the World, and Moral Leadership," was the subject of a sermon preached yesterday morning at the Knox Prepresbyterian Church by Rev. Dan A. Trundle, executive secretary of the National Justice to Armenia Society. In part Rev. Trundle said:



Rev. Daniel A Trundle

"'Where there is no vision the people perish,' said Solomon. This wise man might say with equal truth that other people will perish whom we might have saved had we known the full story of their condition. This is markedly examplified in the case of the wholesale murder of the Armenians, Creeks and other minor peoples of the Ottoman Empire. Had the people of America, England, France, Italy and other countries concerned in this sad event known the full truth is could never have happened. It is not enough for us to be anxious for the spiritual welfare of far-off folk for whom we labor and to whom we give generously to save from starvation; we must accept the responsibility, largely, for their temporal safety. While we are praying for them we must see to it that our selfish and criminal-minded citizens do not prey upon them. American commercialism, as well as Turkish scoundrelism must answer at the bar of public conscience for this dastardly outrage. Had it not been for the hope of gain that Turkey held out to the nations of the world through her 'concessions' the persecuted peoples of that land would have been as safe as Belgium. If America ever takes her place as the moral leader of the world it will be due largely to the fact that a much greater number of her citizens become thoroughly acquainted with world needs. Why should not those who explore the world to save it have more influence with Washington than those who exploit it only to damn it?"

"HOMO ASCENSUS" SERMON SUBJECT

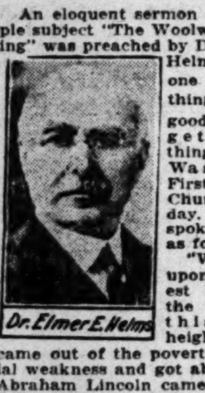
The fact of man's continuous progress should stand as a foundation for the spirit of eternal optimism, according to the opinion of Dr. C. Ellwood Nash who preached on "Homo Ascensus" at the First Universalist Church yesterday. In part, Dr. Nash said:

"Where lies the golden age? Myth says, in the past. The race once had it, and lost it: our only hope is to retrace out steps and reclaim the forfeited glory. Theology has tried to frame this myth into shibboleth, to rule us by the dead hand of the yesterday. If it could succeed in fastening this manacle on the mind, it would sound the knell of peace. For what assurance could we have of keeping what once we threw away, could we regain it? How easily might man a second time play the fool and sell his birthright for a mess of sweet savor!

"History, science, consciousness, reveal no such beginning for man. Rather they show him in the backward vista grow small by degrees and beautifully less. Vestiges and reminders of that humble start still remain to rebuke our snobbishness. Nor does true pride regret the lowly origin; instead, it finds courage and hope in the achievement. The Creator, too, draws greater glory from the wonderful process with its assured final product. Humanity is forever climbing. We know not what shall be, but we will be something grand and splendid beyond all that the mind can yet conceive. This is the cure of all pessimisms, the ground of all sane optimisms. Man who has risen from the beast will go on to the fellowship of gods, with whom his natural affinities lie. To this final though far off consummation everything contributes, even sorrow, even failure, even sin itself!"

SHOWS LITTLENESS OF WORLD WEALTH

An eloquent sermon on the simple subject "The Woolworth Biulding" was preached by Dr. Elmer E. Helms at the George Washington First Methodist Church yesterday. Dr. Helms spoke, in part, as follows:



Dr. Elmer E. Helms

"We stand upon the highest building in the world. At this great height, 700 feet, one is above things. It is a good thing to get above things. George Washington came out of the poverty of Colonial weakness and got above things. Abraham Lincoln came out of the little log cabin of Illinios and got above things. William McKinley came out of the humble Ohio farmhouse and got above things. Here we are above things. Look out now. Oh, this is the place to go for a sublime view! Here no bar nor beam mars the vision. And what a vision! Far as human eye can see stretch God's eternal acres.

"Wideness, wideness, it seems to blaze out of the sky and throb through one's soul. No man can get the sublime thought of God's eternal wideness and remain the small creature that he was. The top of this highest building gives one soul expansion. Looking down from this dizzy height, how small is all! Trees look like buttonhole bouquets; the great flower gardens in the parks like tiny rugs flung out upon the parlor floor; automobiles, like baby buggies or pushcarts; people on bicycles, like spiders on spools; the streets, like chalk-marks; the mighty Hudson winding in and out, like a silver thread through a green fringe; and a company of soldiers marching, like tin toys in parade. How little it looks at this distance! One does not need to get very far above the earth until it fades away into nothing. Though greater than a king born, for he was king by choice of 70,000,000 free men, what meant the Presidency and its possesion to William McKinley when he looked into the mouth of the smoking revolver? Less than naught. And quickly his stricken soul cried Nearer my God to Thee. How infinitesimal this little ball of mud called earth! And yet men sweat and sweat to rub a little dust off for their keeping, as though this world were all. What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world? The answer is—mud."

BROWN DEFENDS CHRIST'S WORDS

"The fundamental question of Christianity is: Are the teachings of Christ fundamental, or incidental to progress?" declared Dr. Bruce Brown in a sermon on "Christ and Progress," preached at the South Park Christian Church, yesterday.

Dr Bruce Brown

"I am ready to risk all I am and all I have upon the affirmation that the principles of Christ are the impelling and compelling power in civilization," said Dr. Brown. "Wherever His gospel is practiced we have progress and light. Wherever and whenever it is discarded disintegration comes, as darkness comes when the sun goes down. There has never been a great evil destroyed until the power of the gospel was brought against it. In the great world battle against evil Christ comes into the struggle, as the United States went into the World War.

"Christ put new meaning into the words 'sin' and 'virtue.' A united church can destroy any evil, as the united church, in action, put the saloon out of business. Drunkenness and adultery were not considered sins until the gospel of Christ so designated them. Christianity is the only system of morality that has ever proved to be practical when put into operation. There are five contributions that Christ has made to human progress. He gave a new set of moral values. He emphasized the worth and rights of individuals. He taught universal brotherhood, he substituted selflessness for selfishness and He gave assurance of the future life."

HIGH RESOLVE ON POLYGAMY WEAKENS

"When the late King of Siam died, some twelve years ago, he willed to his son his 400 wives," said Dr. John N. Mills of Washington, D. C., lecturing on "Siam, the Land of the White Elephant," in the Hollywood Congregational Church last evening. Dr. Mills has just returned from a year's travel in the Far East, and is giving a course of illustrated lectures on his travels.

"The new King, however, had spend twelve years abroad, several of them at Oxford University, and had different notions from his father's on the question of marriage. He said the severest things about polygamy and extolled monogamy. For ten years he remained a bachelor. But the custom of the country and, perhaps, the taint of blood proved too much for him, and he began taking wives. He now has three, it is said, and the prospects are that he will soon have a full-sized harem.

"King Vajiravudh is a fine English scholar, has translated Shakespeare into Siamese and he himself has written plays. Not only so, he appears in these plays himself, and is a very creditable actor. To staid, conservative Siamese, this is very objectionable. To foreigners, to Christian people and to the better class of Siamese, the taking of many wives does not meet with approval.

"So the King bolsters up his throne by appointing to the office all influential objectors. As officeholders, these must swear allegiance to the King.

"And, seeing the Democratic, moral influence of Christianity, he has lately come out boldly against the work of Christian missionaries. This is in great contrast to his father, who made them his personal friends, and appointed them to organize hospitals and schools of modern learning."

MAKES TEST CASE

Right of Fire Warden to Draft Helpers Disputed

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, July 30.—A test of the right of a fire warden to arrest and force a man to fight a forest fire will be made here as a result of the refusal of John Valadez to go with a crew to fight a fire in Reche Canyon last week. The complaint against him was made by Ranger Q. Harvey who says Valadez not only refused to go but induced others not to go.

Valadez says he refused to enter the truck until assured of getting paid. He says he has been drafted to fight several fires, taken from his regular work and never received a cent of pay.

He has demanded a jury trial.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

CONSTIPATION

I remember one of our professors telling this story to his class when we were studying the subject of constipation. He was in college during the time when women were first entering the medical profession. His professor of intestinal disorders was scheduled to lecture on constipation, but he changed the subject after he got to the class. On being asked why he did not talk on the subject of constipation, he said: "D—— it, I couldn't. There was a woman in the class."

Now the time has long since passed when any instruction in the medical colleges is looked on as something delicate. The women students get exactly the same instruction as the men students, for it is not considered that there is anything delicate in any subject that pertains to the welfare of the patients whose lives may be entrusted to their hands. It is necessary that women physicians receive the same training, both in the colleges and in the hospitals, and nearly all of the big colleges and hospitals are now open to women. Harvard, while it has not opened its doors to the woman student yet, has opened its professorships to them. Dr. Alice Hamilton, a wonderful woman, is professor of industrial diseases. This may be an opening wedge.

Just as there are no subjects that are considered indelicate for the woman medical student to study, so the time has come when there are no subjects pertaining to their welfare that the layman, both men and women, should not have a knowledge of.

Now I do think there are subjects that never will be topics of general conversation. For while these subjects may not be indelicate at all, still they may not be altogether pleasant, and good taste alone would be a deterrent in bringing them into a conversation in a mixed audience. Probably constipation would come in this list. While we talk freely about the injection of food, or the beginning of alimentation, the dejection or the ending of alimentation will probably never be a topic for general conversation, although they are both normal functions and both are accompanied by a good deal of natural satisfaction.

We do not ordinarily talk much about the sewage system of our cities, for instance, unless there happens to be something the matter with it and there are some differences of opinion by the city authorities as to the methods of change. Now constipation has to do with the sewage system of the individual, and it is the experience of physicians that it is an affliction that more people have than any other trouble. It is apparently the affliction of modern civilization. Whether all of the ill results that are attributed to constipation are due to it, is a moot question. However, there is no doubt that in some people it can cause pain, pressure and produce hemorrhoids (piles) and discomfort locally, and by absorption of poisonous products may affect the whole system, especially the nervous system; also by reflex action some of the results that are caused it may affect the system.

It would be hard to separate the results caused by constipation from by the cause that causes the constipation.

Constipation—what is it? Constipation is an abnormal retention of feces. Delayed or infrequent or insufficient or irregular evacuation of the bowels. It may be acute or chronic. Obstipation is a term in little use and is a form of constipation due to obstruction. There are two general clinical varieties recognized of constipation, atonic constipation and spastic, the second type being the result of the first—or, in other words, if the atonic type goes on long enough, the worst type, or the spastic, may developed.

NEW INDUSTRIAL HIGHWAY URGED

ion Pacific Improvement Club Has Plan

ndred - Foot Crosstown Street Proposed solution to be Presented to Council Today

A request to the City Council for per legislation to develop the East Los Angeles industrial trict by the construction of a -foot thoroughfare across town be made today, when a reso- adopted Thursday by the Pacific Improvement Club be presented to that body.

This resolution urges that imme- action be taken to open up -mile street that "would be ed of all over the world," run- as it would, from Country Drive to a proper junction Ninth street, and thence east- through the East Los Ange- industrial district to Telegraph ad.

Such a thoroughfare, the resolu- states, would be of infinite fit to the city, inasmuch as it ld aid in developing manufac- ing properties to the extent of any millions of dollars.

A verbatim copy of the resolu- follows:

To the Honorable Council of the of Los Angeles:

At a meeting of the Union Pa- Improvement Club held Thurs- July 27, 1922, a resolution was nimously adopted urging your rable body to at once do ev- thing in its power to insure the y widening of Tenth street Country Club Drive to a prop- junction with Ninth street, and easterly through the East Angeles industrial district to graph Road, making a cross- boulevard 100 feet wide and such construction as to carry lines and all classes of traffic.

POINTS TO CHICAGO

This club has been informed the Central Manufacturing trict of Chicago, one of the most ressive and successful of its in the United States and ked by such men as John J. chell, president of the Illinois and Savings Back (among largest banks in America) has chased 300 acres of land in this rict and is actively preparing to licate here, as far as possible, der the name of the Central ufacturing District of Los An- , what it has done in Chi- and a Los Angeles paper has ed that when this enterprise is developed it will represent an stment of $25,000,000.

LITTLE .. BUT .. EFFECTIVE

Diminutive Body Carries Gigantic Hustling Ability

Miss Sarita Desmukes

BELIEVING that every candidate in The Times $70,000 prize campaign, irrespective of size and weight, will have an equal chance is the reason tiny Sarita Desmukes has thrust herself into what is fast becoming a whirlwind of enthusiasm.

Miss Desmukes, although only five feet tall and tipping the scales at less than 100 pounds, is whirling merrily along in the prize campaign. This is no surprise to her many friends who are familiar with her delightfully original interpretative dancing. This small person is so thoroughly at home on the tips of her dainty toes, that she will probably continue to dance gayly along until September 2, when she will pirouette in with a big shiny automobile under one arm and a fat bag of gold under the other, as a grand finale.

The new extra gold offer which officially opens July 31 and closes August 9, has filled Miss Sarita with an enthusiasm that has set her dancing on her way in collecting new subscriptions that will bring her not only a beautiful prize at the close of the campaign, but a big bag of gold as well. As soon as she learned that $725 in gold was to be distributed in prizes as an additional reward for the candidates who brought in the largest sum of money in new subscription payments, she at once staked out her claim to the first prize, which means $200 in gold.

Miss Desmukes is an active member of the Peggy Hamilton Club, which means first that she is an artist to her fingertips—Peggy Hamilton will sponsor no less—and that she is on the high road to fame, as well.

Candidates are finding that friends and acquaintances are glad to subscribe to The Times. It is not the policy of The Times to continually sing its own praises, but it points to its already large circulation as a proof of its success.

Regarding the 70,000 extra-vote offer, candidates are advised not to hold their subscriptions until they procure a club. Subscriptions should be turned in as they are obtained, in order that the paper may be started as soon as possible. A careful record is kept by the campaign department of all subscriptions turned in, and at the end of the offer the extra vote ballot due candidates will be mailed out.

QUEEN ELOISE BEGINS REIGN

Eloise Johnson

The newly-elected queen, Eloise Johnson, of the Spanish War Veterans convention which is to be held in this city next month, reigned supreme at the city employees' Spanish barbecue and fiesta which was staged at the Selig Park yesterday.

The affair started in the morning and was the last of a long list of entertainments which have been held for the benefit of the convention fund. The crowd was estimated at more than 5000 at the time that the barbecued meat and the beans and coffee were served.

Miss Johnson was assisted in the reigning work by Jessie Martin, the city employees' candidate who was given third place in the contest. Bebe Linda Lucero, great-granddaughter of Gov. Arguello, first Spanish Governor of California, was also on hand. Miss Lucero was one of the contestants in the queen contest, but because of an accident she did not finish. Yesterday, however, she was on hand and raised between $8000 and $5000.

In addition to the barbecue a number of athletic contests were on the program. It was estimated that with the proceeds from the sale of tickets yesterday the amount raised by the benefits was boosted to $80,000.

BELIEVE FLAMING OBJECT WAS METEOR

SANTA BARBARA, July 30.—Consensus of opinion here today was that the great flaming object which fell from the heavens into the ocean off Santa Barbara or onto Santa Cruz Islands, eighteen miles south, last night, was a meteor.

As no report came from the islands that anyone there had seen the object strike the earth, the general belief was that it fell into the sea. The island, however, is of considerable size and the object might have fallen upon it without attracting the attention of the few residents.

Early reports that the object was a burning aircraft were generally disbelieved today as was, also, a suggestion that it might have been a signal from rum smugglers, the argument being advanced that the brilliancy of the object was entirely too spectacular for bootleggers.

SUBMARINES SEND MESSAGE

Craft Believed in Accident Heard From

Flotilla of Twelve is 450 Miles from Here

Fear Mishaps Have Delayed Them on Way

First-hand information on the whereabouts of the mothership Beaver and twelve submarines, four of which are believed disabled, which left Los Angeles Harbor for Hampton Roads last Tuesday, was brought to the harbor yesterday by officers of the American-Hawaiian liner Hawaiian, from Boston, via the canal. The Beaver, at 4:30 p.m. last Friday, gave her position and that of the flotilla as being 27 deg. 12 min. north latitude, 116 deg. 2 min. west longitude, or seventy-five miles off San Bartolome Bay.

At the time the Hawaiian's radio operator picked up the position call, the Beaver and her flock were less than 450 miles south of Los Angeles Harbor, despite the fact that they were then out from this base seventy-five hours. Officers at the base said last night that the flotilla had either been stopped for at least thirty-six hours, or was proceeding at less than half speed. Under ordinary conditions, it was pointed out, the squadron should last Friday afternoon have been off Cape San Lucas, nearly 900 miles to the southward.

INTERCEPTS MESSAGES

Andrew M. Petersen, second officer of the Hawaiian, told of intercepting a number of urgent code messages between the Beaver and three units of her convoy, the L-6, H-3 and L-7. The messages, in Navy code, could not be deciphered, but were easily distinguished by the code call signals; all being from NEQQ, the U.S.S. Beaver, to NYT, the L-7; NYE, the H-3, and NYS, the L-6. Although less than sixty miles from the flotilla at the time, the radio operators of the Hawaiian were unable to get in communication with the Beaver.

ACCIDENT FEARED

All three of the above mentioned submarines had serious accidents while stationed at the local submarine base. November 10 last, the L-6, in command of Lieut. Ralph B. Netting, caught fire from a battery explosion while on maneuvers off Los Angeles Harbor. Six members of her crew were seriously burned and overcome while the craft was racing to port for assistance. Two months ago, the H-3, on a five-day cruise at sea, was disabled when her batteries exploded, several members of her crew being burned in extinguishing the flames. She is in command of Lieut. Theodore W. Waldschmidt. The L-7, commanded by Lieut. Clyde Lovelace, has developed serious machinery trouble on previous occasions.

The officers(of the Hawaiian were unable to obtain any information on the whereabouts of the disabled submarine L-8, believed to have been towed into a West Coast port by her sister ship, the L-5. Details of the troubles experienced by the Beaver and the twelve submarines are expected to be given when the flotilla reaches Acapulco to pick up the disabled submarine S-32.

Hawaii Seeks Commerce of Los Angeles

A. L. Thurston, owner of the Honolulu Advertiser, with Chester Doyle, Far Eastern representative of the Bowman hotel system, whose headquarters are in Honolulu, and Owen Williams, manager of the steamship interests of the B. F. Dillingham Company, Ltd., of Honolulu, were among the 430 passengers arriving on the popular coastwise liner Yale yesterday morning from San Francisco.

Thurston, who was born in the islands and has built up what is recognized as the most influential daily newspaper published in any of the United States possessions outside of the mainland, has come over from Honolulu particularly to further the trade and travel relations between the Hawaiian Islands and the mainland. Such trade has been made increasingly possible by the establishment of a direct steamship line from Los Angeles to Honolulu, with the two ocean liners, City of Los Angeles and City of Honolulu, which have been allocated to the Los Angeles Steamship Company for this purpose.

Owen Williams, whose firm is acting as Hawaiian agents for the new line, has come for conferences with Ralph J. Chandler, general manager, and R. V. Crowder, general passenger agent of the steamship company. He says that the people of the islands are counting heavily on the benefits that will naturally accrue through the direct linking of Honolulu with Southern California.

FIGHT OVER WOMAN

In a cutting scrape near New High street and Sunset Boulevard Jose Deavala, aged 37, a Mexican, was seriously injured last night by Tromas Arona, also of foreign birth, 774 Alpine street. The men were said to have quarreled over a woman. Detective Hickey placed Arona in jail, pending an investigation. Deavala's injuries are not expected to be fatal.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, July 30.—The steamship President McKinley of the Pacific Steamship Company's passenger fleet is due in Seattle Tuesday afternoon. She is bringing a full cargo of oriental products, including tea, 8500 bales and cases of raw silk and silk goods. The steamer President Madison of the same fleet is booked to sail for the Orient next Saturday.

A recommendation of Col. E. H. Schulz, United States division engineer of the Northern Pacific division, for dredging a channel and constructing guide walls below the Lake Washington Canal locks at an estimated cost of $446,000, has been approved by the chief of the Army Engineer Corps, according to information received here today. The report will now go to Congress for action, and if an appropriation is made, the work will probably be commenced within the next year.

The Osaka Shosen Kaisha's extra freighter Amazon Maru and Himalaya Maru have been ordered from Japan back to Seattle and other Puget Sound ports to load full cargoes already booked for the Orient. The Himalaya Maru will arrive about the middle of August and the Amazon Maru a month later. The liner Alabama Maru of the same fleet will sail Friday for the Orient with a capacity cargo of 10,000 tons and a good passenger list.

TACOMA, July 30.—The Nawsco liner Brush arrived at the Commercial dock today, shortly after noon, with general freight from Atlantic ports. She will begin unloading tomorrow morning and will also load general freight for the East Coast.

The Mongolian Prince, which is taking a cargo of whale products from the North Pacific Sea Products Company for Europe sailed at 10:30 this morning. The Mongolian Prince will call at Portland as her next port.

The steamers Santa Rita and Juneau completed unloading at the Tacoma smelter today and got away, the former for San Francisco and the latter for Alaskan ports.

PORTLAND, July 30.—Seven grain ships are listed here for full cargo new-crop loading thus far. August grain shipments will start with the Swedish motorship Yngaren, which will take 4500 tons of wheat for the General Steamship Corporation.

The British steamer Koranga, under charter to Kerr Gifford & Co., for new-crop grain loading here, is undergoing some engine repairs. Her lay days will not begin until August 15, by which time it is expected new-crop grain will be available for her cargo.

Capt. R. Pals has assumed command as master of the Dutch steamer Tjilboet, now here, succeeding Capt. Schermbeek, transferred to command of the Tjikarang. Capt. Pals was promoted from first officer of the Tjilboet to be master.

The sailing schooner K. V. Kruse was brought from Astoria today and laid up to await business, being without charter.

Schedules compiled by a special committee of the Shipping Board, covering stevedoring charges and conditions at Portland and other points between this harbor and the sea, have been signed by some stevedoring firms and become effective Tuesday. Compared with charges under which government vessels have been worked during the last year, a part of the schedule is said to be lower, while some items are higher.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30. — The Matson freighter Manulani will be returned to Honolulu from this port instead of continuing its voyage to Puget Sound, because of a broken propeller blade and a delay in sugar cargoes, it was announced here today.

The British schooner Speedway arrived today, ninety-three days from the Solomon Islands, with 700 tons of copra.

The Luckenbach Steamship Company has announced the withdrawal of the steamer Harry Luckenbach from the intercoastal run to undergo repairs sustained in the collision with the steamer Henry T. Scott, off the Washington coast recently. The run occupied by the Harry Luckenbach will be taken by the former German steamer Posnan, which has been renamed the Paul Luckenbach.

$6,500,000

Toledo Traction Light and Power Co.

Three Year 6% Secured Gold Notes
(Due August 1, 1925)

Price 98 and Interest, Yielding About 6¾%

The Company agrees to pay interest without deduction for any normal Federal income tax up to 2%. Application will be made to list these notes on the New York stock exchange.

The following has been summarized from a letter (copies of which may be had on request) from Henry L. Doherty, president of the Company:

The Company owns $7,671,000 first mortgage 6% bonds of The Community Traction Company and over 94% of the entire outstanding common stock of The Toledo Edison Company, together with substantial blocks of the preferred stocks of both companies. The Toledo Edison Company does the entire electric light and power and artificial gas business, and The Community Traction Company the entire electric street railway business in Toledo, Ohio, serving a population estimated at 300,000. The Community Traction Company operates under a twenty-five-year franchise providing that it may charge such rate of fare as may be necessary, after payment of all operating expenses, to provide for maintenance, depreciation, sinking fund, bond interest and dividends on preferred stock from time to time outstanding.

These $6,500,000 notes, in the opinion of counsel, will be a direct obligation of The Toledo Traction Light and Power Company and will be secured by pledge with the trustee of $7,521,000 first mortgage 6% bonds (due 1946) of The Community Traction Company and $13,000,000 par value of common stock of The Toledo Edison Company.

An amount exceeding $200,000 per annum, accruing through the operation of a sinking fund for the pledged bonds, is to be used for the purchase or call of these notes. As officially reported for the year ended June 30, 1922, income accruing to the bonds and stock pledged as security for these $6,500,000 notes alone was $1,577,386, or over four times the interest charges thereon.

We recommend these notes for investment and shall be pleased to send circulars describing the issue in detail.

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION

To Holders of Victory Notes and Others Concerned

Notice is hereby given as follows: (1) Call for partial redemption of 4¾% Victory Notes: All 4¾% Victory Notes, otherwise known as United States of America Gold Notes of 1922-23, which bear the distinguishing letters, A, B, C, D, E or F prefixed to their serial numbers, having been designated for the purpose by letter in the manner prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, are called for redemption on December 15, 1922, pursuant to the provision for redemption contained in the notes and in Treasury Department Circular 138 dated April 21, 1919, under which the notes were originally issued. Interest on all the 4¾% Victory Notes thus called for redemption will cease on said redemption date, December 15, 1922. Victory Notes of the 4¾% series bearing the distinguishing letters, G, H, I, J, K or L prefixed to their serial numbers, are not in any manner affected by this call for redemption and will become due and payable as to principal on May 20, 1923, according to their terms. (2) Detailed information as to the presentation and surrender of 4¾% Victory Notes for redemption under this call is given in Treasury Department Circular No. 299, dated July 26, 1922, copies of which may be obtained from the Treasury Department, Division of Loans and Currency, Washington, or any Federal Reserve Bank.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

You are politely requested to submit samples carefully wrapped and tagged, with letter accompanying, stating what tests are desired. Always attach the letter to the samples. Make sample of small size. There is no necessity for big chunks. Correspondents offering matter for analysis with card, or scrap of paper, intended to show that the stuff is from Jim Jones, for instance, with no marks of identification on samples, will hereafter receive no attention. Analyses are made free of charge.

Cement Rock

TUCSON (Ariz.) July 11.—Question: I am sending a small box of clay. The Chinaman here says it is all the same as the Chinese kaolin. Will you kindly test it and tell me if it is any good to mankind. Test it out for the heat it will stand; also the pressure it will stand, and what it can be used for to the best advantage. If my requests are not out of reason I hope to read your report in The Times soon. S.

Answer: The samples stand a fair degree of heat, and regarding pressure, we made no test. The specimens are nodular ones and resemble fire clay. They carry aluminum silicate (clay,) with quite a per cent of lime carbonate. Iron oxides present, and they are not China clay (kaolin.)

If there is a big deposit of the mineral represented by the samples it would pay to use the product in the manufacture of cement. Cement rock is impure limestone containing iron oxides and aluminum silicate.

Silicates

BARSTOW, July 12.—Q.: By parcels post today I am sending some samples of rocks found in a country that has not been prospected and it may carry rare minerals; possibly iridium, platinum, or tin. Will you kindly classify it for me? The rock occurs in granite and prophyry formations. L.

A.: Owing to the fact that the samples were taken from a new locality it was a pleasure to give the best of qualitative analyses thereon.

As you well know rocks showing the peculiar glassy and vitreous lusters as appear in the specimens are very hard to determine, and, furthermore, the samples are very sparingly soluble in boiling hydrochloric acid. In cold acid hydrogen sulphide gas is formed. The pulverized rock does not gelatinize after treatment in hot or cold acid. In the rock we found a very minute microscopical arsenide sparingly contained, and it was hoped that the substance would be Sperrylite (platinum arsenide) but the reaction for the named arsenide is negative. The tests above set forth were made on sample No. 1. Specimen No. 2 carries traces of microscopical pyrite and blende (zinc sulphide;) microscopical lead a trace only.

The rocks carry no tellurium nor free gold. The whitish matter shown in the samples is wollastinite (lime silicate) with traces, here and there, of lime carbonate. Tin is absent; iridium not present. A further classification of the rocks other than hornblende is present was not attempted in qualitative tests, and it might be well to prospect the locality further in the hope that a more plentiful supply of sulphides and arsenides might be found, and, if obtained, it would give us pleasure to go after the sulphides and arsenides further.

Free Gold Absent

PHOENIX (Ariz.) July 13.—Q.: Please find by parcels post two samples of rock. The black one I would like to know how much gold it runs, and gold, silver and copper. Thanking you as a subscriber. L.

A.: The blackish sample is altered magnetite; some chromite, and it carries a bare trace of copper. The larger sample is of iron oxides quite a per cent. It carries copper 2.10 per cent. We make no assays for gold and silver.

Vanadium Present

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—Q.: I am sending you two samples of ore from Arizona. Would like to have your opinion as to whether they carry gold and also as to vanadium. Can you tell me if there is any ready demand for vanadium at the present time, and its uses in the chemical and metallic industries? F.

A.: No free gold was found in the samples. The two specimens average a low percentage of lead vanadate, in microscopic crystals, with low per cent cerussite (lead carbonate.) Zinc traces. It is doubtful that the samples represent vanadates of commercial value as could be obtained by dry concentration, flotation, or otherwise. The American Vanadium Company, of Pittsburg, draws its high grade Patronite (vanadium sulphide) from the mines in Peru. The Radium companies obtain vanadium oxide as a by-product, and the United States Vanadium Company is interested in Vanadinite claims near Kelvin, Arizona, and we do not know whether or not the named company is exploiting vanadium ores at the locality named, at this time.

"The great use of vanadium is as a component of the high-speed tool and other steels. Vanadium is also used as a deoxidizer in steel, bronzes, brasses, and bearing metals. Small quantities of vanadium salts are used in various chemical industries." For other references consult publication of the U. S. Geological Survey, and those, also, of the Bureau of Mines, Washington, D. C. The named publications can be referred to in the libraries of Los Angeles.

Some Mixtures

JOHANNESBURG, July 15.—Q.: Your very kind note received. I am mailing duplicate samples of this interesting rock. Thanking you for your courtesy. "SUBSCRIBER."

A.: The light colored samples from narrow seams are probably representatives of altered minerals contained in one of the walls of the ledge and they react for clay (aluminum silicate); lime carbonate; magnesium carbonate, and magnesium silicate. The brownish black specimen from hanging wall carries more or less amphibole with talcose mica schist, and damourite (mica) as coating, on one side of the sample. The grayish black substances are probably altered sulphides chiefly of pyritiferous origin. Lead, zinc, antimony, lime carbonate and magnesia, all are more or less present. Manganese detected.

It would be interesting if time permitted to go over this mine with you taking samples from the ledge of which we have no specimen, but such a trip is out of the question at this time.

Kaolin Present

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—Q.: Herewith a sample of ore found in the hills near Pocatello, Idaho. Will you please analyze it?

A.: The samples are from narrow seams in and through rocks. Silica present with opaline silica. The samples swell up immensely in water on the order of Bentonite (Denver mud.) Mineral represented by the samples might answer for certain coarse polishing powder. Where fuller's earth is hard to obtain it is possible that the samples could be used as a rather por filtering mixture. It would be well to offer samples to those engaged in the process of de-inking old newspapers by which the printer's ink is "soaked out" of papers. The sample is an impure mineral of several mixtures, and quantitative analysis is called for to arrive at percentages.

Silicious Limonite

HALLECK, July 16.—Q.: Under separate cover find a sample for determination. I have a party who wants this and he said he is going to use it for paint. I think this mineral is carrying something else and would like to have you test it for me. The mineral is from a depth of five feet in the earth and forms a large deposit. Thanking you for past favors. T.

A.: The probabilities are that the hydrous iron (impure peroxide) will answer for pigment (paint) filler. There is a litle baryte in the samples with traces of manganese. Different paint colors can be obtained from the mineral by roasting, etc. The sample carries no free gold.

Sulphates

LAS CRUCES (N. M.) July 17.—Q.: I am sending you today a sample of what might be sulphate of aluminum containing potash. Please determine what it is and what is the commercial value? I have just returned from Old Mexico; normal conditions are very bad there. I sent you some asbestos from Mexico. D.

A.: You are one of our oldest customers, Captain! Never mind about Old Mexico; that country will yield great tonnages of ores, minerals, earths, and metals at a not far distant date.

In Mexico, south of San Diego, molybdenite occurs in big plates in a matrix of quartz and containing no deleterious substances. Within three miles of the Pacific Ocean, in the La Paz country ores of copper, silver, cuproscheelite, very high grade manganese-iron ores, ores of copper, lead and silver occur. South of Yuma, Ariz., in Mexico, holds today the biggest deposits of alum ores and sulphate minerals in the known world. Forty miles south of Campo, in Mexico, large deposits of the finest, crystallized pectolite, composed of silica, lime, and soda are available, and for beauty of crystallizations, has the New Jersey variety easily beaten in quantities and purity. Some of the pectolite is of gem variety. One of the greatest localities for exploration of minerals is from Needles, down through Parker, and south of Calexico, thirty-five miles, in Mexico. All sorts of manganese ores, wollastinite, chromite, galenite, zinc-lead and other ores are there awaiting the prospector. We have examined the territories named, personally, and the future will prove that this information is no dream.

Now cometh your samples: The alum is impure potash alum. In the box of small thumb specimens we find high-grade potash alum, but the greater number of the samples is contaminated with iron in low percentages, soda traces, and the matrix, containing the alum, appears to be altered alunite.

The asbestos is that silky variety known as amianthus. There is present, however, abbestos of brittle fiber, which from the aminathus can easily be separated. What you want to find is alum in considerable tonnage; potash alum occurs usually in pockety formations and of pure grade such as that occurring twelve miles south of Coaldale, Nev. If the asbestos is found in serpentine (you sent us no sample of the matrix) it would be well for you to go after it early.

A QUICK THOUGHT

The Doctor. If you are thoroughly troubled with sleeplessness, you ought to take something solid before going to bed.

The Patient: Why, doctor, that's exactly what you once forbade me to do.

The Doctor: Ah, that was two years ago. Science has made enormous strides since then.—[Punch.

Earnings Assure Bond Interest

Either of the bonds listed below are good investments. They are backed by the earnings of the Western States Gas & Electric Company. In the past nine years this company has made a remarkable record for regularity and consistent increase in its net earnings. On such a record you can base assurance that bond interest will be paid. Such a record bespeaks stability.

Study this comparison of net earnings for the past nine years. Each per cent indicates the amount of increase over the previous year.

7%	7%	9%	6%	6%	3%	20%	6%	6%

In this nine-year period the average annual net earnings of this company were approximately two times the interest charges on its total interest bearing debt. To a large extent this earning power is the basis for our recommendation of the bonds of the Western States Gas & Electric Company listed below.

Western States Gas and Electric Company

These bonds are a direct obligation of the San Gabriel Water District, organized under the County Water Works District Act of California, for the purpose of acquiring from private interests the systems which now serve water to the City of San Gabriel for domestic purposes, and to the agricultural tracts adjoining for both domestic and irrigation purposes.

The City of San Gabriel (sixth class) is situated about ten miles from Los Angeles, five miles from Pasadena, and adjoins on the east, the City of Alhambra. Transportation is provided by the Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric Systems, and by a network of hard surfaced roads communicating with the adjoining cities. It is one of the oldest communities in the State, dating back to the Mission, which was founded in 1771.

The San Gabriel Water District, including the territory in the city, embraces a total of 2050 acres of highly developed orchard and garden land, and will be extended to include an additional 480 acres, the owners of which have applied for admission. The territory surrounding the City of San Gabriel is one of acre and half-acre garden tracts producing oranges, lemons, vegetables and poultry.

In the opinion of Counsel these bonds constitute a direct obligation of the San Gabriel Water District, with an unlimited power of general taxation upon all taxable property in the district. The bonds are additionally secured by the pledge of revenues derived from the operation of the water system.

NOT PREPARED

The old deacon was the kindest of men, deeply religious and always ready with a good word. One day while he was driving to town he overtook an Italian peddler with a large pack on his back. Stopping his horse the deacon suggested that the man ride. The Italian carefully stored his pack in the back of the spring wagon and then climbed to the seat beside the good deacon.

For some time the two talked pleasantly. Then there was a long pause, and, thinking to improve the occasion in a religious sense, the deacon turned and asked, "My friend, are you prepared to die?"

With a shriek the Italian sprang to the ground and disappeared into the near-by woods. The offer of the deacon only hastened the fellow's flight, and neither the deacon nor anyone else ever saw him again in that neighborhood. It seems that the peddler was not prepared.—[Youth's Companion.

The Opportunity

The controlling interest in an established industrial factory operating in the heart of Los Angeles, building the essential equipment for general transportation demand throughout Southern California is available upon small investment.

The Reason

Those holding control wish more large investment to remain, but will permit a reduction of their holdings in order to consummate plans for expansion of business.

The Way

The control is obtainable by a nominally small sum which will quickly reimburse the investor from profits now accruing. Being an exceptional proposition it will amply repay any sincere investigator.

FRENCH TRADE IS DISTURBED

Fluctuations of Exchange Cause Trouble

Swiss Industries Badly Hit by Drop of Franc

Chamber of Deputies Delays Tax Action

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, July 30. — The fear of exchange variations is disturbing the commerce of France, and even more, that of her neighbors who were beginning to find trade opportunities with the 9-cent franc which are now lost through the decline of the past week.

Switzerland is the greatest sufferer, as her clock-making industry is stagnating more than ever, with most of its former customers bankrupt and France now able to produce cheaper. Her second most important industry was the tourist trade, which she is tempting with slight success by quoting French currency at minimum rates.

After great sacrifices, and after lowering wages, England had just succeeded in competing with French coal mines at Briey and Pash-De-Calais, but the exchange rates have now automatically pushed her from this market with the business offered by the unusual American demand.

While France thus seems to be the smallest immediate sufferer from the depreciation it is having the effect of making the cost of importations high at this time when about 2,000,000 tons of wheat will be needed to compensate for crop shortages. But compensation may be found in the fact that this will strengthen the determination to become independent of foreign assistance.

This year's quota of 950,000,000 gold marks reparations in kind probably will not be more than half attained. But by 1925 a billion and a half might be available which potentially would equal 4,000,000,000 paper francs, thus covering the expected deficit automatically without resorting to Draconian methods, which otherwise would be necessary.

The finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies has adjourned until October, thus putting off the proposed additional taxes in order to see whether they might be dispensed with in the light of future happenings.

From the technical point of view the great operation for the reestablishment of credit lies in the continued reduction of interest rates, which should proceed on a more rapid scale, since all of the large issues this year are over with the termination of the credit nationale loan of 3,200,000,000 francs.

FINANCES OF LONDON DULL

Usual Summer Stagnation Held Responsible

Britons Marking Time for French Developments

Feeling That Exchanges May Take Bad Slump

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, July 30.—The usual period of midsummer stagnation has set in on the London Stock Market. The week's trading has been very light. The desire to mark time until it is known what will emerge from the coming political discussion doubtless also accounts for some of the lethargy.

The eighth anniversary of the beginning of the war finds the economic and industrial life of Europe still seriously deranged and there is evident in some business circles here a sort of sense of impending developments quite different from the usual pessimistic note which is almost traditional with British business men.

EXCHANGES UNCERTAIN

It is felt that the continental exchanges by no means have plumbed their lowest levels, but rather are hanging on the edge of an abyss into which they might be precipitated by a failure to reach some political accord within the next few weeks. There is dissatisfaction with the uncertainty surrounding the date of the Poincare-Lloyd George conference. Meanwhile, the projects for wiping out international indebtedness had two setbacks in England—first, the unexpected opposition of such newspapers as the Manchester Guardian, and second, the hostility of the extremely powerful Federation of British Industries. The manifesto issued by this body Friday contained the following significant statements:

"It is open to serious doubt whether isolated and premature action by Great Britain could hasten the general settlement and there is reason to fear that it might prevent it. In the English and American press almost unctuous appreciation of the generosity of the debt-cancellations suggestions is experienced, but there is no hint of reciprocal sacrifices. There are strong indications that whatever the effect of further experiences in post-war economics may be, public opinion, both in Europe and America, is not yet ready for any general scheme of cancellation or modification."

NOT REPRESENTATIVE

The London Times retorts:

"We can confidently assert that this document does not represent the considered views of the leading financial and economic authorities of London."

In all this it is well to remember that the British government is not definitely committed to anything and if the past is a criterion, Lloyd George again is engaged in a process of which he is master—sounding public sentiment without resorting either to votes of confidence in the House of Commons or a general election.

AWAITING FRENCH RESULTS

There is no doubt that the government here is watching very closely the progress of the French debt funding mission at Washington and that it is in no hurry to send a British mission before French negotiations have been completed.

However, there is one thing which could check the motions of the all-complicated wheels within wheels which are operative in the international financial situation and precitate some sort of action. That is the further collapse of the exchanges. As the Allied currencies made only a weak recovery after the slump due to the crisis over the last reparations payments, such a pass is not regarded here as wholly improbable.

Large Leaching Plans Made by Copper Concern

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARKER (Ariz.) July 30.—Large leaching plans have been made by the Arizona Standard Copper Company, which has forty-one claims fourteen miles east of Parker, including what is declared one of the largest oxide-carbonate ore deposits in the Southwest, averaging 3 per cent copper, with over 30,000,000 tons available. The mine has been under development for sixteen years. Now under erection is a leaching plant to handle 300 tons a day, for the time precipitating on scrap iron, though it is proposed later to install an electrolytic plant similar to that at Ajo.

All the heavy machinery already is on the ground, including power plant, crusher and ball mill. The enterprise was started by Thomas J. Carrigan, now deceased, succeeded as manager by his son, W. E. Carrigan. Its president is J. P. Sweeney, a former West Virginia banker; secretary is E. W. Gillett, former traffic manager of the Salt Lake Railway system; the treasurer is S. S. Wold, president of the Tom Reed Gold Company of Oatman, and included in the directorate is Carl Leonardt, president of the Southwestern Portland Cement Company of Los Angeles.

EXTREME HEAT WILTS MINERS

Work at Oatman Progresses as Usual

Exploration Pushed on Big Jim Property

Secret Pass Now Yielding Rich Specimens

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KINGMAN (Ariz.) July 30.—Although handicapped by extreme heat, work is being prosecuted as usual by Oatman workers. United Eastern is milling about 10,000 tons a month, said to average better than $15 gold, and is pushing work on exploration of its Big Jim property. Telluride is a steady feeder for the Tom Reed mill, with ores that run above $50 in gold, and has a four-foot ledge below the 500-foot level that samples $138 across the fact. United American has contracted for a 250-foot southwest cross-cut on the 500-foot level and is shipping to the Tom Reed mill.

VEIN EXPECTED

United Western drilling, now down about 650 feet, is expected to strike the United Eastern vein very soon. Gold Dust has completed eight holes from the 500-foot level, with statement issued that all have found ore assaying from $8 to $300, though no report has been made concerning the width. The vein is one that had faulted and had been considered lost. Gold Ore is preparing for shipments to the Tom Reed mill from a vein five feet wide on the 500-foot level and sampling $15. Much ore already is on the dump and will be handled at the rate of fifty tons a day. Development on the 800-foot level shows the vein continuous from the surface. Oatman Gold is reported to have struck rich ore in drifting on the 500-foot level. Baltic drilling is approaching 500 feet and is said to be in mineralized ground.

RICH SPECIMENS

Some of the richest specimens ever locally seen are coming from the Robinson-Sands property in Secret Pass, now developed only to seventy feet of depth. A small mill is operating on these ores and is serving to defray the cost of exploration. In the same section, the Orphan property is being operated under bond by Olsen, Vandover & Bell, who are milling six tons a day in the Loftus mill. A ten-day run gave a forty-seven-ounce brick, valued at about $900.

Near the Standard Minerals property, the McGee Bros. on the Welch mine have cut a twelve-inch streak that samples from $75 to $500 in gold and silver. Ten tons of such ore have been taken out for shipment.

SLUICING STARTED

The water situation in the Katherine mine, on the Colorado, is reported well under control and the management is sinking to the 700-foot level, on which much lateral work will be done.

On Silver Creek, west of Oatman, sluicing has been started on gravel brought up from bed rock. The main difficulty is in hadling the water flow below.

Near the mouth of the Grand Canyon, in Northern Mohave county, Edward Carson and associates have located 2240 acres of placer ground in the Colorado River bottom. A favorable report has been made on the proposition on A. A. Hassan, mining engineer and placer expert.

In drifting from a 300-foot level cross-cut on the Hackberry Extension, A. L. Johns is reported to have run into a remarkable body of pay ore.

STRIPPING OPERATION EFFECTIVE

Sacramento Hill Mining Produces 4000 Tons of Ore Each Month

BISBEE (Ariz.) July 30.—Silicious ore to the possible extent of 400 tons a month is being taken from lower faces opened in the Sacramento Hill stripping operations. This is going to the Copper Queen smelter at Douglas as flux.

The local Copper Queen management has taken over all timber and supplies on the Higgins mine, now under option to the Phelps Dodge corporation.

It is announced that no operation of the property is contemplated in the near future. The second unit of the Phelps Dodge Moctezuma mill at Nacozari, Sonora, will be started within a few days, raising the copper output of the Moctezuma branch to about 3,250,000 pounds a month. Concentrates are sent to the Douglas smelter. The mill has been under construction for two years past, under plans made by H. Kenyon Burch.

Work is being prosecuted on a long 1800 level drift that is to connect the new Campbell shaft of the Calumet and Arizona Company with the main Junction shaft. Much water has been encountered, enough to stop operations occasionally till there has been drainage. Hoisting and pumping for the Campbell section are to be at the Junction. A new hoist on the tunnel level is to be installed by the Calumet and Arizona on its Eighty-five mine, near Lordsburg.

T. Evans, manager of the Cananea Consolidated Copper Company at Cananea, Sonora, states that the property will be in condition to resume operations some time in August, when there shall have been completed much work of re-equipment, repair and improvement at the mines mill and smelter. Whether the property will resume production or not is a matter that rests with the state of the copper market.

Development is to be resumed soon on the King Copper Company's mines in the Chiricahua Mountains, financed by George L. Pace and Company, a Dallas firm. The company has consolidated holdings of sixty claims and has cleared away all litigation. A favorable report has been made by Engineer C. W. Botsford.

Shipments of 6000 ounces of silver have been made from the small cyanide mill on the North Bonanza lease in Tombstone by Wooton, Hilton & Jacobson.

START NEW FURNACE AT CLARKDALE

Ore Production Increased by Arizona Concern; Adds 200 Workmen to Pay Roll

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

JEROME (Ariz.) July 30. — United Verde has started another reverbratory furnace at Clarkdale and has added a couple of hundred men to its pay roll. Above Jerome the steam shovels are handling 3000 yards of material a day and are approaching the old mine workings from which is expected a large tonnage of good smelting ore, secured at a minimum of extraction cost. The upper shovel level will enter the old area at twenty feet of depth. Mine water has been turned upon the first of the leach heaps of 5000 tons.

United Verde Extension is reported to have cut an entirely new ore lens on its own property, not in connection with the work on the Jerome Verde annex. There is admission that important discoveries of oxides have been made on the 1300 and 1400-foot levels.

Verde Central has about completed its 850-foot station and will install skip pockets. Thereafter drifting will be started along the contact. The station has been cut in black schist, carrying much copper. On the west side the tunnel, now 1500 feet long, is to be carried 500 feet farther. New machinery is in operation at the shaft head and all is ready for a program of fast development. Financing is by the Calumet and Arizona Company ,owners of a large block of stock.

Dundee Arizona, under Engineer W. E. Defty, is continuing development of its upper carbonates on the tunnel level. The lower workings are flooded and no decision has been reached by the Scotch control with regard to deeper exploration.

Verde Jerome now is under management of William Gohring, formerly assistant general manager of the Copper Queen at Bisbee. A new surface plant is being installed, with electric power from the near-by lines of the Arizona Power Company. The shaft and workings are under repair and a sinking pump has been ordered to drain the shaft.

Shea has resumed development work, after straightening its shaft. The main work is to be at 650 feet.

TO DECIDE CASE TODAY

South Pasadena Interested in Court's Finding

Newspaper Publisher Asks for Injunction

Litigation is Outgrowth of Political Fight

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, July 30.—Superior Judge Wood's court will be the cynosure of South Pasadena eyes on Monday. For it is then that Judge Wood is scheduled to hand down a decision in the injunction of E. O. Wickizer, newspaper publisher, restraining the City of South Pasadena from interfering with his construction of a business block. The case was debated for three days last week. Judge Wood took it under advisement for a Monday decision.

Mr. Wickizer was arrested on two counts, one the starting of a building without a building permit; the second the construction of a business structure on restructed residential land. Added interest has been given to the case as it has been charged that Mr. Wickizer's so-called illegal action arose through animus against the present majority of the City Council whom he vigorously opposed in his paper during the last election. Eleven laborers were arrested with Wickizer on the second count.

It is said that a majority of the residents in the district where Wickizer started his structure are favorable to business. The City Council has referred to the City Planning Committee the question as to whether this section between El Centro street and Monterey Road on Fair Oaks avenue, should be called a business district. This commission, consisting of Case Bradford, Norman F. Marsh, H. C. Vedder, Georgia P. Bullock and R. L. Mason, have just had their first meeting. They pointedly avoided the Wickizer controversy, however, not wishing to anticipate an action of the court.

Should Judge Wood fail to uphold the injunction Mr. Wickizer will face the possibility of 180 days in jail, the extreme penalty on the two counts for which he is held.

TAX LEVY IS FOUGHT BY NATIONAL BANKS

RESIST MOVE OF LONG BEACH TO COLLECT ON THEIR DEPOSITS

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, July 30.—Whether or not municipalities and counties have the right to collect a tax on savings accounts in national banks will likely be determined soon as a result of a suit just instituted by City Assessor Burton H. Bridge to attach the bank account and a Packard automobile belonging to Leo V. Meeker, president of the Long Beach National Bank. The suit is to collect $223.31 as city taxes on savings of $16,500 in Meeker's bank.

Long Beach banks, it was explained, have long desired to secure a court ruling on practice of both the city and county assessor to tax savings accounts in national banks while failing to tax similar accounts in State banks. The suit will be in the nature of a conflict between the United States government, through its banking officials, and the county of Long Beach over a city tax and bank management.

POLICE SHOOT BOY BURGLAR

Youth in Long Beach Ward Will Recover

Officers Say Youngster Has Criminal Record

Wounded While Attempting to Escape Arrest

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, July 30.—After an all-night search of police records here Chief of Police McLendon this morning established the idenity of the youthful prowler who was shot late last night by Detective Beney Kane, while endeavoring to escape from officers.

The youth, now in Seaside Hospital with a bullet in his thigh, is Leonard Martin, 21, a graduate of a reform school, and sent to that institution in February 1920, from Long Beach, after he had been captured in a house which he was burglarizing, according to the police.

He lives at 1722 East Sixty-fifth street, Los Angeles.

From the time of his capture last night until this morning, Martin refused to divulge his identity, telling the police that they were paid for finding out such things themselves. Martin was caught by Officers Kane and Richardson, while he was in the act of sneaking between two houses. Commands from the officers for him to stop made him attempt to escape and the chase led through back yards and over fences, Officer Kane finally stopping the youthful, burglar with a shot from his revolver.

Police records show that Martin was caught by Chief of Police McLendon, Sergt. William Dovey and Detective Ralph Alyea of the night of Jan. 14, 1920, while he was in the act of burglarizing the M. B. Richard residence, 1050 Pacific avenue. Entering the house, the officers found him hiding beneath a bed. He had an automatic pistol in his hand, they say. For this crime he was sentenced to Ione until he became of age; he was released just recently.

Surgeons at Seaside Hospital today said Martin's condition is not serious. He will be charged with attempted burglary when he recovers.

Expert Shoe Pitchers Will Toss for Title

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, July 30.—The California State horseshoe pitchers' tournament is to be held in Long Beach September 28, 29 and 30, it was announced here today by officials of the local horseshoe pitchers' organization. Prizes totaling $400 in cash will be distributed to the winners of the tournament.

Four events are scheduled. The fifty-point walking game will be for the State championship. A contest for teams, one from every club in an elimination series. A ringer gage where eight shoes will be pitched to each game, ringers only counting, and a contest for players having records of from sixteen to twenty ringers each, will be the features of the tournament.

Officers of the local club, but recently elected are: H. W. Thomas, president; E. W. Seward, vice-president; George E. Krinhill, secretary and treasurer; W. P. Holly, assistant secretary.

Motor oil breaks down "almost immediately"—if it contains destructive "sulpho" compounds

Few motorists realize the damage resulting from the use of motor oil containing destructive "sulpho" compounds. A well known treatise on lubrication says: "The presence of 'sulpho' compounds makes itself apparent by an almost immediate decomposition of the oil when exposed to heat."

Cycol is free from these destructive "sulpho" compounds. They are eliminated by the new Hexeon Process, developed and used solely by the Associated Oil Company.

Cycol withstands engine heat—retains its body—maintains the essential lubricating film between moving parts—helps greatly in sustaining an "oil tight" piston seal. Prove this by flushing your engine with fresh lubricating oil, not so-called flushing oils or kerosene—and refilling with Cycol.

The importance of the Lubrication Chart

Different brands of motor oils have different bodies. The safest, surest way to get the best performance from your motor and avoid expensive engine troubles due to incorrect lubrication is to use the grade of motor oil specified on the Cycol Lubrication Chart.
